In relation to the bill, may I briefly state that the Democratic Party has consistently, and does stand for increases of pay to teachers in the fourth class school districts, as we have announced it in this particular piece of legislation. May I also say that in addition to that we feel that the expense of that increase, as well as the cost of the increments that are provided for in this piece of legislation should be borne by the State and not by the school districts in any proportion whatsoever. May I state that this is apparently the great difference between the two parties. Apparently the Republican Party has felt that the distribution of that extra increase as well as the increments should be divided in the same proportion in which the salaries are now divided. Our party states that the State should meet that entire increase.

May I add to the statement that the budget as delivered to this House provides for a three million dollar increase in the appropriations and under the plan as it was devised by the Republican Party apparently one-half of the money would be recaptured. Under the present plan, with the increase herein provided, the entire amount will be expended so that we are not disturbing the budget in any particular in passing this piece of legislation.

I am asking the support of the Members of the House for this bill.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not intend to take up much time speaking on this particular piece of legislation because of the fact that we have this Americanization Program today, but I feel that no part of this state set-up has any more to do with Americanization and the propagation and continuation of American ideals than the public schools do. I feel that I would not be taking my proper attitude on this and doing the thing that I feel I should do if I were not to make a few remarks on the question.

I have here a bulletin of the Pennsylvania State Store clerks presenting their case for a wage increase. Today the State Store Liquor clerks in the State Stores of Pennsylvania receive a salary of not less than one hundred dollars a month or twelve hundred dollars a year. That is the poorest paid employe of the Liquor Control Board, and yet I say to you, there are in Pennsylvania today 15,866 elementary school teachers and nine thousand high school teachers in the fourth class school districts who are receiving less than twelve hundred dollars a year for their services in a position where they are building American character, building citizenship instead of disbursing material which will tear it down. Forty-nine percent of these people have college degrees, four year college degrees. I want to ask you in all sincerity how many of these liquor store clerks, how many of the managers, have gone to school four years beyond high school, put in four years in college in order that they might sell liquor over the counter? There is a very fundamental principle here that we have to take into consideration, and we can well afford to spend a little time and thought on this problem. I want also to call to your attention to the fact that less than one-half of these people who teach in the fourth class school districts of Pennsylvania receive eight hundred dollars a year. Applying simple arithmetic and dividing eight hundred dollars, less retirement, by twelve, and you will find out what these fourth class teachers have to live on. There is a principle to be presented here of Americanization in this bill. It talks about calibre, that the conduct of the State Store system in Pennsylvania depends upon the calibre of its personnel. Only with adequate compensation can the Liquor Board maintain its high degree of efficiency, through the qualified personnel, in the face of conditions today; the unquestioned loyalty of service of store clerks and managers, many employed for five or more years, in maintaining service at a high standard. I want to ask you how many school teachers in this state have been employed for more than five years at eight hundred dollars? And there has been very little consideration given to that problem or the conditions which they face. It says here, "Due to the fact these people have been employed seven years they feel that they are entitled to a reclassification that will put them up to at least $1380 a year." What kind of Americanism do we call this? What kind of a system is that which will pay more to dispense liquor than education? I would like to call to your attention one more thing. It talks about one-man operated stores. The average pay for the one-man operated store is $127 a month. One hundred and twenty-seven dollars a month multiplied by twelve makes $1524 a year. I say to you that there are many one-man operated school districts in Pennsylvania today on eight hundred dollars a year. How long are we going to continue to allow such inequality to exist? I can also point out to you something else, I have one other point to make. You have been wondering where you are going to get the money to pay for the increase in salary in the fourth class school districts. Here is the answer. As a matter of fact the wage income throughout the state, it is highly probable that the income anticipated will be considerably less than the actual income which will accrue to the State.

I say to you, let us have a leveling off of salaries; if there is going to be a state income of more than they anticipate through the liquor business, instead of continuing these others in a higher salary bracket let us bring up the fourth class school districts to the rightful position to which they are entitled. I thank you.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a brief statement which I think will clarify some of the points that have been raised. I believe both sides of the House are in agreement on the provisions of this bill. From a few words dropped by one or two Members on the other side it would seem that the Committee did not give proper consideration to the various bills.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair will now declare a recess for the purpose of holding an Americanism Program, pursuant to House Resolution No. 58, adopted March 25, 1941. The Chair hears none and a recess is declared.

AMERICANISM DAY PROGRAM

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) IN THE CHAIR

BILL ON THIRD READING

The SPEAKER. At the time of recess the House had under consideration House Bill No. 277, on third reading. Mr. Harkins was addressing the House.

The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rose a few moments ago because the remarks made on this bill, House Bill No.

277, would indicate that proper consideration had not been given to the various bills relating to the increase of salaries for fourth class school district teachers. A number of these bills were in Committee and they were all referred to the proper sub-committee which gave honest consideration as to which bill would best serve the purpose of the Assembly, or which bill would be the one that could properly be passed.

With reference to the remarks of the gentleman from Wayne, Mr. Dix, concerning his bill, the sub-committee in charge of all these bills recommended that House Bill 277 be reported out, and the committee saw fit to accept its recommendation.

With reference to the inference that proper consideration has not been given to fourth class district teachers, I too would like to see higher salaries paid than we are providing in the present bill. I have worked and labored in Committee with reference to the provisions contended in the bill which was originally reported out, House Bill 165, and after long consideration it was felt that that particular bill could not gain the support necessary to pass it. After it had been re-referred to the committee, the sub-committee decided to report out House Bill 277, as I have stated.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is unfair to criticize a particular sub-committee and the committee as to its sincere desire to do as much as possible for the fourth class school district teachers.

I might also say there are other questions concerned in the matter of salaries for Liquor Store clerks, which do not properly pertain to this particular bill. It is unfair to condemn the Members of the House by such a comparison, and I would like to call the attention of the Members on both sides of the House to the fact that this bill provides for greater compensation than is recommended in the Governor's message to this Assembly. We have not approached this as a political problem and we are not trying to send to the Senate a bill with which they can reasonably find fault. We are trying to do as much for the teachers of the fourth class school districts at this time, as we who have caucused among the various groups on both sides of the House feel we can expect to get at the present time. We know it does not represent an ideal bill and we know in the future those of us who will be back here will be able to press forward and probably increase the increments both in size and in number.

I want to ask the support of the Members on both sides of the House for this bill.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to correct a false impression created during this debate. This bill, I feel is a fair bill in every way. If these skin-flint fourth class school districts will not provide a decent wage for their teachers it is up to the State to do it, because the perpetuity of the State depends upon the efficiency of our common school system. There is one thing most of our bills do not do. In this instance we vote this burden on the districts, but we also provide for taking care of the expense. I think you will agree with me that we have spent just about one-half of our time during this session in discussion and providing for things that do not pertain to the State whatever. I do not think it is right to raise the wages of the firemen in Philadelphia, which is truly a local matter, unless we provide the wherewithall to pay the expense. The same is true in reference to policemen in Pittsburgh. That is a local affair, it is not our affair. Yet we put the burden upon that community without raising the wherewithall to pay the burden. This bill does not do that. It is a fair bill in that respect.

One reason brought forth for supporting this bill was because the State Liquor Stores are not paying their employes sufficient money for the work they do. They hold responsible positions and therefore they should have good pay. In that case, however, the business provides for the pay. It is like an employer taking enough out of his business to pay his employes. It is not a burden on anybody else except the state. It is purely a State matter and it certainly will do me good to vote for one bill that pertains to the state's business. I hope they will get their wages raised. Therefore, I wish not only to advocate the justice of this bill from the standpoint of raising the wages of teachers who are very much underpaid, but we have the good sense to provide the wherewithall to pay those wages.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, two weeks ago we paused in our legislative duties to pay tribute to a great American. That great American was Thaddeus Stevens. He stood upon the floor of this House in 1835 and fought for free public schools in the state of Pennsylvania. I believe if we wish to be consistent the greatest tribute we can pay to that great American and to the American way of life is to vote favorably upon this bill, because education is the cornerstone of democracy and the first line of defense.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I realize the Speaker is very anxious to get this session over and I do not want to take up too much time of the House.

I regret that the Majority Floor Leader has seen fit to inject politics into the discussion of this bill. There is one thing in connection with this bill I would like to say and that is for four long years the Democrats were in control of the state government and of this House of Representatives and at least for one session were in control of the Senate, and during all that time they could find all the money they wanted for political hacks but they couldn't find any money for fourth class school districts. That is the difference between the Republican and Democratic party.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I make this statement, the teachers in the fourth class school districts have waited twenty years for legislation of this kind. My memory, if it serves me correctly, would indicate that sixteen years of that time was under Republican administration and it required the Democrats to initiate the legislation to give teachers what they desire. As a matter of fact we are doing it without added expense to the local property owners. We are placing the whole burden on the state. We have initiated the program not because of the Republican party but because of the merit of the cause and because we do believe it is the proper approach to the problem. May I reiterate, Mr. Speaker, that for sixteen years the Republican administration has been ignoring these teachers, two of those years last past.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I only want to take up a moment of your time. I think this bill is a whole lot more important than your baseball game. Mr. Achterman has just said that the Republicans had sixteen years in which to pass a bill of this kind. I wish to say that it seems to me that the Democratic party in their four year long interim certainly had plenty of opportunity to present a bill of this kind. The thing I resent is, finally after the Democrats did get around to having the majority in the House they could not think up anything of their own but they had to steal my bill.

I wish to thank the Member from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, for defining for me what is proper consideration. Proper consideration for my bill was to kick it out and pickle it. As far as the state is paying the increments under this bill, I have the same fault to find that Mr. Achterman found last night, the fact that the Printers did not put put that statement in the bill and it had to be sent back to the Printers for correction. At the time I took this bill to the Reference Bureau I made the statement to the attorney there, if my recollection is right, I did not want any cost of these increments placed upon the local districts, that I wanted my bill to provide that the state would pay the increments. Furthermore, it was my intention if this bill ever came up to have it amended. The Democrats kicked my bill out and here is my bill under Democratic sponsorship.

Mr. McFALL. Mr. Speaker, I think this debate has taken a very serious trend. The gentleman from Wayne, Mr. Dix, has continually charged somebody with pilfering and confiscating his bills. I think something should be done about it, and as one Member of the House I would advise Mr. Dix to get in touch with some insurance agent and take out a theft policy.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Dear God, Our Father, show Thyself in the midst of this marvelous though frightened world. Help us to see Thy law written on the fleeting hours, the bursting of blossoms, the green fields, and in the mind of man. Help us, we beseech Thee, to interpret that law as perfect love. Thus shall we feel at home in Thy universe, afraid of nothing, despairing of no one, never alone. Thy love makes this world the fit instrument for our growth in grace and guarantees the final victory of those who put their trust in Thee. Keep us ever in Thy love, and help us to love like Thee. Amen.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday the minority leader of the House was interested in securing some information relative to the deficit of his administration, and I agreed with him that I would furnish that information in some detail. I am now prepared to give the information that he requested.

The first item of deficiency, Mr. Speaker, represents borrowings from special funds authorized by the special session of 1940, in the amount of $59,550,000. If he will take his budget message and turn to page two he will find it recorded there. In addition to that in the present session to repay motor license fund, the additional sum borrowed from that fund is $6,400,000. He will find that amount, Mr. Speaker, also in the budget, on page two.

In addition on page two of the budget he will find the sum of $4,950,171, which is the proposed deficiency appropriation deferred to June 1st, 1941. In other words, that means that they intend to use funds of the coming biennium to meet that particular deficit. Then again, Mr. Speaker, and this is not reflected in the budget or at least all the figures are not reflected in the budget, but you will note that the general fund is credited with anticipated tax of $356,767,312. The Revenue Department advises me that collections have only been made in the amount of $350,279,847, which leaves a shortage of $6,487,465. That, may I say in passing, Mr. Speaker, is in spite of the fact that the particular appropriation that we made early in the session for relief and which the Republicans had hoped would suffice for the last three months of the biennium, included some $5,000,000 of increased revenues. Whether the $5,000,000 should or should not be added to the deficit is rather difficult to say at the present time, but for the sake of avoiding argument I have not added it at the present moment. If I did then the figures would approximate $95,000,000 instead of $90,000,000.

The next item, Mr. Speaker, and this must be fresh in the minds of the minority, is the appropriation for May relief deficiency appropriation, which amounts to the sum of $6,300,000.

May I state in passing that $2,150,000 of that sum represents the postponement of payments to the sinking fund.

The next item, Mr. Speaker, the Governor, as you possibly will recall, stated that he estimated there would be $3,000,000 in funds that would lapse. Turning to the budget, you will note appropriation lapses, actual and estimated, up to May 31st, 1941, deducted is $12,386,210.37. I have been advised by the Auditor General's department that that is in error and that the correct amount is $10,169,403. As a consequence, Mr. Speaker, it makes a difference of $2,216,798. That is the actual amount that would be capable of being recaptured in the form of lapses and creates a deficit of $783,202 from the Governor's figures.

Then lastly, Mr. Speaker, is the deficit that appears on page two which amounts to $6,380,374. That makes a grand total deficit of $90,851,212. In passing, may I say again, that is, provided the return of taxes for the remaining month will make it possible to recapture $5,000,000 that the Governor estimated and which does not appear in the offing at the moment.

INTERROGATION

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I am particularly interested in finding out from the gentleman whether it is his opinion that the present apparent estimate of revenue is $11,487,000 short of what the estimates were upon which the appropriations were based.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, that is correct. However, may I enlarge on that by stating that the figure I have given, that is, the sum of $90,000,000 plus, in that figure I have not included the sum of $5,000,000 I have allowed that much of a margin for the Governor to work on,—he took it anyhow.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman has used the $5,000,000 twice again.

Do I understand him to say that it is his opinion that the revenues for the biennium of 1939—'41 according to present indications are going to fall at least $6,487,000 short, and possibly $11,487,000 short of the estimates upon which the appropriations were made?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker. I am positive the facts will not bear that out, but I would like to interrogate the gentleman further, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will proceed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, may I preface my question with the statement that the gentleman realizes of course, that the estimates of revenue are made for the entire biennium, that they have now had twenty-three twenty-fourths of the biennium and have one twenty-fourth of the biennium left, in other words, one month. I realize that the gentleman understands that.

Do I understand the gentleman to say that this $6,487,000 figure is the difference between the estimated revenue and the actual revenue to this date.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman realizes, of course, that there is one month of revenue yet due.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE, Mr. Speaker, then the gentleman certainly does not expect that there will be no revenue received during that month.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. No, Mr. Speaker, I am assuming you will get $5,000,000. I haven't added the $5,000,000 in my figure.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman, of course, realizes that the entire figure will be in excess of $5,000,000 because that represents the total amount of estimated revenue upon which appropriations have been made, therefore, the shortage will be $11,487,000 instead of the $6,487,000. I want to know whether the gentleman is sure that the estimated revenues is at this date $11,487,000 short or whether it is $6,487,000 short.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is actually short $11,000,000 in his collections.

Mr. WOODSIDE. In other words, in order to meet the estimated revenue, we must receive during the month of May $11,487,000?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman says that we will receive during the month of May $5,000,000, according to his estimate?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, how does the gentleman arrive at that figure?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, because the major portion of taxes has been paid. It is purely an estimate, based on the same grounds as the Governor's budget.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman made any inquiries from the Department of Revenue or from the Auditor General's department as to what they expect the revenue to be coming into the General Fund during the month of May?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the $5,000,000 is his own estimate?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman inquired what the income was during the month of May 1940, 1939, 1938, 1937 or any prior year?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Yes, Mr. Speaker, there was a comparison made there. I have forgotten what those figures were but they seem to reflect that our estimate is reasonably correct.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel that the Department of Revenue has been about $6,000,000 too high in the estimates during this biennium?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, that is very interesting, in consideration of what was said in the Senate this week, that the Department of Revenue was much too pessimistic in their estimates, and the probabilities are that the estimates are much too low, and that the State is bound to receive more income from taxes than the Department of Revenue is estimating it will receive. I am interested now to learn from the other side that the alternative is true, that the Department of Revenue seems to be too liberal in its estimates.

COMMITTEE MEETING

Mr. HARKINS. asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to announce a Public Hearing on House Bill 1054 to be held Tuesday evening next week, May 6th, at 6:30 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, in the House Caucus Room. I particularly ask the Members of the press to call this hearing to the attention of the people who are interested in House Bill 1054, the American Federation of Labor and the schools who are interested in the school band bill of Mr. Rush, to be present at that time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. AUKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask permission of the House to introduce into its record of the Legislative Journal of this Session the speech of the Honorable James E. Van Zandt delivered at the Americanization program on April 30th. I respectfully ask permission of the House for its introduction on the pages of the Legislative Journal, believing that this inspired address should be reduced to print for the benefit of posterity.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its consent to spread upon the Journal of the House the speech made by the Honorable James E. Van Zandt? The Chair hears no objection. The speech of the Congressman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal. Did the request of the gentleman from Blair include the addresses of both Congressmen?

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I will be very happy to make that request, however, I do not hav a copy of the speech of the Honorable Francis Myers with me.

The SPEAKER. The Chair accepts the amendment and the speeches of both Congressmen will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SHEPARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Honorable Francis Myers is the Congressman from the Sixth Congressional District of Pennsylvania, which happens to be my own Congressional District, we think of him as one of the greatest Congressmen and one of the finest orators who has ever graced the Halls of Congress. Consequently we are very happy to have his speech included in the Journal, because we feel it will be a source of edification and enlightenment for others to read beside the Members of the House. I want to thank the gentleman for making that inclusion.

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE FRANCIS J. MYERS

HONORABLE FRANCIS J. MYERS. His Excellency, Mr. Speaker, distinguished guests, members of the House and Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, you have graciously invited me here today to participate with you in these ceremonies in the anticipation of tomorrow's observance of Americanism Day.

You have asked me to say a few fitting words. This is difficult, for great men, great Americans, have spoken great words for their beloved America long before any of us were born.

So let me as an humble man speak a few humble words today.

We are gathered here this afternoon not as partisans but as patriots, not as lawmakers but as citizens. We have assembled here not to denounce others or to speak too boastfully of our own accomplishments but rather we have come here to speak earnestly together as Americans.

The American ideal is not one of great riches, buying a lavish progress from servile nations.

The American idea is not one of power, tramping feared and unmolested throughout the world.

The American idea is not that we shall all be kings but that we all shall be free men.

Our forebearers and our comrades fought that they might have as good a chance as any and that all might have as good a chance as they.

They fought that they and their children—and their children's children—might have a homeland which would set a new course in the world, a course of decency, friendship and democracy.

They had in mind no marble halls or dainty luxuries.

They had in mind work-hardened hands, modest comforts, proper rewards for their leaders and a dignified decency of life for their followers, including even the least fortunate.

They fought that their son's dreams, that your boy's dreams, might come true; they sacrificed for a country where he might gain the ambition and the desire of his heart.

They struggled so that their aspirations, their aims, their impulses, their very life might have expression. They loved this Country and this land for the opportunity which it gave them—whatever might have been their origin—to rise to the fullness of manhood.

They gave this Country a new philosophy of government, founded upon the theory that government to be practical and to be ultimately successful should be conducted in the interest of all the people and be participated in by all the people regardless of their station in life or their ownership of property. They believed that the entire people could be trusted to do justice better than any one man or group of men. For such a theory makes for safety in government and for orderly progress instead of revolution.

Officers of the American Legion Post No. 51 and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 47, of Uniontown, Fayette County, are with us here today. And it is just and proper and fitting that they are. For it was in that western City of Pennsylvania that Americansm Day was first conceived by the veterans of that community.

Some of their comrades never returned from the fields of France, and too often do we hear it said that their struggle was in vain. All too frequently has it been said—and, I might add, said sneeringly and disparagingly—"they died to make the world safe for democracy."

Well, my Fellow Pennsylvanians, I believe they died to give us a respite to carry on the American ideal; to carry it on toward a perfection for which we must always strive. Those patriots and our forebears died to make or to preserve our Nation.

They died to protect our Freedom and our Liberty.

They died, whether twenty-five or one hundred and sixty-five years ago, to insure that the children of today and tomorrow and next year—children as yet unconceived and unheralded—might live in the American way.

They died that we might have a free America in 1941, whose greatness we might be free to observe tomorrow.

But let us not boast of our Americanism unless Americanism is truly in our souls. We intend to preach Americanism tomorrow but what is it?

We know it does not exist, that there is no such thing unless it is in our souls.

It is the spirit of our Country. It is the never ending searching of the mind and the heart and the soul for an ideal, for the thing that is better. It is high in the Heavens and has come to us from the very throne of the living God.

You are men of the people, the maker of laws, the living symbols of our democratic way of life. You are the people's representatives, and into your keeping is entrusted the safety, the welfare and the liberty of the people of Pennsylvania.

But you have a greater responsibility even than this. A more sacred trust has been imposed upon all of you. For in the soul of each of you is a spiritual quality which represents your Americanism. It is finer and better than the individual himself. It is that quality which makes us discontented to stand still; which compels us to push ever forward and onward; which prompts us to strive for perfection and the unattainable.

That is the very essence of Americanism, for America is truly an aspiration.

We must secure it within our hearts, every last one of us; we must develop a passion for Americanism, not only because Americanism is the living, vital spirit of this Nation but because it is the most uplifting spirit that has come to man's soul from our omniscient Creator.

On the European Continent today democracy, the kind of democracy so sacred to us in America, is dead as a doornail, "gone with the wind". America and Britain are democracy's last fortresses, its final safeguards.

There are only two basic systems of government in the world today. One is the theory of natural rights, and that is democracy. The other goes by the high-sounding title of totalitarianism.

It all boils down to Americanism versus the other thing—call it Communism or Naziism or Fascism—but it is easier to say liberty or tyranny, right over might.

In the fateful struggle which has enveloped practically the entire world, in which the destiny of civilization will probably be determined, the issue is clear, for the ideals which we cherish have been shattered and destroyed and trampled into the earth in foreign lands.

The fight is for the vindication of the indivdual, if need be against the world; the triumph proclamation of God in your conscience; the complete backout, the final destruction of all isms, with their cold, brutal absorption of men and women in the remorseless schemes and ambitions of a soulless state.

Three and one-half years ago the President saw the danger ahead and spoke these words: "America hates war. America hopes for peace. Therefore, America diligently searches for peace."

What has happened in the world since the President uttered those words? Peaceful peoples who sought and hoped for peace—just as we do—have seen their countries overrun by the mad dogs of Naziism, their freedom and liberty and way of life destroyed.

During those three and one-half years the President has striven for world peace. He has raised his voice time and time again in an effort to halt the mad rush of foreign dictators. He endeavored to calm them before the world became embroiled in this present mess. He sought to have them settle their difficulties around the conference table.

But the dictators heeded not. They closed their ears to reason. They turned their backs on God and have marched their mighty legions to the four corners of the European Continent.

After war was declared the President labored to avert a similar tragedy in the Western World.

Again and again during those three and one-half years the President warned the American people of the smoldering fires abroad and of the need for adequate defense at home only to have his opponents accuse him of warmongering.

During those years your President had the vision and the foresight to warn America and to build its defenses, and yet the opponents of his foreign policy ofttimes reached into the garbage cans for political hatred and abuse.

I believe it is high time to throw off the cloak of complacency, forego our smug security and cease minimizing the dangers of economic and military aggression on this side of the Atlantic.

Why? Because there is a very real danger, a living actual menace. Let us not be lulled to an eternal sleep by an appeasement refrain.

Don't disregard the vivid lessons taught by recent European history. Don't say, "It can't happen here." It can.

Liberty has been blitzkrieged on the European Continent and hate and intolerance have ascended the throne where once reigned freedom and justice and human happiness. But even more important, democracy and Americanism are on trial in our own land.

Undercover organizations are fanning the fires of hatred and sowing the seeds of discord and appeasement among our people.

They work quietly, desperately, busily, to stir up and spread throughout the land false doctrines, crude and cruel hatreds designed to split our Nation and obstruct and slow up our National Defense efforts.

These subversive elements, alien in their origin and foreign in their loyalties, are penetrating into every activity of our people. They have attached themselves to peace groups, joined civil liberty organizations, wormed their way into pacifist committees, associated with those who preach prejudice and intolerance. They have played race against race and religion against religion, and have had the effrontery to participate in the affairs of civic and patriotic organizations.

Our people are ofttimes contaminated because they do not realize that we are at the crossroads; they do not yet comprehend that total victory for the Axis Powers in Europe lengthens the shadow of war across the waters of the Atlantic and the Pacific.

With what joy Hitler and Stalin and the military of Japan must witness the progress of their emissaries in dividing our people; how they must rejoice when they witness political attacks on the leader of the world's greatest democracy for speaking in the cause of decency, religious freedom and natural rights.

What large comfort the appeasers' derogatory and abusive attacks upon the President and our Government must be giving Hitler, for it plays right into his hand. He joins with them in the struggle to divide our people and soften America.

If Britain falls, America stands as the final safeguard for democracy.

The foreign policy adopted by your Government has been predicated upon such premises. We desire and we hope to maintain peace in the Western Hemisphere, but we have not been blind to the forces of war and destruction which were let loose upon the world. We are building our defenses strong and impregnable so that we will be secure from any attack.

I believe that this Nation has arrived at the very definite conclusion that there can be no just and lasting peace anywhere in the entire world—or for that matter any free or democratic way of life—if the forces of aggression are triumphant in this war.

And, therefore, we have thrown the entire industrial and economic strength of our Nation on the side of democracy and freedom.

I do not believe that Great Britain is fighting our war but Great Britain is fighting for a cause in which we have a vital stake, and I sincerely believe that it is in our National interest that she survive.

How can we maintain the Monroe Doctrine if she goes down; how can we possibly maintain the American standard of living; how can we maintain the free way of life for ourselves if all the rest of the world is in bondage?

How can we live alone and compete and survive in a dictator-ridden world unless we too adopt a dictator economy and build and maintain continually a military machine equal to theirs? How can we avoid the maintenance of an armed camp in America for generation upon generation? And how can American business and American labor stand up under the appalling and hitherto undreamed of taxation which must inevitably follow?

That there is a certain risk involved in doing what we have done I admit. But there would be an infinitely greater risk in doing nothing in the face of a combination of aggressor nations which have already overrun fourteen independent countries. For we must recognize the character of this aggression and that it is a living threat, not only to the American way of life but to the American system and Americanism itself.

The President has held true to his course and believes the course he has charted is least likely to lead us over the brink of war, is most likely to preserve the American spirit from crucifixion upon the swastika of hatred which the foreign infidels have prepared for it.

America has become the world's hope that the spirit of democracy will continue to live and breathe and flourish; it is the champion of liberty and religion and right as against tyranny and might and intolerance. Here is the voice which carries comfort and faith to peoples all over the earth who, though in temporary slavery, still cherish and believe in and hope again for freedom.

May God in his infinite goodness and wisdom prevent the horror of war from spreading over here. May He watch over American spirit which itself came from His Bountiful Heart. May He give our President the strength and courage to carry on and spare him to keep us at peace and lead us all out of the maze of world destruction, this valley of death and tears, into the bright sunlight of hope and faith and contentment.

Hovering about us here today, consoling us, counselling us, must be the undying spirit of our fathers and of all those who have served America in the years that have fled, for they all had a burning passion for their beloved country and an all-consuming hatred for oppression and aggression.

My friends, let us hold high the flying banners of faith and loyalty and courage, sure of the nobility of our cause, sincere in our devotion to principle, let us on the morrow, Americanism Day of 1941, rededicate ourselves to the American spirit and make America more worthy of all our dreams.

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE JAMES E. VAN ZANDT

HONORABLE JAMES E. VAN ZANDT. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House of Representatives, and fellow Americans: It was with a sense of deep gratitude that I accepted your kind invitation to address you on such a momentous and unique occasion. As a member of the Congress of the United States you and I have much in common. We are charged with grave responsibilities in discharging our trust as legislators for a free people.

It is noteworthy that this body of duly elected Representatives of the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pause in their deliberations to give expression to the basic ideals on which this nation was founded. Your action is comparable to that of Congress, when on the birthday of George Washington the National House of Representatives pays tribute to the Father of our country by reading and meditating on our First President's Farewell Address.

Gentlemen, in my capacity as a member of the Congress of the United States I congratulate you on your exemplification of true Americanism. By your example, you have demonstrated that the zeal and patriotism of the early Colonists who founded this great Commonwealth still burn brightly in the heart of every Pennsylvanian. It was on Pennsylvania soil that the breath of life was given to this great nation. At Philadelphia were adopted the Articles of Confederation; there the Declaration of Independence was written and signed; there the Treaty of Peace that ended the Revolutionary War was ratified, and there also the Constitution of the United States was formulated. Today Independence Hall in Philadelphia stands as a mighty monument commemorating the birthplace of this nation, and it truly depicts the Quaker City as the Cradle of American Liberty.

We as Pennsylvanians have a proud heritage in the patriotic fervor that permeated our forefathers. Their contribution to this great Republic is one of the brightest pages in the history of our great nation. The courage and valor displayed at Valley Forge, Brandywine, and Fort Necessity spurred on the gallant stand that caused the Union forces to make Gettysburg the turning point in the Civil War, and has since transformed its hallowed ground into a national shrine. The torch of freedom given to us at Gettysburg has been carried aloft by loyal Pennsylvanians through the Spanish-American and World Wars.

Today as the war clouds gather over this last peaceful nation, Pennsylvanians true to their traditions are rallying to meet the challenge to the American way of life. The tramp of marching feet resounds in all of our 67 counties as Pennsylvania youth respond to the call of their country. Industries hum with activity as they strive to break all production records in their determined effort to supply the needs of an adequate national defense.

In short—Pennsylvania, the keystone in the original 13 States, is truly today the cornerstone of our national defense efforts.

Here in Pennsylvania we have room for only one ism —true Americanism. An Americanism that keeps strict faith with every word in the Bill of Rights and in every line of the Constitution. We believe in the kind of Americanism that give you and me the right to express our opinions, to approve or disapprove, to commend or criticize, as we see fit.

Our Americanism gives us a legal right to meet under the same roof as co-workers in the ranks of labor, as farmers in our local Granges, as business men in our Chambers of Commerce, as fraternal brothers in the Masonic Order, or the Knights of Columbus, Eagles, Elks, Odd Fellows or Moose.

We recognize and cherish the spirit of Americanism which leaves our newspapers free to print anything that does not conflict with the laws of libel or decency. As business leaders, laborers, or farmers, we appreciate the right that is ours to publish our own periodicals without the heavy hand of a censor to tell us what we the people are allowed to read. We realize that a free press must be available to all, and that if we deny it to those with whom we disagree today it may be likewise denied to us tomorrow.

As taxpayers and law abiding citizens, the Americanism we advocate gives us the privilege of presenting our petitions to the highest court in the land if we feel we have been wronged. We insist as true Americans that nothing shall interfere with that right.

If our public servants, our duly elected representatives in our town councils, our County and State Legislatures or in the Congress of the United States enact laws contrary to our ideas we believe in the kind of Americanism that grants every citizen the opportunity to petition our law-making bodies for corrective legislation. We want that opportunity as individuals. We want it as farmers, laborers, lawyers, doctors or bankers, if we feel our mutual welfare is being endangered.

In 1620 our Pilgrim Fathers migrated from England in search of individual liberty. One of their most important objectives was to establish homes in a new land where they could cling to the religious faith in which they believed. The Americanism we know teaches us that the blessing of religious freedom must be ours forever if America is destined to survive. There is no compromise with this fundamental truth. You and I would be repudiating Americanism if we should deny our neighbor the right to walk with his Lord and his God in his own way.

Tolerance for the rights and privileges of others is the essence of Americanism applied to religious freedom, free speech, free press or other individual liberties. There must be freedom for all or freedom for none. Those who would have America half free and half slave are traitors to the spirit of Americanism.

Let us keep this fact uppermost in our mind at all times—Americanism is not something you can sell for a price nor is it something you can take off and put on when you own a certain kind of uniform. Americanism is a way of life—a way of living, and not something you acquire by paying membership dues in a secret society.

The real Americanism that we know, feel, and breathe in Pennsylvania is the nation's gospel. Can anyone of us look on the world today and fail to thank God for the blessings of our form of Government? We are the most fortunate of nations. Nowhere else today is there a people so free to pursue life, liberty and happiness. Yet this blessed privilege is abused by many so-called Americans and efforts made to destroy it in various ways.

Today Americanism is being challenged by enemies within and without. There are insidious forces at work within our own country who are seeking to undermine the basic ideals of the American form of Government. These political termites are tirelessly gnawing at the pillars of the Republic. They are encouraged by indifference on the part of many lukewarm Americans and by the active work of foreign governments.

Regardless of how false and dangerous are the political philosophies of the Communist, the Nazi, Fascist, or any other group, we must admit reluctantly that the advocates of these new fangled political concepts are fired with a fanatical zeal and enthusiasm that staggers the imagination.

This nationalistic frame of mind has transformed into a mighty military machine a nation that in 1918 was conquered and subdued. For seven years prior to the present war you and I read in the newspapers or witnessed in the news reels the systematic effort employed to arouse the national consciousness of the second greatest industrial nation in the world—Nazi Germany.

We saw legions of German youth depicted in brown shirts and raising their hands in salute to an insignificant

Austrian paper-hanger, now held in abject contempt by the nations of the world as the "Beast of Berlin"—Adolph Hitler.

Today those same youths are the spark-plugs in the blitzkreig that has reduced nine countries in succession to a state of servitude.

Let us dwell for a moment on the activities of other nations since the year 1920. When we look back we now recall with vivid recollection that while Hitler pursued his program the remainder of the world was content to take everything for granted and be lulled into a false sense of security. When the rude awakening came, we found that not only other nations but even ourselves were unprepared for this new challenge to the peace and security of the civilized world.

Through the grace of God we as a nation have been spared actual combat with the ruthless forces now overrunning the plains of Europe. Meanwhile, we are engaged in a feverish effort to build an adequate national defense at the earliest possible moment. Such a gigantic task provides a real testing ground and an opportunity to view the principles of true Americanism at work.

The need for a united nation devoid of any partisan motives was never more apparent as we shoulder the burden of providing an adequate national defense.

What we need is more enthusiasm and zeal for Americanism! If the Dictator nations can muster loyalty and enthusiasm for their bloody and lustful regimes, what is there to prevent America from casting off her lukewarm attitude and experiencing a revitalization of American principles and ideals.

The crying need of the hour is for every American regardless of creed, race, or social position to be inspired by the courage and fortitude of those brave patriots to whom Valley Forge and Gettysburg proved the acid test of their patriotism and found them unafraid and glorious in their victories.

We fellow Americans may have honest differences of opinion in regard to many questions, but there can be no compromise on the fundamental principles of Americanism.

Our tolerance as a nation intended as a blessing has been seized upon by subversive groups to promote their own gospels of hate and oppression. To those alien parasites let us in unmistakable terms serve notice that their presence here among a free people will not be countenanced. Let the Communist return to Russia and face the secret trial and consignment to an unmarked grave by the light of the moon. Let the Nazi, Fascist and their kind return to the fatherland where the principles of human liberty have been discarded and where no man dare call his soul his own.

There should be a mass movement on the part of every Legislative body to provide the means of transportation to these base ingrates who, while enjoying the privileges and blessings of America, are in the same breath laboring incessantly to uproot and destroy every vestige of liberty and freedom. Let them demonstrate their sincerity for Godless Russia and Nazi Germany by departing from our shores, and every loyal American will utter a prayer of thanksgiving.

In similar fashion, I hold no brief for the luke-warm American, but instead regard him with contempt. The day of reckoning has arrived, and he must remove his cloak and stand revealed in his true light as a pussy-footer and one who accepts the blessings of American citizenship with no thought of assuming its duties and obligations. Today America is for Americans and let such a slogan be on the lips of every school-child, preached from the pulpits of the nation and inscribed on every heart.

In this critical period of world history let us evaluate the many blessings that are bestowed upon us by citizenship in this great Republic. Let us join with that distinguished employe of the National House of Representatives, William Tyler Page, in subscribing wholeheartedly to the lofty sentiments contained in his famous composition entitled "The American's Creed":

"I believe in the United States of America, as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

ADJOURNMENT

SENATE

MONDAY, May 5, 1941

The Senate met at 3:30 o'clock, p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

Most Gracious Heavenly Father, we bow in humility before Thee for we remember that in the beginning of all things Thou didst bring order out of chaos and made light to supplant darkness. Over our troubled world this day may Thy Spirit brood so that we may have order again to prevail and light to shine among the peoples of the earth for Thy true light is being rapidly obscured by the evil machinations of men whose sole ambition is the subjugation of the nations of the earth.

Amidst the trials and falsity of far-flung propaganda may our people and our leaders keep our feet upon the ground and our minds and hearts open to Thy counsel lest we too forget Thy precepts and fail in our allegiance unto Thee in a time when Thou mayest be found.

Keep our people, therefore, O God, true to our traditions and honest in their spiritual convictions that that which may lie immediately ahead in international relationships shall be directed according to Thy will. With that direction we need not be fearful nor ashamed.

In the beginning of this week's labor in this General Assembly we seek Thy favor that our accomplishments in legislation may meet with Thy approval and be to the very best interests of our people. This we ask in Jesus' Name. Amen.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. BECKER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 796, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 594), entitled "An act establishing certain township roads as State highways, authorizing their construction, maintenance, and improvement under certain conditions and restrictions; limiting the obligation of the Commonwealth in the construction of certain structures located on such highways; conferring certain powers upon the Department of Highways and local authorities, persons, associations and corporations for sharing the cost of the maintenance and construction of such highways; and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act," as amended, by changing Route 36174, Lancaster County.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. JAMES read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 797, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Highways for the construction of roadways and parking areas on the premises included in the Pennsbury Memorial.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WALKER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 798, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand eight hundred ninety-five (P. L. 212), entitled "An act to establish an intermediate court of appeal; regulating its constitution, officers, jurisdiction powers, practice, and its relation to the Supreme Court and other courts; providing for the reports of its decisions, the compensation of the judges and other officers and the practice and costs on appeals from its judgments," by increasing the term of office of judges hereafter elected and further regulating the election of said judges.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President. I rise in my place to present to the Chair two bills dealing with workmen's compensation and in doing so I ask for permission to make a short statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland may proceed.

Mr. DENT. In presenting these two bills, Mr. President, I believe I am striking at what has probably caused more trouble in workmen's compensation since its inception than any other feature of compensation, and that is the rate setting.

Now, Mr. President, under the one bill I propose that the state workmen's insurance fund be removed from the jurisdiction of the rate setting bureau, known as the Pennsylvania Rating Bureau, and that it set its own rates according to its own actuarial figures, thereby giving the employers a rate that is justified by the losses and the experience rating.

The second bill, Mr. President, allows and forces the insurance fund to put solicitors to work. Under this administration, particularly, solicitors are no longer employed by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund and therefore the record of the fund will necessarily be bad and inasmuch as the record of the fund is used as the basis upon which rates are set for the coal mining industry, particularly the rates are necessarily high.

Under the past administration, over fifty solicitors were employed by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, who went out and solicited business on a businesslike basis, and under that administration money was made by that fund, but under this administration money is being lost by the insurance fund and inasmuch as the taxpayers have to stand a great deal of the expense of running all the agencies of government, I feel the time has come when the state insurance fund should take its proper place and give the employers of Pennsylvania compensation rates that they are entitled to give, if they only follow their own figures.

Mr. DENT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 799, entitled:

An Act to further amend section five of the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 762), entitled "An act providing for the creation and administration of a State Fund for the insurance of compensation for injuries to employes of subscribers thereto; declaring false oaths by the subscriber to be misdemeanors; and providing penalties for the violation thereof," by imposing the duty on State Workmen's Insurance Board to solicit employers of the Commonwealth to insure with the State Workmen's Insurance Fund.

Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 800, entitled:

An Act to amend sections six hundred fifty-four and six hundred fifty-five of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled "An act relating to insurance; amending, revising, and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations, and exchanges, including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws," by excluding insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund from the provisions of the act.

Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

Mr. CAVALCANTE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 801, entitled:

An Act to validate and confirm certain contracts, heretofore entered into by boards of school directors, where there is no evidence of fraud or conspiracy, and to authorize, ratify, confirm, and validate payments on such contracts by the school district.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. HOMSHER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 802, entitled:

An Act to further amend section one thousand two hundred sixteen of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," providing for sabbatical leaves of absence for employes of State teachers colleges and the Cheyney Training School for Teachers.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 803, entitled

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the eighteenth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 48), entitled "An act requiring banks, trust companies, bank and trust companies, private bankers, and building and loan associations to disclose the amount of deposits and investments of persons applying for or receiving unemployment relief under certain circumstances," making the said information available to county institution districts and city departments of welfare.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 804, entitled:

An Act to amend sections 2 and 3, and to further amend section 4 of, and to add section 4.1 to, the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2045), entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted; providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives, and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons; providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons; providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of the property of deserters; and providing procedure," imposing certain liabilities upon certain relatives of indigent persons; making after-acquired property of such persons liable for the public moneys expended for their care and assistance; providing for the collection of claims for past care and maintenance; making the act effective as to indigent persons who are mentally ill; imposing duties upon certain fiduciaries; and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

L. 997), entitled "An act providing that the statute of limitations shall not be a defense against claims of poor districts for the maintenance and support of persons who are public charges, including mental patients," extending the provisions of said act to include the claims of institution districts, and also to claims against relatives who are legally liable for the care and maintenance or financial assistance of indigent persons.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. ZIESENHEIM read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 806, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause (a) of section one thousand two hundred sixteen of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by further regulating sabbatical leaves for certain school employes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. T. B. WILSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. T. B. WILSON, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 177, entitled:

An Act regulating and limiting the rights of slayers in real and personal property and in the benefits from insurance policies, arising out of or as a result of the death of the person slain; and protecting and saving the rights of purchasers and insurers dealing with slayers without notice of the slaying and repealing certain legislation.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION

Mr. WADE. Mr. President and members of the Senate we have before us on the Calendar for today, on page 8, Senate Bill No. 550, Printer's No. 148, which in substance changes considerably the state government of Pennsylvania. It carries out a trend that has been somewhat in evidence for the past two years. It is interesting to note, in discussing the matter with one of the members of a special committee under the State Government Commission, having to do with a study of civil service law in the State of Pennsylvania, I was advised that they decided unanimously against it. As a matter of fact they said that law was inefficient for state employes, that they showed a discourtesy to the public generally, and because this bill we have before us tends to further promote what is known in civil service what to my mind was not meant for efficiency or not meant as a courtesy to the people who are entitled to it, I think that every member of this Senate is entitled to know just what this bill would do to the particular department that is affected.

Now, first, may I say, Mr. President, that just recently a member of the cabinet of the State of Pennsylvania was asked a direct question to which he did not make a direct answer.

I should like to know, before I vote on this bill, how many people in that department are affected by federal contributions and how many people are not affected by federal contributions. As a matter of fact, it is my firm opinion from a study of the matter that we should know before we are asked to vote on a bill of this kind.

For that reason, Mr. President, and members of the Senate, on behalf of my colleague, the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor, who jointly sponsored this resolution with me, I ask permission to place before the Senate a resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO FURNISH INFORMATION RELATIVE TO EMPLOYES IN STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

In the Senate, May 5, 1941.

Whereas, The administration of various social security laws within the Commonwealth in which the Federal government assumes a portion of the cost, has resulted in the practice of having the names of employes appear on both State and Federal payrolls; and

Whereas, Employes who heretofore received a good wage from the Commonwealth for their entire employable time have now had their compensation materially increased, and render no additional service for such increase; and

Whereas, The receipt of payment for services from two employers results in a divided allegiance and is contrary to the age-old biblical admonition to the effect that "man cannot serve two masters"; and

Whereas, This Senate should have full knowledge of the extent to which such practice has developed so that a study can be made of the actual appropriations necessary for administrative purposes; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby instructed to request the Secretary of the Department of Health to forthwith furnish to the Senate the following information:

1. Total number of employes in the Department of Health.

2. Total number of employes in the Department of Health who receive compensation only from the Commonwealth.

3. Total number of employes in the Department of Health who receive compensation only from the Federal Government together with their names and addresses, the date of their appointment and the amount of salary received by each.

4. Total number of employes in the Department of Health who receive compensation from the Commonwealth and from the Federal Government together with their names and addresses, the date of their appointment, the date of the commencement of dual payments of compensation and the amount received from each the Commonwealth and the Federal Government.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration of the resolution on the ground that while I am in absolute accord with the right and the necessity for the information requested, the recital clause of the resolution sets up suggestions with which I can not agree. That seems to me to be the trouble with most resolutions introduced in this Senate, that they have a subject which is germane and valuable but they spoil it with the recital clause, which binds me to an idea or thought which an individual member of the Senate has.

For that reason, Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration of the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. There has been objection and the resolution is referred to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to correct an error in the statement of the gentleman from Cumberland in connection with the resolution he has just offered. The gentleman said no man can serve two masters. I want to remind the gentleman from Cumberland we are serving only one master and he is Uncle Sam and he lives in Washington.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. HEYBURN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, May 5, 1941.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, May 12, 1941, at 3:30 o'clock p. m., Eastern Standard Time, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, May 12, 1941, at 8 o'clock p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION SERIAL NO. 125 CALLED UP FROM TABLE

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Resolution, Serial No. 125, which was laid on the table.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution was read as follows:

SENATE CONCURRENCE RESOLUTION

Serial No. 125. (Not printed). Legislative Journal Page — By Mr. HEYBURN.

PETITIONING PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS TO CAUSE REPEAL OF CERTAIN CLAUSES OF SOCIAL SECURITY ACT

In the Senate, April 15, 1941.

Whereas, The Federal Government recognized in the original Social Security Act that the administration of unemployment compensation laws is properly a function of the various states and accordingly designed the act as an inducement to the adoption of the program by the states themselves; and

Whereas, The funds received from the Federal Government for the expenses of administering the state acts have in the first instance been taken from employers of the states themselves; and

Whereas, The Social Security Act has prior to and since its amendment August 10, 1939, required the state acts to meet a prescribed standard as a condition to the eligibility of such states for the refund of their expenses of administration; and

Whereas, By amenment of August 10, 1939, clauses (8) and (9) were added to subsection (a) of section 303 requiring as further conditions to the refund of such administrative expenses, the following:

"(8) Effective July 1, 1941, the expenditure of all moneys received pursuant to section 302 of this title solely for the purpose and in the amounts found necessary by the Board for the proper and efficient administration of such state law; and

"(9) Effective July 1, 1941, the replacement, within a reasonable time, of any moneys received pursuant to section 302 of this title, which, because of any action or contingency, have been lot or have been expended for purpose other than, or in amounts in excess of, those found necessary by the Board for the proper administration of such state law;" and

Whereas, Said clauses (8) and (9) are unnecessary for the reason that ample protection is afforded the interests of the Federal Government by the existing requirement for approval and certification of state laws by the Federal Social Security Board; and

Whereas, Said clauses are improper for the reason that they attempt to give the Federal Government power to encroach upon the domain of the states in determining their own questions of procedure and administration in which, because of geographical locations, peculiar governmental procedures and processes, and other differentials, there must necessarily exist wide variations among the several states which cannot be standardized, nor can a particular state efficiently adopt a procedure in regard to one of its functions which would be out of harmony with its general practices; and

Whereas, Clause (9) makes possible by a single act of the Federal Social Security Board the upsetting of established precedents existing under present state unemployment compensation laws already approved and accepted by the Federal Board and requiring the repayment of funds heretofore legally expended, nor does said clause have any limitation either as to the scope of the inquiry or as to the time in which demand for repayment must be made; and

Whereas, The enforcement of said clauses will have the effect of giving the Federal Government complete and arbitrary control over the administration of the unemployment compensation program which the Federal Act itself recognizes as a proper function of the states themselves; and

Whereas, If said clauses are allowed to become effective they will grant to the Federal Government control of the administration of any state or local law where the benefit of Federal funds is or may be obtained; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully memorialize and petition the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States to cause said clauses (8) and (9) of subsection (a) of section 303, of the Social Security Act, as amended August 10, 1939, to be repealed prior to its effective date; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted to the President of the United States and to each Senator and Representative in Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

RULE 39 SUSPENDED

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not think memorializing Congress will result in immediate repeal of the act, but I do think those of us who have an interest in this subject matter should put ourselves on record with regard to our feeling about the sections that are suggested to be repealed.

As I read this resolution I recall that it affects the unemployment compensation act which was passed in the Special Session of 1936. It was passed at a time when states had refrained or neglected to make any provision for the results of unemployment. In fact, in this state it was passed for the first time by the convening of a newly elected group of members of the Senate before they usually take office. It was usual for newly elected Senators to take office the first of January following their election. They were convened together in a Special Session in December of 1936, and the reason for that was that according to the social security act, unless the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania adopted an unemployment compensation law, the $25,000,000 which then represented the amount that would be received on the one per cent tax would have gone to the federal government, and the employes of the State of Pennsylvania would have received no benefits, although the employers would have been obliged to pay the tax.

That act was passed, Mr. President, and was passed with respect to its civil service provisions after conferences with the representatives of the government who insisted upon civil service so that the monies which would be expended, contributed by the government, that is returned by the Federal Government to the State for administrative expenses would be properly administered.

We all know recently there has arisen a difference of opinion between the Department of Labor and the Federal Government. I do not pretend at this time to know or discuss who is right in that, but I do know that basically the law in Pennsylvania with respect to civil service is the same law as has been insisted upon by the Federal Government throughout the country and that the administrative expenses are not figuratively but are actually contributed by the Federal Government, because a tax is paid to the Federal Government, with a credit against the tax for any amount of money paid by the employer to the state. The difference between the two, in the one per cent, consists—I think, of three-tenths of one per cent for civil service, which, together with all other contributions from other states of a similar amount, is deposited in the fund and is distributed by the Federal Government, and it is distributed, according to my recollection, without regard to the amount of actual contributions; it is distributed on the basis of what the state needs for the purpose of operating and properly administering the fund.

These amendments that were suggested to the Federal Act were made necessary apparently because the various states requisition certain amounts for administrative expenses and then do not incur the expenditure, and these amendments were made for the purpose of controlling the expenditures so that, first, the Federal Government would know there was no more money received than was expended and, secondly, so that the Federal Government would be able to see to it that the monies went to civil service employees. That means persons engaged and appointed and maintained on the basis of proper civil service.

Mr. President, this resolution is a recommendation on our part that we should say to the government that you ought not to have that kind of a law because, as it says in the recital clause, that gives you too much control and gives you the right to put your fingers into state affairs which are none of your business.

I personally cannot subscribe to the proposition that money coming from the Federal Government to the state does not give the Federal Government the right to see that it is properly expended.

I do not argue with you the proposition on which there are two opinions, as to whether or not the state should accept money from the Federal Government, but so long as the state is accepting money from the Federal Government, it is my opinion the Federal Government has the right to set rules and regulations for its expenditure.

Therefore, Mr. President, I personally am going to vote against the resolution and I ask my colleagues to do likewise.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia seems to be in error on two or three points in connection with this resolution. To begin with, we are not accepting money from the Federal Government, so to speak. This three-tenths of one per cent paid into the Federal Fund in Washington to administer the act in Pennsylvania amounts to between ten million and twelve million dollars a year on the average, and we have been getting back about seven million dollars for administrative purposes.

Now, Mr. President, every once in a while, the Chief of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation sends down to Washington a schedule of proposed expenditures, along with the personnel, salaries, pay rolls and so forth, and that is approved by the Social Security Board and money is sent to Pennsylvania to cover that payroll. Now, Mr. President, any improper expenditures which may have been made can be taken care of the next time you go to Washington to requisition money.

Notwithstanding any disputes between Secretary Hines and the Social Security Board, the whole thing is that the resolution to become effective July 1, 1941, provides for the replacement of all monies received pursuant to section 302 of this title solely for the purpose and in the amounts found necessary by this Board in Washington for the purpose of administration of the said law.

It all comes down to a question of who is qualified to say whether or not the laws are properly administered. There is ample protection for the Social Security Board under the existing act now in effect, because if there is any such thing as improper expenditures, the next time money is requisitioned from Washington an adjustment can be made, which gives you all the protection in the world.

This replacement feature, Mr. President, is very dangerous. Suppose ten years from now we get another administration in Washington—which we may in ten years, I hope—nevertheless they can come into the Commonweauth of Pennsylvania and say way back in 1940 we improperly expended some money and they could demand replacement of that money. That could run into millions of dollars. This resolution has been passed by any number of states, in states where the Democratic Party is in control and in states where the Republican Party is in control. It seems to me rather sloppy business to agree to this sort of thing without at least putting up some kick.

How are we to know, ahead in 1950, that some administration will not insist that monies were improperly expended back in 1940 and demand replacement. We would have no redress from that, Mr. President. The Social Security Board in Washington is the sole judge of that.

It seems to me a very improper encroachment upon state rights and it also seems to me it is very foolish business for us to accept it without at least offering some objection.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentlemen who have just taken part in the debate if I understood correctly that the three-tenths of one per cent paid by Pennsylvania for service amounts to twelve million dollars and the amount which Pennsylvania gets back again amounts to seven million dollars

Is that statement correct, Mr. President?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. What becomes of the other five millions of dollars, Mr. President?

Mr. HEYBURN. That, Mr. President, is in this fund down in Washington for administrative purposes, and probably goes to some states that are getting more money than they are entitled to; more than they contributed to the fund for administrative purposes.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator if we in Pennsylvania have any control over that excess fund.

Mr. HEYBURN. No, not at all, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Do we receive any report from them as to what happens to that money?

Mr. HEYBURN. No, Mr. President, the state has no rights at all. We just requisition money and we have to submit lists of proposed expenditures, along with a list of the personnel, payroll and so forth. Of course, we have to have a civil service system, which we now have, expect to have and must have under the existing law.

Mr. EDMONDS. I think that under those circumstances. Mr. President, the Senate is right in inquiring into the matter, which makes me feel I should vote for the resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it true the three-tenths of one per cent goes to the Federal Government?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. And, Mr. President, is it true the annual income amounts to between $75,000,000 and $85,000,000 a year from the taxes?

Mr. HEYBURN. From all the states, Mr. President?

Mr. SHAPIRO. From the State of Pennsylvania. Isn't it true the income from the State of Pennsylvania from this tax averages between $75,000,000 and $85,000,000 a year?

Mr. HEYBURN. I think that is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Then, Mr. President, how does the gentleman from Delaware figure that three-tenths of one per cent amounts to $12,500,000 a year.

Mr. HEYBURN. It averages between ten and twelve million dollars a year, and it has since the tax reached its maximum of two and seven-tenths per cent

Mr. SHAPIRO. How could it possibly be that, Mr. President, if it is three-tenths of one per cent?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia is evidently wrong in the first figure. I am right in my figure.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I asked, Mr. President, whether it was three-tenths of one per cent or not?

Mr. HEYBURN. It is three-tenths of one per cent, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to enenlighten the gentleman from Montgomery by saying there is a definite reason why some of this money does not come back to Pennsylvania. There is a Social Security Board and it is the function of the Social Security Board to see to it that social security regulations with respect to unemployment and civil service provisions of the unemployment compensation act are carried out. It has a force and it uses some of that money to pay its own expenses; it uses the money as I said before, in distribution to states irrespective of the amount of their contributions. Some states do not contribute as much as is necessary for expenses and therefore they get the expenses necessary from the general fund.

Pennsylvania, if it were in that position and probably it was in the first year of the administration of this act, when its income from the three-tenths of one per cent did not equal the amount of its expenditures—yet the federal government gave it an allowance in accordance with its justifiable requisitions, and so it goes throughout all the states of the nation.

The fund is used indiscriminately, put into one pool as to administration; the other money is regarded and belongs to Pennsylvania solely, that is, the tax itself, so that there is nothing to be alarmed about because Pennsylvania—even if the figures are true, which I doubt personally—does not get back all of its money; very few of the states get back all of their money because most of it is used for expenditures to operate the fund in Washington.

Some states, however, get more than the amount they put in because their income is not sufficient to enable them to properly administer, unless they do get it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, when this resolution started out it looked to me like an innocent resolution but now it seems to me we are getting into water that is pretty deep. We are now confroned with the same principle involved in the question asked by the gentleman from Montgomery.

The same principle governs all monies paid into the United States Federal Government from income or any other federal taxes. We have no separate budget set up for the various states, that they should receive a certain amount in return for a like amount paid into the federal treasury and when we get to that point in this country we are going to have the same situation that they have in Europe; that is what caused the wars and the powers that are built up, because one little nation has a set of laws or rules different from another little nation.

Mr. President, this is supposed to be a democracy. You are striking at the very fundamentals of our democracy when you say money contributed by Pennsylvania can not be expended in other states.

Mr. President, if you will notice the title of the bill, you will see that the social security act is just as fair to a Georgia cracker, just as important to other sections as it is to the coal miners in Westmoreland county and everyone in Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I say what looked like an innocent resolution has brought forth some questions, especially to my mind, that makes me look with suspicion on this resolution. The question of whether or not the federal government gives Pennsylvania its proper amount of money for distribution in the State of Pennsylvania for expenditures that go for administrative costs should not enter into this resolution.

If what the gentleman from Delaware said is true, what he is interested in is seeing that this state does not become surcharged with monies it expends that it may not be surcharged ten years from now; he is interested in seeing to it that proper legislation is passed by the federal Congress that guarantees against the federal social security board taking that action.

I do not think this resolution is necessary, Mr. President. Once they audit the account and say to the Pennsylvania state department head that the persons you have put to work and the expenditures you have gone through are proper and just and we send you a check for that amount they have, to my mind they have already o.k'd the expenditure and therefore you do not need this type of resolution.

However, Mr. President, I want you to look at seriously and consider the question asked by the gentleman from Montgomery, because it is a serious question and strikes at the roots of this case. If we get to a position where Pennsylvania is entitled to only what belongs to Pennsylvania you might as well say this is no longer a Congress of states, it becomes a Congress of nations.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, may I say, inspired by the remarks of the gentleman from Westmoreland, that when we pay taxes we pay taxes for appropriations by Congress and of course they appropriate them to purposes that are in various states. I would not, for one, be willing to argue that all of the money Pennsylvania pays for taxes should come back to Pennsylvania again, although as a matter of fact you could get a great deal more, but this is a social security administered by a commission and not by appropriation by Congress and it seems to me it is important to our taxpayers in Pennsylvania to know that if they pay out twelve million dollars and get only seven million dollars back, and that other five million dollars goes to other states, it seems to me if that is the fact those that pay the money have a right to know it.

I very much hope, Mr. President, there is definite information given about that as a result of this discussion.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. With apprehension, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland what becomes of the money from the pay roll taxes of employers with less than eight employes. That is certainly Pennsylvania money because it is not required by federal law. Does the Senator from Westmoreland say that is money which goes into a common pot? That is certainly Pennsylvania money.

Mr. DENT. I am sorry, Mr. President, I could not understand the interrogation.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, this matter was debated two or three weeks ago and I then called attention to the fact, as you know, that receipts from taxes of employers of less than eight—the federal law begins only with employers of more than eight people. Now, that money, these payroll taxes on employers of less than eight, goes to Washington and I am trying to find out what becomes of it. That certainly is Pennsylvania money.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, three tenths of one percent goes to Washington or rather the assessments against employers who employ less than eight certainly goes to the general fund in Washington; I agree with that, and I also agree it is wrong.

Mr. WOODWARD. I thank the gentleman, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, that money specifically is taxes against those employers and he has no provision for any compensation from the Federal government.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I find that instead of having a brother on this bill as co-sponsor I have a step-brother in Mr. Walker. The original feature of this bill was to eliminate the registration commission which we have in Pittsburgh, and similar to the one in Philadelphia, which are the only ones in the Commonwealth, where there has been major trouble at election time.

In Allegheny County, Mr. President, as I have said before on this floor, we have two commissions, one in the City of Pittsburgh and one in the County of Allegheny. The only reason we have two was that Pittsburgh and Scranton originally were the proving grounds for permanent registration.

The registration act then was set up in every county in the Commonwealth and it was under the control of the sixty-four counties by the county commissioners who are also in control of the various elections.

Now, Mr. President, these amendments offered by my step-brother, Mr. Walker, would take and abolish the county commissioners who are charged with the conduct of elections in the county and place in charge thereof in both city and county, persons who would be named by the Governor of the Commonwealth.

I do not mean to imply, Mr. President, that the Governor of the Commonwealth would not, with the recommendations he would receive from local men, try and do the best job he could, but we do know the county commissioners are answerable to the electorate of the county and these gentlemen who would be appointed in this way would not be.

I have often heard my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Walker, speak about home rule. This is the first chance he has had to demonstrate it and I think he has taken a reverse step; instead of giving us home rule in Allegheny County he wants to run it here in Harrisburg and wants to have a different setup than any other place in this state.

Mr. President, I have heard my colleague from Allegheny speak about the great State of Allegheny, but in view of the way he has changed this bill, I ask my colleagues on this side to vote down the amendments and if I have any friends on the Republican side I ask them to do likewise.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I would like to ask that any action be postponed on this bill until the bill as amended is printed, or at least we have an opportunity to study the proposed amendments. I have heard a lot of talk about these amendments but I certainly am not in a position to do the thing for my constituents that I should unless I have an opportunity to examine them.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I quite agree with my colleague from Allegheny County and to show you the charitable nature that exists, I think my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Barr, might have used the word "legitimate" instead of "step-brother". May I say that the purpose of these amendments, Mr. President—they are somewhat lengthy and it is my purpose, should the amendments be adopted, to ask that the bill go over in its order, before receiving second reading, so that the members of the Senate may have an opportunity to examine the bill as amended.

I think the amendments do this: when the bill was originally introduced the two boards, one in the City of Pittsburgh and one in the County of Allegheny, were consolidated into a new board to take jurisdiction over registration, and that was put into effect and the appointing power placed in the Board of County Commissioners.

Some of the metropolitan newspapers in the City of Pittsburgh have been advocating, not only in the news columns but also in the editorial columns, and some civic groups who profess an interest in the welfare of Allegheny County, Pittsburgh and the State of Pennsylvania, have been advocating that we should remove as far as possible from politics the appointment of a registration bureau that has so much to do with the success of an election. They felt by putting it into the hands of the county commissioners we were just laying the foundation for or paving the way for what might contribute to faulty elections, and they felt inasmuch as the Governor of Pennsylvania theoretically is removed from politics, because he no longer can succeed himself, the appointive power should be in the chief executive of the commonwealth, just as in the case of the County of Philadelphia.

If this bill were adopted, Mr. President, with the suggested amendments in it, Allegheny County would be placed on a status, as far as the registration board is concerned, similar to the appointive power for the Board in Philadelphia, and that was the purpose of the amendments.

Now, Mr. President, I wish to say in all sincerity with regard to this bill and the amendments, I want the two boards consolidated and I say to you very frankly I would prefer to have the appointive power in the Chief Executive of the Commonwealth but on the other hand, rather than lose the bill, I would be perfectly willing to have the county commissioners or the mayor of the City of Pittsburgh or anyone else make the appointments, as long as we get the boards consolidated.

That is the main thing, Mr. President. The question of who gets the jobs is secondary. Very unfortunately for this bill and very unfortunately for Pennsylvania, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County for the moment is in the control of the Democrats, because they have two members on the board, and for the moment the chief executive of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania happens to be a Republican, and that puts both myself and my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Barr, in a position where it looks as though we are arguing for jobs rather than getting the Boards consolidated, but I want to say to my colleagues that when Senator Barr advocates that the appointive power be in the individual board of county commissioners he is doing that sincerely and is not attempting to get jobs for the Democratic Party, and the mere fact he happens to be secretary of the Allegheny Democratic Party organization has absolutely nothing to do with the sincerity of his purpose. I assure the members of the Senate if they permit the bill to be amended and then allow it to go over in its order we will then have a chance to study it and then the real merits of the bill can be discussed impartially and from a non-partisan standpoint by my colleague Senator Barr and myself.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, this probably is none of my business but I do not want my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Walker, to be laboring under any misapprehension about the successful operation of the Registration Commission in Philadelphia, which is appointed by the Governor, because that is a falacy and an illusion I am trying to dispel because we all know they have done a very poor job of it. I do not know whose fault it has been, but if there is any argument about the appointive power I would propose that the Coroner of Allegheny County should have the appointive power.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. May I inquire of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, if this bill should pass and the appointive power be placed in the hands of the Governor, would we have any assurance that the recommendations of Senator Frank Harris from Allegheny would be followed by the Governor?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, the gentleman from Luzerne is discussing some of the more intimate phases of Republican leadership and, not being a leader and not being a politician, I am unable to answer that question.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, it seems to me the memory of my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Walker, was a little short, when he said a Governor could not succeed himself. He probably does not forget the trick he played in 1938 when he submitted his resignation and appointed someone else to his former job.

Now, Mr. President, I am perfectly willing to have this bill lay over but I also want to tell you these amendments were brought up in committee, we had a hearing and they were turned down unanimously.

Mr. President, I suggest the bill, together with the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. The question before the Senate is consideration of the amendments only. The Senate must first dispose of the amendments.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, here is another bill that raises the question that we have discussed on numerous occasions, where the members from the cities ask for something different than they are willing to give to we who come from the rural counties. Now, that reasoning or argument advanced, and a study of the bill, will show that there is no reason in the world why this bill should not be passed in its original form.

I think the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, had the proper intention when he first introduced this bill. I think probably there are some other reasons why he now wants to change the provisions of the bill. In all the other counties of the Commonwealth, the county commissioners who are elected by the people act as the registration commission. No matter what party obtains the majority, there is always a representative of the minority on the board of county commissioners.

Now, unfortunately, in Philadelphia, and these cities of the second class, they are asking for a different law to apply to them, which firmly establishes my contention in previous arguments on this floor, that there seem to be different states here in Pennsylvania.

The people of Allegheny have the right here to be considered. I do not belong to Allegheny County, but I am a citizen of this Commonwealth and when I come to this Senate I come here to legislate for the welfare of all the people, not only the people of my particular district. I do not know what justification may be given for there being two boards of registration in Allegheny County, one for the City of Pittsburgh and one for the rest of the county. Why can not one board of registration suffice for the whole county? As the law now stands, the registration commission is appointed by the Governor. This bill was originally intended to correct that condition, to consolidate and have but one registration commission, and I thought, when I read this bill in committee and out of committee, that no power of appointment was conferred on anybody. The county commissioners were named as the board of registration in the bill. The people of Allegheny County and the City of Pittsburgh would elect their own registration commission when they would elect their county commissioners.

Mr. President, what necessity is there for duplication? The county commissioners maintain a bureau or a set up for the registration of the voters of the county. What necessity is there for a city registration committee? Why can not the same set-up that registers the voters of the county also register the voters of the City of Pittsburgh?

If we have our eyes and our purposes fixed to the welfare of the people and the taxpayers, there is nothing that we ought to do in this matter but vote down these amendments and allow the bill to stand in its original form.

It is absolutely true and, gentlemen, I want you to believe this, because the chairman of the Committee on Elections is here and he can verify it, we members of that committee were here listening to the arguments for and against this bill at one o'clock in the morning and we passed upon these amendments and the committee thought the general welfare of the people of Allegheny County, including the City of Pittsburgh, was better served and best served by the bill in its original form, eliminating this duplication and cutting down the expense of registration, and we voted down the amendments and agreed to report the bill out as Mr. Walker and his co-sponsor, Mr. Barr, had originally introduced this bill, and curses on the politics that injected themselves into the affairs of the Senate.

Certainly it is true that the bill in its original shape would take away from the Governor, whoever he may be, either of Republican or Democratic faith, the power to appoint the registration commission, but that ought to be so. The people of Allegheny County ought to have their own right to say who their registration commission ought to be, and the taxpayers of the County of Allegheny should have the right to say to do away with this duplication.

Now, Mr. President, this set up, wherein the county commissoiners elected by the people are the registration commission for the county, applies to all the counties of this Commonwealth except Philadelphia, where the City of Philadelphia is co-extensive with the county. Now, do we believe in uniformity of laws or do we not? Are we going to permit one law to govern for one part of the people, one county here, and a different law to apply to the rest of the counties?

Gentlemen, let us stick to the original purpose of this bill. I know the Governor, whoever he may be, will not have the power to appoint politicians, but let us do away with the idea for the moment. Let us try to be statesmen anyhow. Let us view this bill as men who are interested in the welfare of the people. There is no necessity for this duplication and I say there is no necessity for that same duplication in Philadelphia.

I think the county commissioners that are appointed in Philadelphia ought to be the registration commission there, the same as the county commissioners are in the rest of the state. Let us try to do away with this eternal longstanding proposition that we ned one set of laws to govern Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and Scranton, and another set of laws to govern the people of the rest of this province. Let us wipe away the State of Allegheny and the Commonwealth of Philadelphia, and let us bring them all into the Province of Pennsylvania. Let us keep this bill the way it is; it is a good bill. Let us forget about politics for awhile.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny state whether or not he is a member of the Elections Committee?

Mr. BARR. I am, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, did the gentleman attend the meeting at which these amendments were considered?

Mr. BARR. I did, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Did the committee act on them?

Mr. BARR. They did.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Were they approved or disapproved by the committee?

Mr. BARR. They were disapproved.

Mr. SHAPIRO. They were disapproved.

Mr. BARR. They were, Mr. President, by unanimous vote.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KEPHART read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 807, entitled:

A Joint Resolution making application to the Congress of the United States to call a convention for proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting the imposition of conditions upon grants of moneys and the invasion of state rights.

Which was committed to the Committee on Federal Relations.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren will state his question of personal privilege.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE UNITED STATES

Mr. CHAPMAN. Dark clouds obscure the Heavens. Sounds of storms grow more distinct. On the horizon one hears the rumble of war. Overseas, death rides, and the gallop of the Four Horsemen echoes through the corridors of nineteen countries. Yet at home we remain complacent. On our streets men by the score in uniform pass our eyes. On their shoulders the insignia of Regiments that have won their spurs in battle. Mothers, wives and daughters walk with the young men who sturdy and strong have enlisted "for one year." They are being trained in the rudiments of war. They are being taught to kill scientifically and with precision.

Ahead of us lies the greatest blood letting that our Nation has ever experienced as the forces of dictatorship sweep through Nation after Nation, pillaging and tearing assunder governments and associations that have been erected most painstakingly, after generations of struggle.

Men who occupy official positions are appalled at the outlook. Many thinkers feel that the most awful events since the time of Christ are under way; that not in all the story of civilization has there ever been unfolded such a regime of terrorism as is now at hand. Alone throughout the world the western hemisphere remains unshaken and untottering on the brink of disaster. But for how long are we to enjoy this freedom from death, rapine, looting and subjugation?

At present the mass of the people seem wholly unaware of the dangers that beset us. The rank and file of Americans remain steadfast in the belief that our position is secure and unassailable. In the world of business, there are signs that even in the face of the defense program which daily is enlisting, plant after plant in the all-out aid for the Democracies "business as usual can be maintained." Perhaps in the hearts of the mothers, whose sons are being sent into the army camps there is a fear that their sons may become cannon fodder and may lie with their eyes turned toward the blue heavens, cold and silent as the clay on a field of battle. Mothers' hearts usually have an uncanny way of registering a forecast of what may take place.

But the awakening is coming. Slowly to be sure, but nevertheless, certain. And in our "allout" aid there must be one great governing principle—The Golden Rule. This must become the guide to our mode of living. There must be a union of strength of arm and mind and even thought, but underneath it all there must be an adhesion to the Golden Rule.

Wars are only the violation of the principle of "do unto others as ye would have others do unto you." And one has only to hastily scan the pages of the past to find that this statement is true in every sense of the word. Our President in one of his Fireside Chats coined the phrase "the forgotten man" but he applied it, as far as I can see, in a strictly political sense and it became an admirable campaign byword.

But had he scanned it closer, he would have seen that "the forgotten man" has been the cause of all wars throughout the ages and even today. And our Nation has largely offended by "forgetting man." In the olden days, it was the downtrodden man who, forgotten by his dictator or his kind, finally arose and smote the ruler hip and thigh. England's famous Magna Carta only came when the "forgotten man" rose in his might and forced from an unwilling upper class, concessions that today still form the basis for the freedom of Englishmen. In our own land the negro emerged free after a bloody war in which our State was invaded. Gettysburg and Appomattox with its blood soaked land, today stands in my eyes as a symbol of a struggle for the forgotten man.

Today we are drawing a distinction between men and women in our own land. The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer, despite the vast millions that have been poured out under a politically conceived relief plan. There must be a program dictated by heart and conscience if the class struggle fomented by those in high places is not to reach a climax, where guns will be fired and blood will flow.

In this preparation for the defense of our liberties and our nation there is offered an admirable time and place for the cementing of our peoples into one solid group.

A scanning of the war now raging across the seas discloses that the absence of the application of the "golden rule" is basically the cause of the trouble. When the victorious group surrounded the Versailles (Var'si) conference table to give to a defeated enemy its peace terms, there were men forgotten. This afforded the Austrian paper hanger the opportunity he sought and with strident tones he harangued the German people until they followed him. He became the leader of the masses and today is drunk with power overrunning the world like a scourge.

In our preparations for defending our land, we must have no forgotten men or class. There must be carefully planned efforts put forth that there will not be created any cancerous sore that will infiltrate into the blood stream of our land and kill our efforts. And thank God there is in our country, a freedom of speech which allows all to give expression to their views. There will be those who disagree with the views held by the leaders of the government. But when sincere they should be given every opportunity to speak them. I cannot help but feel that the slurring remarks made in high government circles relative to Charles Lindbergh have been mistakes and were better not uttered. While I cannot see eye to eye with Lindbergh, nevertheless, I feel that he is entitled to his views as much as I am to mine.

And in this connection, I want to pay to the fraternal orders of our land a tribute. They have done and are still doing, a great work in their teachings of patriotism in our Nation. The spirit of fraternalism of which they speak is one that must pervade our land if we are to stand brother to brother in the strife which we are facing. The fraternal orders have done a great work and have learned that liberty is a priceless heritage, that our country safeguards this spiritual treasure and that all the world looks to our leadership to uphold faith in its ideals.

With conditions abroad such as they are now, we must recognize that the application of the Golden Rule in our daily lives must be given attention. In this Senate Chamber and in every legislative hall in the nation, this shining concept of a better and fuller life must be carried at all times. And when this principle is recognized our nation will make better time in production of essential materials, will make greater strides in handling its labor disputes and will erase friction that breeds trials and tribulations.

We cannot pause too often to scan the horizon for signs or storm; we cannot pause too often for a brief prayer that our Flag may forever stand for the things that make life worth living and keep our place of abode forever "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I just want to call the attention of the few Senators who are still here to the fact that there are about twenty-six days remaining in this biennium, and to the fact that the House still has the tax and appropriation bills tied up, which means that if those tax and appropriation bills do not come over here so the Senate can consider and pass them by the first of June, which starts the new biennium, those on relief will be left without relief, and the doors of the state government will have to close.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, May 6, 1941, at 1:00 o'clock p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 5:48 o'clock p. m., Eastern Standard Time, until Tuesday, May 6, 1941, at 1:00 o'clock p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, May 5, 1941.

The House met at 8 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we beseech Thee to help each of us to dare to refuse the treasures of the world, to recognize the danger in the flattery of our companions, but appreciate the candor in the compliments of a friend. Help us to rejoice in the consciousness of having done our duty and to be glad when our efforts receive the reward of praise; but help us to seek Thy commendation, O God, rather than the world's, and to examine ourselves lest, when our standing is highest with our fellowmen, it be lowest with Thee.

In these troubled days may we look to Thee for leadership, for guidance, for understanding. Bless we pray Thee all men to whom authority has been given. May that trust not be betrayed. As citizens of a great State and Nation may we come to Thee, for Thou alone can give the grace and courage that we need. Hear our prayer, O Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

Hon. Elmer Kilroy,
Speaker, House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Comrade Kilroy:

In behalf of our Comrades of Fayette County, who were the guests of the House of Representatives yesterday, we express to you and the members of the House our deep appreciation not only for yesterday's program, but for the Joint Resolution, which made May 1st, "Americanism Day."

If at any time "Americanism" was needed it is today for, we do not know, where, and what will be the final result, from the present strife now going on in all parts of the World including our great Republic.

Our delegation was particularly interested how the legislature was operating we are very grateful for it, and having an opportunity to see it in action.

We want you to know that today, not only Uniontown and Fayette County is celebrating "Americanism Day," but it is being celebrated in Pennsylvania and in many parts of the United States.

The Legislature may be well proud that it was thru their efforts that some day "Americanism Day" will be on the Statute Books of the Congress of the United States, and that it was in Pennsylvania that gave it birth and it was thru the Legislature that recognized it as a GREAT DAY.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES H. SMITH
General Chairman.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair again reminds the members that all copies of bills and resolutions when introduced must be signed.

In a number of instances within the past two weeks where there have been co-sponsors to bills, two names have appeared on the first copy, one name on the second, and in one case none on the third.

If your name does not appear on the printed bill or calendar do not hold the Chief Clerk's Office responsible.

Please remember after a bill or resolution is presented, the copies as introduced are distributed to the committee, the printer and the press, they have been assigned a number, it is next to impossible to make corrections, and what is more important delay all bills which follow the incorrect one, trying to locate a sponsor who has failed to endorse his bill.

The Chair requests your careful co-operation.

Mr. O'NEILL IN THE CHAIR.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1401, Printer's No. 437, on page 6 of today's calendar, bills on second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1401, entitled:

An Act to amend section six of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051), entitled "An act relating to public assistance; providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children, aged persons, blind persons and other persons requiring relief; providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose; authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with, and to accept and disburse moneys received from, the United States Government for assistance to such persons; providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board, Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund, and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind; and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, and the State Emergency Relief Board," further regulating the establishment of standards and qualifications for assistance.

The first section was read and agreed to.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment, a new section.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Bill, page 3, by adding after line 15 the following:

Section 2 Section thirteen of said act as amended by section three of the act, approved the twenty-sixth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 1091), is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 13. Penalties. (a) Any person who, either prior to, or at the time of, or subsequent to the application for assistance, by means of a wilfully false statement or misrepresentation, or by impersonation or other fraudulent means, secures, or attempts to secure, or aids or abets any person in securing assistance under this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00), or to undergo imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, at the discretion of the court, and also shall be sentenced to make restitution of any moneys he has received by reason of any such false statement, misrepresentation impersonation, or fraudulent means.

(b) Any person in the employ of any county board who, either directly or indirectly, influences or endeavors to influence the vote of any person receiving or applying for any form of assistance or pension under the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred ($100) dollars, or undergo imprisonment not exceeding six months (6) or both, at the discretion of the court.

(c) Any person receiving assistance, who secures employment, and fails to notify the county board with regard thereto and the consideration, salary or wages to be received therefore, within forty-eight hours, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon summary conviction thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars ($25), or to undergo five (5) days imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court, and also shall be sentenced to make restitution of any moneys received during the term of such employment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, It was very hard to catch the amendment, and I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. D'Ortona.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. D'ORTONA. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I am not certain that I caught all of the amendments, but as I understood section C it provides that the guilty party shall be sentenced to make restitution of any moneys received during the term of such employment, is that correct?

Mr. D'ORTONA. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, suppose the person has no money to make restitution, how long would that person be committed to jail or to the workhouse?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, the five days that are called for, for a man to be sentenced to jail and upon his release from jail, and upon receiving employment the men is supposed to make restitution.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, in section 13, which I take it is a new section, it is provided that upon conviction thereof he shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $500 or to undergo imprisonment not exceeding six months or both at the discretion of the court. Now, so far the court has discretion as to whether to impose a fine or to impose a sentence or to do both, is that correct?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, that is in the act at the present time.

Mr. BROWN. The act provides that he shall be sentenced to make restitution, is that in the present act?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, that is in the present act, that he must make restitution.

Mr. BROWN. In the very words that are stated here in this act, "And shall be sentenced to make restitution"?

Mr. D'ORTONA. No. Mr. Speaker, the man will be sentenced to five days in jail or twenty-five dollars fine, and upon his release from jail he would be compelled to make restitution upon the time of his employment.

Mr. BROWN. Does not the gentleman from Philadelphia think he had better make that clear in the act? As I understand him now, the act makes it mandatory upon the court to impose restitution. When the court imposes restitution and the person has no money, I am asking how long would he have to be committed.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, if the man committed a violation, and the man was employed at the time he was receiving public assistance, he would then have sufficient funds to make the restitution.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, supposing he does not have the funds to make restitution, how long will he be committed?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, that is at the discretion of the court.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman not aim to give the court discretion, and does he not have the act backwards? Should not the discretion of the court follow the last part of the sentence and not in the part giving the court discretion as to the payment of the fine and as to the imprisonment, and should not the court also have discretion so far as making restitution is concerned?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, that is part of the present assistance law, making restitution.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Philadelphia. I yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Shaw, who perhaps can explain the interrogation which I asked of Mr. D'Ortona.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Shaw.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, ever since the Public Assistance Law was placed on the statute books of the Commonwealth, people who wrongfully received public moneys have had to make restitution. The amendment placed in House Bill 1401 by Mr. D'Ortona and Mr. Rosenfeld should really begin with Subsection C, which calls for a man to notify the County Board within forty-eight hours after securing employment. That was taken up with the Legislative Reference Bureau and they approved the amendment.

Mr. Speaker, we of the Welfare Committee feel that House Bill 1401 is a bill of a great deal of importance. We all know that the Commonwealth never has been able to give to the recipients of relief what is considered to be a decent living grant. This bill merely asks the State Board of Assistance to set up in each county, in accordance with the living costs of that county, what they consider to be a minimum decent living standard, and then permit the person on relief, who if, as is the case of Philadelphia, he is a single person receiving $4.80 a week, to earn the difference between what the state is able to give him and what the State Board has decided upon as the minimum decent living standard. That is all this bill attempts to do, and we of the Welfare Committee who have worked with the sponsors of the bill feel eventually this bill if enacted into law that the recipients of relief will prove what most of us believe them to be, basically honest, and that in addition once they start working under this proposed addition to the law, they will have an incentive to go out and look for a job themselves off the public rolls.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read:

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 1185, Printer's No. 359, was passed over at the request of Mr. GERARD.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 292, as follows:

An Act to promote the safety of employes and travellers upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to furnish employes with certain signal devices.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1 All common carriers by railroad in this Commonwealth shall furnish all employes now using other signal devices electric white and red handlamps and all necessary batteries to replace other signal devices in order that the purpose of such other devices be fully carried out.

Any common carrier by railroad which shall violate the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than three hundred dollars ($300).

Each and every day's continuance in the violation of this act shall be a separate and distinct offense.

It shall be the duty of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission to supervise the enforcement of the provisions of this act.

Section 2 This act shall become effective six months after final enactment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask the sponsor of this bill Mr. Casey Jones,—I mean Mr. Presley Jones, the gentleman has had so many bills on railroads and railroading, that I naturally made that mistake,—I would like the gentleman from Lawrence Mr. Presley N. Jones. to explain this bill to the Members of the House.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I will be very delighted to explain this bill for the gentleman from Philadelphia the Reverend Mr. Shepard. As to his remarks, as to my being Casey Jones, I would like to correct him. I come from a long line of Presley Jones'. I am not Casey Jones, and for the information of the Reverend Shephard, I have never struck out with the bases full.

This bill, Reverend Shepard and Members of the House, I might say primarily basically, fundamentally and otherwise is meant in the light of safety.

May I interrogate, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHEPARD. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Philadelphia following me in my elucidation?

Mr. SHEPARD. Not yet, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that the gentleman from Lawrence blow his whistle going around the curve.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I am noted as a whistler. As to this bill, as I said in the beginning and in a manner of reiteration, are you with me, Mr. Shepard? —it is primarily, basically and fundamentally a safety measure for the employes of railroads in the preservation of life, limb, and property. We hope that the pursuit of happiness will soon follow.

I realize full well, seriously, gentlemen, that it is not the intention of the sponsors of this bill or any of the Members of this House to bring any hardship upon the railroads in any manner whatsoever. They are a part of of the finest carrying system in the Commonwealth and the nation today. We realize full well that the United States government is shipping out munitions by railroad today. If by the use of these open-flame lanterns some of these men who are rather heavy on their feet should stumble at night in any manner, heavens knows what will happen to that cargo of munitions and to the property of the railroad, and to the gentleman who was carrying the lantern.

I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia and to the Members of the House that this is a very excellent bill. It is realized full well by the railroads, because just recently in a conference of the Western Carriers, eighty western railroads adopted the electric lantern as being the proper thing to have. This has been brought to the attention of the carriers of this state and to those who have traversed this state time and again in the past, but up to this time this state has never adopted it. Therefore, it is necessary that legislation be enacted to call it to their attention concretely. I say to all of you that this is a splendid bill, not because I am the sponsor of it, but from a safety standpoint which is deserved by the traveling public and the railroads themselves. Have I answered the gentleman from Philadelphia?

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I don't care if they call me Casey Jones. I would like to ask the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr Presley N. Jones, if he is an authority on electrical lanterns.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, representing the Jones boys, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. I deem it a privilege and pleasure to be interrogated by the gentleman from Blair.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if he is an authority on electric lanterns.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Cousin George, I mean Mr. Jones, I am sorry I will have to admit I am not an authority on electric lanterns, but I think that I know a little about oil lanterns.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. All right, Mr. Speaker, we have another one of those railroad bills here. We come along and the gentleman asks us to vote for a bill as a safety measure. In my experience I find that half the time the electric light does not light, it lights sometimes, and sometimes it does not; it might be a little brighter while it burns, but the old oil railroad lantern is always secure, it is always lit, it is always there. These big trucks on the highways most of them carry three or four oil lanterns on the rear. I am wondering whether we are voting intelligently on this bill. I would not want to vote against anything that might possibly provide safety to anybody, but I was wondering whether we can vote intelligently on it or not. I would like to have somebody who has had some real experience with electric lanterns explain the bill to us.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate most sincerely the remarks of my cousin George Jones of Blair County. The reason I say "cousin" is because there are so many Jones' that we most all are related in some manner.

With the permission of the Chair I would like to produce, if it were at all possible samples of oil lanterns and electric lanterns, if it were permissible, on the floor of this House. However, for the benefit of the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Jones, may I say this, if the railroads do not object to this bill why does he?

Might I again call to the attention of this House the fact that not so long ago the railroads used gas flame headlights on their engines, they have now realized that is not advantageous in any manner, so they have substituted electric headlights. Why? For the same reason that electric headlamps should be supplied to the workers and under the provisions and stipulations, regulations and rules as applied by the eighty western railroads, who are cognizant of the necessity of preserving life, limb and property. I see no reason why this bill should not pass for the eastern railroads. It is a splendid bill, and for the information of the gentleman from Blair and for the information of the Members of the House, the battery that is used in these electric hand lamps will last for a period of five weeks, whereas every night you have to fill the oil lanterns.

I yield to the gentleman from Blair, Mr. George E. Jones.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Lawrence, how many batteries these railroad gentlemen will have to carry in their pockets in order to make these electric lanterns safe?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, under the new approved type of lantern, there would not be any necessity to carry any spare batteries, because under the provisions and stipulations which would be issued by the Public Utility Commission, I am sure the lanterns will be tested in a fitting manner before they go out. Further, for the benefit of the gentleman from Blair, Mr. George E. Jones, I might state that there are two spare bulbs carried in the handle of each lantern.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I think we are going into this thing a little bit too fast. The Interstate Commerce Commission has decided to hold a hearing on this lantern question and make a decision whether it is practical or not, after May 6th. This is an interstate affair, it is not a Pennsylvania affair. I think we should hesitate a little bit before we jump into this. I might say for myself, I am not a railroad man. I am not a railroad employe, I am not opposed to anything that is a safety measure, but I am wondering whether the electric lantern would be as safe as the good old railroad oil lamp is. That is up to the House to decide. I do not think it is.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this is positively a safety measures, and the bill is so simply drawn I cannot see why it is not easily understood by every member of the House.

The interrogation as to the extent of how many spare batteries the workmen or the flagman or the brakeman will have to carry in his hip pocket to be on the safe side might be explained by asking how much oil these gentlemen carry in their hip pocket for the old oil lantern. Now and then, in high winds, when the flagmen and brakemen give the highball sign for the train to roll, those lanterns have gone out. Just recently, and by recently I mean just the last week, if it had not been for the fact that a very wide awake young gentleman in the middle of the train had observed that the gentleman who was flagging on the front end of the train, that his lantern had gone out, there would have been a very, very serious accident, and the cost of rehabilitation to the railroad would have been considerably more than all of the batteries that would have been needed. That happened just outside of Lawrence ounty.

By passing this bill we can definately be of untold value to the people of the Commonwealth in enacting this safety measure.

Mr. LEISEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Jones.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEISEY. Mr. Speaker in reference to this question of lanterns is it not a matter of contract instead of law?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, contract between whom?

Mr. LEISEY. Between the railroads and their employees?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I cannot see any reason why this should be a matter of contract whatsoever. I have made a study of this, the history of it and I find it has been passed over time and time again. As a safety measure, it is very, very necessary. The bill is not difficult or hard upon the railroads in any manner, in that it is stipulated in the bill there is six months time to make corrections: It is not a hardship. Inasmuch as much as this bill has been passed over time and time again, and the Eastern railroads have appealed for rehearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission, I see no further necessity for delay.

Mr. LEISEY. Mr. Speaker, who is to be supplied, what employees shall be supplied with these lanterns?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman please repeat his question?

Mr. LEISEY. Mr. Speaker, Section one of this bill says that all common-carriers operating railroads in this Commonwealth shall furnish all employes now using other signal devices. Does that mean that the bill is going to change the signals of maintenance of way men, car inspectors, and shop men, and at the stations where the train stops for flag stops,

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would say that that would be applicable under the provisions of the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the provisions of the Public Utility Commission, to the extent that those who are now using oil lanterns should be supplied with electric lanterns.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. LEISEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill does not cover the subject, and I move that it be recommitted to the Committee on Railroads and Railways for further consideration.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion,

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES Mr. Speaker, I have in my possession the provisions that were brought forth on the necessity to bring about electric lanterns for the eighty western railroads.

For the information of the gentleman from Chester who had the pleasure of interrogating me, I might say we have one railroad in Pennsylvania, the Lehigh Valley that uses this type of lantern. Also for the information of the gentleman from Chester, if he will go down to the present depot in the city of Harrisburg he will find that the gentlemen down there use the electric lantern, as the, do not feel safe with the oil lantern. I would say that is going a little bit far . . . . .

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is on the motion to re-commit. The gentleman will please confine his remarks to that question.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. I will Mr. Speaker. I ask that the motion be defeated and a roll call be had.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I rise, Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of opposing the motion, for the simple reason that we have before this House, a safety measure that deserves comment and debate by the Members of the House. There should be no attempt to drag it behind closed doors for the purpose of killing it. If these gentlemen are so much opposed to it, let them register their vote against it, but at least let them put themselves on record out in the open as to where they stand on this question of safety. I ask the Members to defeat this motion.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I think we should send this bill back to Committee so that we can vote intelligently on it. I doubt whether the majority leader knows whether electric lanterns are safer than oil lanterns, and I ask the Members of the House to send this bill back into committee. Let us demonstrate these lanterns at any place. It doesn't have to be behind closed doors. Let us have a hearing on this matter.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I am not in favor of this bill going back to Committee to be killed. When we get down to a safety measure such as lanterns, I might say I used both types of lanterns, both oil and electric, seventeen or eighteen years ago as a brakeman on the railroad. On many a cold winter night that old oil lantern would go out .. .. ..

The SPEAKER. The merits of the bill are not before the House. The question is on the motion to re-commit

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask the members to vote down the motion to re-commit this bill.

On the question recurring will the House agree to the motion?

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 887, Printer's No. 427, was passed over at the request of Mr. GERARD.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1324, as follows:

An Act to further amend section thirty-two of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" further providing for ascertaining the change of classification of counties.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1 Section thirty-two of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" as amended by section one of the act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 401) is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 32 Ascertainment Certification and Effect of Change of Class The classification of counties shall be ascertained and fixed according to their population by reference from time to time to the last preceding decennial United States census deducting therefrom the number of persons residing on any lands that have been ceded to the United States. Whenever it shall appear by any such census that any county has attained a population entitling it to an advance in classification or that a county has heretofore or hereafter decreased in population so as to recede in classification as herein prescribed it shall be the duty of the Governor under the great seal of this Commonwealth to certify that fact accordingly which certificate shall be forwarded to the recorder of deeds of the proper county and be recorded in his office.

Changes of class ascertained and certified as aforesaid shall become effective on the first day of January next following the year in which the census was taken except that salaries of county officers shall not thereby be increased or decreased during the terms for which they shall have been elected [and except further that the court of common pleas of any county which is reduced in classification may by written order filed in the office of the prothonotary fix the salaries of the county commisioners and of the district attorney at an amount not exceeding the salaries theretofore paid to said officers if in its judgment the business of the county justifies the payment of salaries higher than those fixed for counties of the lower class.]

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment. In the event that by reason of the foregoing amendment the classification of any counties as ascertained and fixed according to their population by reference to the one thousand nine hundred and forty United States census are changed it shall be the duty of the Governor immediately after the effective date of this act under the Great Seal of this Commonwealth to certify that fact accordingly which certificate shall be forwarded to the recorder of deeds of the proper county and be recorded in his office.

Section 4 This law shall become effective and in force January first one thousand nine hundred and forty-three

Section 5 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Presley N. Jones.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lwarence permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Lawrence whether this provides for Beautyrest mattresses in the cabooses?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Not exactly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether this bill provides for indirect lighting?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, we have not reached that stage yet.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, does the bill provide for air-conditioning?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Not yet, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, does the bill provide for an electric call system?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, does the bill provide for electric razors?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, does it provide for shower-baths?

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. No, Mr. Speaker, not yet.

Mr. TURNER. Under the circumstances, Mr. Speaker, as related by the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Jones, I do not believe this bill ought to be passed, certainly not as a safety device and as an inducement to railroad men who work on the road to have proper accomodations. Therefore on this bill, much as I would like to vote for it, as a safety measure, I am compelled to vote against it. Any caboose that does not have Beautyrest Mattresses, safety razors, shower baths, indirect lighting, and air-conditioning, in my mind does not meet the modern requirements of the railroads, and therefore, this bill should be defeated.

Mr. PRESLEY N. JONES. Mr. Speaker, for the information of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, may I call his attention to the fact that these cabooses do contain such features as Westinghouse AB modern air brakes, cupola seats, washing and drinking water facilities, Ajax hand brakes, Royal brake regulators, first-aid kits, AW metal running boards, Sherbourne back-up whistles, Spear cabinet stoves and Imperial coupler operating devices.

I wish to call to your attention that the present four wheel caboose cars are more out of date than the old Model T Ford Car. These caboose cars have been in use ever since the railroads began to operate freight trains.

Since their first introduction as caboose cars times have changed to a considerable extent. What I mean by considerable extent is the fact that freight trains used to have an average speed of less than 20 miles but to-day under the present stream lined conditions the majority of our fast freight trains make the same time approximately that is made by our stream lined passenger trains.

Years ago when these four wheel caboose cars came into common use the average speed of freight trains did not exceed 15 miles per hour, under the present conditions freight trains are scheduled for a speed of more than 50 miles per hour.

Now, you take one of these old four wheel caboose cars with this excessive speed the lateral of side motion is very injurious to the health of the railroad man. To be frank and give you facts in this particular case this side motion caused a continuation of shocks to the person who may be required in his line of duty to ride one of these four wheel caboose cars.

If this Legislature sees fit, which I assume they will, to tell the Railroad companies of this state that on and after Jan. 1, 1943 these caboose cars will be eliminated it will be a great factor to preserve the health and safety of the railroad employees and the traveling public, by the adoption of double truck caboose car law this side or lateral motion will be to a great extent eliminated.

Now then just a few words on the cost of this change in construction of caboose cars.

1. I want to call to your attention the fact that under the present four wheel caboose cars you have two pairs of wheels.

2. Under the present bill it will only require two additional pairs of wheels with trucks bolsters included and body bolster which can be furnished by the railroad companies at a minimum of cost.

3. This statement is made due to the fact that the railroad in this state in scrapping of freight cars have thousands of freight car axles and wheels to supply the demand that may be needed for the enforcement of this act so far as the wheels are concerned.

4. The railroads of this state under the present interchange agreement are eliminating thousands of arch bar type of trucks which are not now permissable in interchange service but these trucks would be available to supply the necessary equipment for the trucks in so far as application of this law is concerned.

By the use of body bolster that has been and will be taken from steel freight cars that are being retired on account of age the cost of these instead of new ones will be reduced to a minimum by their use in construction of double truck caboose cars.

So therefore, it is apparent that the railroad companies of this state can without extra ordinary expense comply with the requirement of House Bill 109.

It is recognized by the Railroad Companies of this state that the four wheel caboose is not safe which is proven by the fact that approximately 60 per cent or more of their caboose cars are double truck caboose cars.

It is, also, a fact that the railroad companies of this state are not permitting the use of pushers behind the four wheel caboose cars to any great extent due to the fact of it being unsafe to the employees and the traveling public. In fact several employees have been killed or injured in four wheel caboose cars.

I, respectfully, request the members of this House to vote in favor of this bill which is a bill for the safety of the railroad employees and traveling public upon the Railroads of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to take up the time of the House at this time of night to continue the debate on this bill, but seriously speaking it seems to me there are a number of very pertinent objections to legislation of this kind. We seem in this session to have accumulated a great number of bills that go into the regulation and the determination of all sorts of things that pertain to business, putting further restrictions and further regulations on railroads until after a while the statue books will be so cluttered that one will have to read the statutes in the morning when he gets up so that he may know whether he should put on a summer suit or a winter suit.

Mr. Speaker, there are some very serious objections as I see it to this bill. In the first place I am advised that there is a very small percentage of these old cabooses in operation by the railroad companies at the present time and that they are eliminating them as rapidly as possible. Under present conditions, with the great demand for the use of every facility for national defense it seems to me we ought not to occupy our manufacturers with things of this kind, when we know that as fast as they can be properly eliminated they will be eliminated and there is no use to have legislation of this kind on the statue books which puts further restrictions on business in the State.

In the second place, I had a call recently from five men who represented the Brotherhoods of the Railroad. I found those men intensely interested in the problem of the railroads, because they thought it was to their personal profit to be so interested. It seems to me these Brotherhoods with the strength and the intelligent leadership that they have always had, with the far-seeing outlook that they have of the problems of the railroads, their financial security and their prosperity, as affecting their jobs, if this lantern is so important as a safety device those men would take it up with the railroad management and would see that they were provided in the proper way. They have the power, they have the leadership, they have the intelligence they have the knowledge that should go into the solution of the problems of the railroads and they know best what should be done.

In the third place, the Interstate Commerce Commission is the organization in this country that regulates all of these conditions on the railroads. They have the power to enforce their regulations, and where they see it is necessary and where they feel it is essential the railroads will issue the orders. If the Brotherhood thought this regulation should be made, that the cabooses should be changed by a certain day, the Interstate Commerce would make those regulations. They have the safety of the workmen on the railroad at heart, they have the engineering force, they have the knowledge. Perhaps a few Members of the House have had experience working on the railroads, but the majority do not know all the problems concerning this very important subject. I am certain if those men were here, if we had an opportunity to talk to these Brotherhood men, they would feel it is a matter that should not be regulated by the Legislature. We should not be going into intimate detail in the management, organization and operation of business. As labor is organized today they speak with force, they have organized groups, they have leaders who receive salaries for representing the different labor groups, they know what is needed and they would come here with this legislation if it were needed. Why should we therefore in this instance place upon the statute books further regulations?

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware seems much disturbed about the fact that these new cabooses are not air-conditioned, do not having electric razors and all that sort of thing. For his information, he may be pleased to know that the wheels of these new cabooses will not screech because they won't be made out of pig iron.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr Speaker, for the purpose of a brief reply to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, may I say I discussed this particular legislation with the heads of the Brotherhoods and I am speaking of the Railroad Brotherhoods, and I find that contrary to his statement the Brotherhoods are very sincerely interested in the passage of this particular legislation. They feel that it is needed. It is true that most of the railroads are now operating cabooses in conformity with this particular bill. As the gentleman indicated, there are only a few that are not. It will cause no severe hardship upon the railroad. May I assure the membership of this House that this is a safety measure, badly needed in view of the tremendous length of trains today. This bill means that these trains must carry with them modern cabooses. In the absence of such modern cabooses, there is a real danger to the men who are riding on the rear of that particular train.

I say, therefore, that the gentleman is completely in error and that this legislation should be passed.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, The Governor's Budget was given to the Legislature on February 3d of this year. Although long before that date it was known in a general way what would be suggested, from that time on the Appropriation Committee and the Ways and Means Committee of this House had in minute detail the suggestions of the Administration on the Tax Program and the appropriations to be made for the coming biennium.

The bills to re-enact the emergency taxes now in effect and adopted during the three previous regular sessions were introduced into the House on behalf of the Administration by Representative Winner on February 4th. They were given two readings and then on February 12th were recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means, where they have remained since, without ostensible consideration.

On March 4th, Representative McDowell introduced the Administration Bill authorizing the issuance of Tax Anticipation Notes. This followed the form and practice adopted in 1937 and 1939. It was introduced to carry out the promises made not only by the Administration but by this Legislature and the Commonwealth itself to repay the special funds as early in June as possible, the sums borrowed from them.

It was the plan of the Administration to accept bids for the Tax Anticipation Notes on June 2d, with the expectation of receiving the money for them on June 5th or 6th. This bill was reported from the Committee on Ways and Means on April 10th, but after two readings, was returned, and has not been heard from since.

As previously stated, the House Appropriation Committee had the detailed recommendations of the Administration on February 3d. On February 25th I introduced the General Appropriation Bill. It is now more than three months since the Budget was submitted and nothing has been heard from the Committee. It will soon be a month since the sub-committee held its last hearing on the Bill. Still there is no General Appropriation Bill reported from the Committee.

In 1935 the Budget was considered only sixty-three days until the General Appropriation Bill was reported from Committee. In 1937 it was only sixty-three days. In 1939 it was only seventy-nine days, and this year already ninety-one days have passed and the General Appropriation Bill still not seen the light of day.

When the Governor delivered his Budget Message he said, "This is not a 'must' Budget . . . If any new ideas are brought forward I will receive them with open mind.

If they prove better than those embodied in this Message I shall be pleased to incorporate them."

What have we heard from the Democrats? First, that the Budget was full of hope, then that it was full of pessimism. Then we were advised that more taxes were necessary, and then again that less taxes were necessary Last week we were told by the Democratic Floor Leader in the Senate that the estimates of revenue made by the Department were too low, and by the Democratic Leader in the House that the estimates of revenue as made by the same Department were too high. We were advised that savings could be made, and then appropriations were increased. No tax bills have been introduced as substitutes for those suggested by the Administration. No estimates of revenue have been given us.

Noted only for their inactivity and their indecision the Democrats continue to quibble over the sponsorship of bills while the session drags on to the disgust of all of the people of this Commonwealth.

If there were ever a time that people had a right to demand prompt, efficient and expeditious action by this Legislature, it is in these trying days.

The delay in adopting a Tax Program and not passing the Tax Anticipation Notes has created a most serious situation. Had the program of the Governor been carried out, or had some acceptable substitutes been proposed and adopted, all borrowings from the Special Funds would have been repaid during the first week of June, and the firemen would then receive the money which was borrowed from the Fire Insurance Tax Fund, and the Cities and Boroughs and Townships would receive their money from the Liquor License Fund, and the Counties would receive their money borrowed from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund, and the Highway Department would receive the money borrowed from its Motor License Fund. As it is, the inactivity and the indecision of the Democratic Party will cause a delay in all of these payments and every day the Tax Anticipation Note Bill is held, and every day the Tax Program is delayed by this House there must be a corresponding delay in the repayment of these special funds.

Nor is that all. The uncertainty in the passage of the Tax Program and the Tax Anticipation Note Bill is causing a delay in the payment of the subsidies to Second and Third Class School Districts and of the funds due the State Aided Hospitals and of the funds due the University of Pennsylvania, Pitt, Temple and State, as well as institutions under the Department of Welfare, such as Dixmont and Glenn Mills, and many others.

The firemen, the municipalities, the counties, all patriotically submitted to delay in their payments in order that relief might be carried on and the burden of taxes not increased, but it is not fair to cause them further delay while the Majority in this House paddles around in the pool of indecision and inactivity.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, at this hour of the night I do not expect to quote figures, but only briefly to reply to the gentleman from Dauphin. I might state that perhaps he has timed his particular message properly, because I assure him some of the tax measures will be reported for final action tomorrow.

As to the delay, Mr. Speaker, may I say that has been occasioned by his party and by his Governor alone. If the budget message which was delivered to us in February had been accurate and had been truthful, if it had contained sufficient substance that we could have relied upon it, undoubtedly there would have been action long since in this House. But may I say, Mr. Speaker, when you have budget estimates that are as much as a million and a half dollars under the amount that the present figures show have been collected, then I say to the Members of this House and the people of Pennsylvania that it has been well worth their time for this House to have awaited the investigation by our committees.

May I point out that in order to carry on a careful and complete, and let me add accurate investigation, it has been necessary to await tax collections which have been taking place in the past month and in the present month. It is only by awaiting actual collections that we have anything of accuracy to depend upon in order to legislate. I am saying to the gentleman from Dauphin and I am also saying to the Republican Party, when the report is made to this House, they will know full well the reason why we delayed, they will see that their party has been responsible for the delay, and they will ask why its Governor in his message to this House was not more accurate; why the figures that he submitted to us were not figures that we could depend upon, rather than find the multiplicity of inaccuracies, particularly in receipts, and requests for the expenditure of funds that we did. I might say to the Members of the House that the investigation which we conducted and which we have insisted upon will be well worth while the time of the people of this Commonwealth.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am anxious to know from the gentleman from Monroe whether the tax anticipations are too high or too low, or whether the Democratic Party in the Senate and in the House have gotten together in their determination of whether the tax estimates are too high or too low? I would be interested in having the gentleman's answer.

Mr. Speaker I put that in the form of an interrogation to the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from Monroe heard my question, and I would like to have an answer to it.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I reply that I doubt that there has ever been any difference of opinion between the majority of this House and the minority of the Senate. We felt from the very beginning, Mr. Speaker, that the estimates of receipts that were submitted to us by the Governor of this State were inaccurate and underestimated. We know now that they are.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, last week the gentleman told this House of Representatives that the estimates made by the Department of Revenue were too optimistic and the receipts were not coming in in accordance with the estimates.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman misunderstood my remarks last week. While I did make particular reference to the deficit in the sum of $90,000,000, I pointed out the manner in which we arrived at those figures and I also pointed out the fact to the Members of this House that the collection of taxes for this year might warrant a certain $5,000,000 that the Governor spoke about, but I have not made any remarks in relation to the Governor's budget in reference to anticipated receipts until this evening.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am very much interested in the remark of the gentleman that he made no reference to estimated revenue prior to tonight. The gentleman last week in setting up his alleged ninety-million dollar deficit gave as one of those items the failure of the Department of Revenue to collect the amount of revenues which was estimated. He said on the floor of the House in answer to my interrogation that this supposed item of deficit was the result of the Department of Revenue's over-estimating the amount of revenue which they expected to get in. In other words, that the amount of revenue which was being collected did not come up to the estimates. Now the gentleman on the floor of the House again says that the Department of Revenue has made its estimates too conservatively.

Mr. Speaker, do you recall what the gentleman said the day after the budget was read to this House, or immediately after the budget was read to this House? Don't you remember that famous remark of "faith, hope and charity," in which he said the budget was so full of hope that we could not realize the amount of revenue that it was hoped to obtain in this budget. Now the gentleman is saying on the floor of the House that there is no hope in this budget, it is all pessimism. His famous remark about faith, hope and charity has now turned to pessimism. It is now all pessimism now in this budget. For the sake of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I wish that the Democratic party would make up its mind as to whether the estimates are too optimistic or whether they are too pessimistic.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, when he first rose to address the House he did not have in mind the budget ending in 1943. Now he has adverted to the budget ending this month. My first remarks were addressed to the budget of 1941-1943 and that is the budget I was referring to as having an underestimate of receipts. The remarks I made last week were in reference to the budget in the year ending at the close of this month. If the gentleman will just remember his budget years and keep them apart, and confine his remarks to the respective years, he will find that there is no discrepency in my remarks whatsoever.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. CORDIER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. SPEAKER. I am respectfully calling to the attention of the Members of the House three resolutions which I had the honor to sponsor and which I believe to be of vital interest to the people of the Commonwealth. These resolutions are reposing in the committee on rules of the House. They are House Resolution No. 61 Serial No. 117 which memorializes Congress to oppose the proposed Saint Lawrence Waterway, House Resolution No. 80 Serial No. 147 and Resolution No. 82 Serial No. 154. Resolution No. 80 provides for a ten member committee of the House and Senate to formulate and present to the General Assembly a well considered legislative program beneficial to the citizens of the Commonwealth, and to break the stalemate and bottleneck we find ourselves in mainly due to the House being Democratic and the Senate Republican. This resolution calls for an honest effort on the part of both party leaders to sit around the conference table and formulate a well rounded program without any legislative horse-trading so that the peoples interest will not be sabotaged to petty politics. We on this side are ready to sit down at any such gathering and honestly endeavor to pass a program in keeping with the needs of the Commonwealth and its citizens. Are you on the other side willing to stop talking long enough about ninety million dollars deficits, which any student of finance and accounting knows doesn't exist, and listen to the pleas of the majority of our citizens, who are disgusted no end at the petty, picayune stifling of good pieces of legislation in the various committees of this House together with the bill pilfering which leaves a raucous odor in their nostrils? I hope some estimable gentleman on the other side of the House will rise to the occasion and show a willingness to sit down with us in the interest of our citizens.

House Resolution No. 82 Memorializes Congress and the W.P.A. officials in Washington to provide sufficient funds to carry on the W.P.A. Recreational Educational Program. An order has been sent out from W.P.A. Headquarters to curtail this program in our state by 15,000 workers. In my opinion this is the best part of the W.P.A. program and can well be considered one of our first lines of defense, because the workers of these projects teach our youth and the people of the newer nationalities democracy and citizenship. With seven million dollars being spent for defense, a great portion of which will go overseas, it would appear to be the greater part of good old American commonsense to spend a few thousand dollars to keep up the morale of these people at home in trying to save Democracy. To the gentlemen of the rules committee I respectfully say "You ought to report that resolution to the floor of the House and give the Members the opportunity to vote for it and prevent these people from being thrown back on relief where they may lose their morale and self respect."

House Resolution No. 61 Memorializes Members of Congress from this Commonwealth to oppose the Saint Lawrence Waterway Scheme. Every Member of this House is acquainted with the danger that this project threatens to our mining and railroad industries. Every organization of any importance in this state is opposed to it including industry and organized labor in the mining industry. If it passes the relief rools of the Commonwealth will mount and thousands of decent hard working miners and railroaders will find themselves on the relief rolls.

Every Pennsylvanian, proud of the position our state has attained in the industrial world, justly opposes this fantastic scheme. I am pleased to see that my Democratic colleague from Luzerne County, Mr. Komorofski, has also introduced a resolution opposing this plan. I congratulate him on his foresight. I am respectfully urging the Members of the rules committee to report these resolutions to the floor of the House for a vote. I sincerely hope the Members are not cringing with the fear of being called copperheads, because in the interest of the people they represent, they may oppose the plans of one of our most important citizens. We will live under the constitution which gives us the right to truly express ourselves and clearly reflect the wishes of our citizens. I appeal again to the rules committee to report these resolutions out. Change them, co-sponsor them, take my name off them and substitute a Democratic sponsor if you will, but in heaven's name bring them out into the light of day where we can discuss them in the good old American fashion, for I truly believe they are important to our people.

Mr. Speaker, I find upon examination of the House History that there are thirty resolutions investigating many of the bureaus and interest within and without our State Government. Many of these have been reported to the floor of the House and passed, the net result of which to date has been nil with the exception of a preliminary report on the committee investigating the sewing projects. It might have been wiser earlier in the session to pass the bill of my colleague from Lawrence County, Mr. Jones, which provides for electric signal devices to be used on all railroads which is on tonight's calendar. We might take these electric flashlights and furnish the Members of these investigating committees with them to aid them in their prowling around in the dark corners of various phases of the State Government, so they may at least before we adjourn bring in some reports. Certainly, if we can report out resolutions to investigate all these things, taking up the time of the House, in all sincerity we ought to report to the floor of the House for a vote resolutions which seek to save the jobs of many thousands of our citizens.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. McMILLEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it is rather late and if it is satisfactory to the Chair I will desist until tomorrow afternoon.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Indiana.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain the prayer was offered by the Senator from Butler, Mr. CARR.

We bow in Thy presence, our Heavenly Father, with grateful acknowledgement in our hearts for all Thou hast done for us as Thy children. Thou hast given us a beautiful world in which to live; Thou hast given us minds with which to work; Thou hast given us hearts with which to feel and understand the needs of mankind.

We would ask, Our Heavenly Father, that Thy Spirit might graciously rest upon all Thy people in these troubled times throughout the world when we feel because of the sins of men that we are in turmoil and distress. We would ask that our minds might be brought back to sanity and reason and that we might come to that time when there shall be peace upon earth among men of good will.

Bless us in our deliberations, bless our Congress, and our President and our Governor and all in authority, and help us to so strive to do those things that are right that we may at all times give evidence of our willingness to be used in the service of Thy kingdom. We ask it in His Name. Amen.

REQUESTING USE OF SENATE CHAMBER FOR PUBLIC HEARING ON SENATE BILLS Nos. 103, 107, 108, 189 AND 237

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, May 6, 1941.

Resolved, That the Committee on Public Utilities of the Senate of Pennsylvania be granted the use of the Senate Chamber for a public hearing on Senate Bills Nos. 103, 107, 108, 189 and 237, to be held on Wednesday, May 14, 1941, at 7:30 o'clock p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask permission to make a short statement to the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Montgomery will proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, last week the Senate adopted a resolution calling attention of the people of the Commonwealth to the observance on Saturday next to a ceremony at Valley Forge where the dogwood groves will be dedicated in memory of George Washington. There will be present at that time the Governor of this state and a number of Governors of the thirteen original states.

Now, yesterday I received in the mail some interesting correspondence from Valley Forge which I want to make available to my colleagues in the Senate. My colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel, will be particularly interested because he helped in the work of preparing the resolution offered last week.

I might say, Mr. President, there is a bill pending in the Senate, Senate Bill No. 739, which calls for a small appropriation for the restoration of the original Valley Forge. It may not be news to the members of the Senate but originally there was a forge on Valley Creek about half a mile before it empties into the Schuylkill and that forge was taken by the British and destroyed in the Brandywine campaign. The very site of it was lost, the ruins were covered over with sediment of the river and it took a long time before the present commission were able to find the exact location of the forge. Now that location has been found and it has been inspected by several of the Senators.

It shows the charred wood, as a result of the burning of the forge by the British during the Brandywine campaign, and what I have now is a plan of restoration of the original forge together with a very elaborate series of excellent photographs which show the present condition of the forge and the work that ought to be done.

In order that they may be observed by the Senators interested in this question I have asked Senator Elby to allow me to put them on file in the office of the President pro-tempore, over there, and he has very courteously consented that his secretary shall take charge of them and I hope the members of the Senate who are interested in seeing what there is now and what there should be there will examine these things so that it may help them to understand how to vote on this legislation. Thank you.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 253, on concurrence in House amendments, entitled:

An Act relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class; providing, subject to the approval of the electors, for a three-platoon system for such members, with certain exceptions; providing for an election on such question; and regulating hours of service hours of rest and annual vacations go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, may I ask the gentleman from Blair to make a short explanation as to the purpose of this bill.

Mr. MALLERY. I am glad the Senator from Washington requested that I make a short statement. When this bill was introduced, it should have been stated that it was introduced by request.

This is a bill, a uniform practice bill, which has been adopted by a number of states and I think most of the states adjoining Pennsylvania have heretofore adopted such a bill.

The bill originated or was first adopted by the State of Ohio. It opens a new field for financing by banks or by other finance institutions. It does not destroy financing by chattel mortgages but opens a new field of financing by banks and other institutions engaged in the financing business.

There have been certain amendments. I just inquired of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, and there seems to have been some talk, at least among my Republican colleagues, that one of the Senator's amendments prohibited the financing of automobiles, but the Senator from Philadelphia has assured me that his amendment in no way interferes with the financing of automobiles.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Blair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, would the gentleman from Blair kindly explain how this bill will enlarge the field of banking investments?

Mr. MALLERY. A typical example, Mr. President, as I understand the application of this bill, would be where an importer of hides desired some financing and hides were sold to a manufacturer of shoes, we will say, who has a large order from the government. This importer, or trustee, as he is designated under the bill, could apply to a bank, if saw fit to deal in this manner of financing, and he would give a trust receipt. The bank would be secured and the importer would be able to turn the leather over to the shoe manufacturer, who would be able to manufacture the leather into shoes. The importer would thereby be able to finance the transaction. It is believed the bill is particularly helpful and necessary at this time, when men will be called upon to engage in contracts that require a great deal of money. It is a very complicated bill and I feel possibly the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, or the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Becker, who have represented banks—I do not represent any bankers—possibly those men would be able to give the Senator from Washington more information

Mr. REED. I wish to thank the gentleman from Blair very kindly for his explanation.

Mr. President, I have listened to the explanation of the Senator from Blair. I listened the other evening to a committee composed of big bankers from Philadelphia explain this bill. I have spent a considerable amount of time in reading and studying this bill and from my study I am inclined to believe this is not a good bill for the banks of this state.

The gentleman from Blair has explained in a short manner the outstanding purpose of this bill. He says it is a bill introduced at this time to take care of certain phases of national defense. In other words, Mr. President, it is to permit banks to loan money on unfinished material in bulk. He cites unfinished leather and those large bankers from Philadelphia, included a lot of other material in bulk, such as pig iron and copper and other materials of that kind.

Now, Mr. President, as I understand from their explanation, the banker would loan money on the material in bulk and that material would be turned over to the factory and the factory would process that raw material and then after that raw material had been processed the manufacturer would then dispose of that finished product and then he would pay back to the banker the loan.

That sounds good when you read it on paper, but when you analyze that set of facts critically or practically you will find there are many contingencies you will have to consider along with that set of facts. Here is the labor that goes into making the finished product. What if that labor is not paid? Here are other materials that go into making the finished product. Suppose the people who furnish that material are not paid. Then you get into a very complicated state of affairs and in the end the bank may have and reasonably might have a hard time in getting back its loan.

Now, Mr. President, I know in times of distress like these there are tendencies to go a long way. I remember distinctly the banking situation back at the time of the World War and all of a sudden a collapse came and many factories went out of business and many large loans were lost just through financing of this kind.

A strong bank, Mr. President, is a bank that can get its money back quickly and in a process such as this I am reluctant to go along for the reason I am afraid at a time when the bank needed money back it might have a hard time cashing in on the loan.

I know there is a tendency to make large loans during times of stress such as we have today and the plea is it is to aid national defense. There is a group of people that we must always consider when we discuss banking legislation. It is not always the banker who sometimes is engaged on the side in manufaturing pursuits; He is to be given consideration. But there is another group of people which must always be given consideration and that is the man who puts that money into the bank. Here is a miner who goes down into the bowels of the earth and risks his life in order that he might make a little money. When he puts that money into the bank he expects to get that money back when he needs it. Here is a man who works on a farm, who works diligently all day, and when he puts his money in that bank he expects to get that money back when he needs it. Here is a man who stands before a blast furnace and when he makes his money and puts it into a bank he expects to get it back when he needs it, but if the banker is permitted to make big loans such as are contemplated by this bill and then a time of stress comes and there is a large mass of manufactured products they have not been able to sell, when that time comes and the banker goes out to get the depositors money and finds he cannot get it, then you have bank failures and there is nothing more serious to my mind in the Republic than bank failures.

I say, Mr. President, even though this is a period of war, this is a period when we talk of national defense, from my study of history I must say, "O, National Defense, how many crimes have been committed in thy name," and that is the case here.

Unless we are absolutely sure this bill will protect the depositors, will protect persons who are fundamentally and vitally interested in the money in the banks, I say we should vote this bill down. I do not believe we need this kind of legislation.

I believe if the bankers want to loan money on any kind of property there is a way to do it and to set up at this time an intricate, complicated bill such as this is, in order to give them perhaps a place to hide the making of big loans, I believe under these circumstances this bill should be voted down and I propose in order to do my duty to the people of this Commonwealth to vote against this bill.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lebanon.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lebanon permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BECKER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask the gentleman from Lebanon to state whether or not a loan made under the provisions of this bill would come under the supervision of the federal banking examiners.

Mr. BECKER. It would in the case of national banks, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. It will do what please, Mr. President,

Mr. BECKER. It will in the case of national banks, which come under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Mr. HALUSKA. Are there any provisions in the bill, Mr. President, that a manufacturer who borrows money on raw materials must have some equity in the raw materials he is borrowing money on?

Mr. BECKER. I do not think so, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Then, the manufacturer can borrow money on the full amount of his invoice; is that right?

Mr. BECKER. He can borrow as much money as the bank will lend him, with due prudence.

Mr. HALUSKA. Even though the manufacturer has no equity whatsoever in the plant and might have had difficulties in the past and wishes to borrow fifty thousand dollars, under this act, he might do so; is that correct?

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, that is a commercial risk the bank will have to consider in determining whether or not it wants to loan the customer any money, yes, sir.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I must certainly agree with the gentleman from Washington in his attitude on this bill. I think it is a very, very dangerous bill, because under this bill the banker may go out and invest our money with no possibility whatsoever of getting it back. We are speaking of war and defense programs but the war will not last forever, we hope, Mr. President, and in the event huge loans are made under this bill and the war should come to an immediate end we will find many, many banks so tied up that chaos again will come back to the banking profession.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I think each and every member should study this bill and I therefore move that this bill be sent back to the Committee on Banking for further study.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. Pesident, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion.

Mr. GELTZ. I object, Mr. President, and ask that the roll be called.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GELTZ and were as follows, viz:

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, on the question shall the bill pass I am very free to say, while I ordinarily agree with the Senator from Washington in his conservatism, I can not agree with him at this time.

I think, Mr. President, this bill authorizes a new and legitimate method by which the banks and the manufacturers of this state should have an advantage. In the first place it comes from the Commissioners on uniform state legislation and it is well known to the gentleman from Washington that for twenty years these commissioners, three from each state, have met at the same time with the American Bar Association and have discussed issues upon which there is need of uniform legislation, relating generally to business matters.

Mr. President, I think in the past twenty years we have had probably twenty or thirty bills that have been recommended by these commissioners, who in Pennsylvania I think are Judge Hargest of Dauphin County, Mr. Schnader, a former attorney general and Mr. George Alter, formerly an attorney general, and I do not think we have ever had a bill that has provoked either an injustice on the part of the people or which has not worked as a feasible measure.

This bill proposes that banks shall have the opportunity of making loans on commodities. It is a method of bank dealing which is now being used in ten states of the nation, particularly in New York, New Jersey and Ohio, and has been used there with a great deal of success.

Mr. President, take for instance the case of a man who owns a cotton factory and, say, he has the spindles and everything else needed, including a trained personnel, but he does not have the cotton and he wants to go out and buy cotton in large quantities so that he may manufacture; he goes to his bank and the bank says it will loan him the money on a trust receipt. He then gives a trust receipt and that trust receipt is filed first with the Secretary of the Commonwealth and then with the prothonotary of the court in the particular county which is concerned.

Now, Mr. President, when that receipt is once put on file the effect of it is to give the bank a lien upon the new material which it is buying for that man. That seems to me to be entirely legitimate. Commodity financing has grown tremendously in this country in recent years and I think wherever commodity financing has come in it may have led to extravagances, but not to failure of banks in the way the gentleman from Washington refers. What happens eventually? There is labor put into that. The labor is protected in this bill because there is nothing which affects the right of labor here. There may be other commodities which are purchased in the ordinary course of business, but the bank continues with the loan on the raw material until the time comes when the raw material is worked up into a finished product and then when it is worked up into a finished product it is sold and the bank is paid back the amount of its claim and passes out of the transaction.

Now, Mr. President, we all know banks loan money on personal credit; we all know banks loan money on stocks and bonds; we all know banks loan money on balance sheets and all sorts of collaterals that are expressed in dollars. I see no reason why a bank should not also loan money on the basis of a commodity which is in general use.

I think we can feel certain the banks themselves will watch this kind of legislation with suffcient care to insure there is no looseness in the making of loans, and I think the effect of it will be that it will help a number of small manufacturers that may not have the capital to be able to purchase at the time all they may need for their business. It will enable those small manufacturers to get the raw material they need in order to work it up into a finished product.

I may say that from that point of views this bill has been very carefully studied by the committee on banking. Personally, Mr. President, I believe the bill is good legislation and I am perfectly willing to accept it, even with the amendments introduced by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, which in general seem to me to have improved the bill on the whole.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask my colleagues to support this bill as helpful and remedial legislation at the present time.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I have been opposed to this bill from the start and the fact that I offered amendments does not mean I intend to vote for it. I have been opposed to this bill because I am opposed to beginning new proceedings, giving permission to banks to do those very things which brought about the crash in banks some years ago.

I have had experience, not from representing banks but with banking transactions, and I find that banks today are engaging in business which it was never intended they should engage in.

For instance, Mr. President, some banks and large trust companies in Philadelphia today are engaged in loaning money on automobiles, in financing automobiles. Surely that never was intended as a real banking purpose. I find that in dealing in these transactions, with the desire of making money so that they can show a profit, some of the dealings they have gone into are not what they should be.

We passed laws and we allowed banks to do things in 1928 and 1929 that were legitimate. There is not any question this is a legitimate transaction but the question is as to whether or not this is the kind of a transaction in which a bank should engage; and the desire of the banks to make a profit should not carry them away from their original purpose of banking.

You must remember, Mr. President, banks today are insured, and their depositors' money is insured, but that is no reason why that fact should lull them into the belief they have a right and can with safety go into businesses which are not purely banking.

The fact that this is a uniform state law in ten states does not convince me it is a good thing. The very fact this bill required one or two amendments in order to make it stronger indicates to me the bill is entitled to further study.

Mr. President, I want to make a comparison with what happened here a few days ago to show what we are doing on legislation. For instance, I was thinking of getting up and making a statement under a question of personal privilege, which statement I can make now, with respect to a bill that passed yesterday. Yesterday we passed a bill in which we exempted monies left with life insurance companies from the personal property tax. That bill is entitled to further study. I wonder how many members of this Senate know that bill will cost the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania five hundred thousand dollars, at least, as a minimum out of the budget for the next two years. The Department of Revenue, when I made inquiries of it this morning, told me they had already written to the House saying the bill would cost a minimum of $250,000 a year, and yet when I call attention, to that fact last week, when that bill was on second reading, yesterday the bill passed as if it had no effect on the Commonwealth or its finances.

Today it has been asked that this bill be given further study. Now, Mr. President, we all know some members of the Senate read bills as they come in. That is a colossal task which should not be asked of anybody. Most of us do not have the time, but when the bills come out they begin to engage the interest of the Senators. Here is a bill which comes out without any restriction on the amount of interest that may be charged—of course, you cannot charge more than the legal rate of interest—and so I offered an amendment which would provide that by subterfuge charges and service charges you could not increase the interest rate to more than six per cent.

Now, Mr. President, along comes another group of people, representing the Revenue Department, and they said this bill might effect titles of automobiles and so another amendment was prepared, about which the gentleman from Blair spoke. Now, Mr. President, I do not say and I did not say to the gentleman from Blair—and I hope he did not misundertand me as saying this bill will not prevent loans being made on automobiles. It will. The bill says it shall not be used for the purpose of making those transactions and titles shall be issued in accordance with the title act now in existence in the Revenue Department.

Now, Mr. President, those two things to my mind indicate this is a bill which requires further study. I challenge any member of this Senate to read that bill and say he can follow it from beginning to end and understand when a trustee gets a lien and when he does not get a lien; I challenge any member of this Senate to read that bill and say under what circumstances creditors should have prior rights to the trust certificates or will be protected against the trust certificates.

I have tried to do it and I have made a chart in committee to do it and I also say there are phrases, paragraphs and sections in this bill that cannot be followed by the ablest lawyer, whether it is a uniform law or not.

The trouble with this bill is that it has been drawn from a technical point of view and expresses merely the technical view of the person who has had experience in these things, but it does not enable the casual reader, the business man, to know what that bill will do to him; nor does it enable the creditor who deals with that business man, outside of the bank, to know what that bill will do to the rights he has acquired as prior creditor.

Mr. President, you cannot read that bill and say to yourselves, taking the illustration given by any of the members who made statements on the bill, what the manufacturer gets thru the trust certificate issued, as it goes from the seller to the manufacturer, goes through the process of manufacturing, and with the addition of certain other materials.

Mr. President, if you take a suit of clothes the first primary part of the goods is the cloth, but there are findings, buttons, cotton, and thread which must be bought and which must be used in completing the garment. I would like somebody to read that bill and say that the bill provides or intends to provide that the bank which loans money on the goods in the first instance shall, when the goods are finished, have a lien on the finished product. What about the man who furnishes the cotton; what about the man who furnishes the buttons; what about the man who furnishes the lining; those are things which are not clearly set forth in this bill, and therefore it seems to me this is a bill that does two things, first, throws banking into a new avenue which they never used before, dealing with men who have small financial responsibility, who could not otherwise get credit, and therefore are men of very small financial responsibility which makes the risk greater and puts the bank into a risky business in which it might lose a great deal of its depositors' money; secondly, it gives no assurance or knowledge to other creditors of that same man, that the money they advanced to him without this collateral security, will be assured to them in the end.

Under these circumstances, Mr. President, it seems to me there is no such cry of immediate necessity that this bill requires immediate passage, without giving the members of the Senate ample time to study the bill and to study its effects. That is why I am going to vote against the bill, even though I did put in amendments, because if it is going to be a law I think there ought to be some protection to the man who is borrowing the money.

Mr. REED. Mr. President—

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I will yield to the gentleman from Washington, who desires to make a rebuttal to the remarks of the gentleman from Montgomery.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I just want to say a few words in reply to what the good gentleman from Montgomery had said, that this bill was patterned after legislation from outside the state.

Mr. President and members of the Senate, that is what put me on my guard first when I saw certain people come into the committee with certain reasons for the passage of this bill, then I learned that this bill came out of the great city of New York, and anything that comes out of the financial district of New York, among the small people of Pennsylvania, always bears watching. I saw that, as the good Senator from Philadelphia said, in the panic of 1929, I saw after the world war, that anything that comes out of New York relating to money, anything that comes out of Wall Street relating to money, I am extremely suspicious of it, and that is one of the reasons I took so much time in studying this bill.

The good Senator from Montgomery has presented his view, but he has not changed my view on the proposition this legislation is not needed and the bill should be voted down.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, on the question of the passage of this bill, let me say in the Committee on Banking this bill was very carefully digested and analyzed———, and while the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, has recently stated that ten other states now have this legislation on their books and they also report in those states this legislation is now working and is liked by both the manufacturers who make the loans and also by the banks, the fact as to whether the legislation passed there or not is not, I believe, of great import at the moment; but the fact that these laws which have been enacted are furnishing new avenues for investment by the banks and a new instrument for our national defense on the part of the manufacturers, certainly should be sufficient reason for us to support this bill.

For the moment there are some fifty-three national corporations doing a finance business, quasi governmental, on money furnished by the federal government, and that is taking away avenues which were formerly used by the banks to lend their money and to make a reasonable and proper profit for their stockholders. We are also organizing throughout Pennsylvania and throughout many other states of the nation what are known as credit unions that close in the other side for the banks. We are also forming automobile loan corporations which constantly help to take away business from the banks, so that on that angle I think we should give this bill our wholehearted support.

In answer to the question raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia regarding Senate Bill No. 379 which passed this body yesterday, I am sorry to take issue with him so often, but the bill we passed does not take one single cent away from state financing. The bill, as the gentleman knows or should know, being a lawyer, applies only to the county four mills tax, and not at all to the state four mills tax. However, as to the legislation, called emergency legislation, which did affect the state, so far the Department of Revenue advises me they have only been able to collect some $106,000 since the decision of the Supreme Court in Pennsylvania in the Biesel Case, handed down January term, 1940, which was the first time, as I understand it, that any monies have been collected from those emergency taxes.

However, Mr. President, the bill we considered yesterday and voted upon and passed does not affect in any way whatsoever the state finances.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I doubt not the words of the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, nor the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, that this bill is desired and approved by bankers and manufacturers, and I doubt not the fact that we should enact legislation for the benefit of bankers and manfacturers, when laws for their benefit are needed, but it seems odd that our friends on the other side shy so far away from the points we are trying to discuss in these arguments on this bill. Although it may benefit bankers and manufacturers, what we are chiefly concerned about is how will this bill affect the people who own the money that is in the bank, and how will this bill affect other citizens of this Commonwealth who by advancing materials to the manufacturer have made it possible for him to erect his manufacturing plant and to have it now in shape to turn out finished products.

Mr. President, it is all well and good that bankers and manufacturers should be protected and I agree fully with that side of the argument here, but the money that the bankers want to deal so lavishly with is the money that belongs to the man that toils, the man that goes to the bank and deposits that money.

The point also made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, deserves serious consideration, because, past creditors of manufacturers are deserving of our consideration. It is our duty as members of this body to regard their interest also, but it seems that the sole argument in favor of this bill is that the bankers and the manufacturers desire it and want it.

Now, Mr. President, I only hope there is no politics behind this question. Who are these manufacturers that want this bill, who are these bankers? I must agree this bill should be defeated, because in its passage we are disregarding the interest of the people whose interests we ought to guard the most, the men and women, and probably widows and orphans, who own the money that is in the banks, and we ought to show some sensible regard for the past creditors of the manufacturer, the past creditors who may have not been paid, but the profits made from their raw materials have made it possible for the manufacturer to erect his manufacturing plant and to own it.

Gentleman, I think in all fairness this bill should be defeated.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have listened to the proponents of this bill, I have listened to the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, I have listened to the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, and I have also listened to the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Mallery, and all three of them have the same argument, that they think this bill should be passed because ten other states have similar legislation.

I might say, Mr. President, as a matter of record now, that during the early days of this Session I pointed out that many, many other states in this Commonwealth have increased their old age benefits; I pointed out that many states are not asking for the two thousand compulsory bond before relief can be granted; I pointed out that many other states are not asking relief recipients to cancel life insurance, but all my words were in vain. Why? Because I was speaking for the common man of Pennsylvania and now, because the bankers of New York, Ohio and Illinois want a certain bill passed, they say we want it passed because other states have the same legislation. Well think, gentlemen, about the common men of Pennsylvania who under our laws must sign away everything they have before they can be fed. Other states do not do it. Think of that argument.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I feel I am as much concerned as anyone in the Senate in seeing that the savings of the people of Pennsylvania which they have in banks are secure, but I know of no law on our statute books today that would prohibit any banker from making a loan to anyone, that would be changed should this bill pass.

The real purpose of this bill is to make their loans more safe than the loans would be if made to these very same people without this law. That is the real purpose, as I see it, why the bankers want this law, to enable them to make loans which they are doing now and which in all probability they will continue to make if this bill is not passed in Pennsylvania. That is my thought.

I want to remind my colleagues also, that in times of war money is necessary as well as guns or anything else. There has never been a war in which this country engaged but what some man or a number of men of means have rendered great public service, and sincerely I think this bill is necessary in order to supply credit and to safeguard more securely money which the banks might loan.

I think my colleagues on the left are sincere, and rightly so, but I feel this bill has been prepared by experts in the field; I make no pretense of being an expert in banking, but I do feel this bill will throw safeguards around loans which do not exist today.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, there is one feature of this bill that kind of worries me a little, and that is on the part of the manufacturer who must go to a bank and in order to borrow money with which to produce certain manufactured products, he must give the bank a lien upon the manufactured product, although he is only borrowing money with which to buy raw materials from which to manufacture the product.

We all know if you should happen to get into a jam and have to borrow money from a bank, they do not ask many questions when it comes to the point where they must necessarily protect their interests in the matter. What happens when a manufacturer borrows fifty thousand dollars and buys raw materials from which to manufacture one hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of manufactured products. If he gets into a quarrel with the bank because he is not getting the price and this and that to pay for the manufactured product, what stops the bank from exercising its lien on the manufactured product and selling that product for the fifty thousand dollars they have tied up in the process, thereby ruining the manufacturer who may not be able to sell his product for the amount he would like to get.

I think this is certainly a bad piece of legislation at this time, when so many persons may be in need of money.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 286, entitled:

An Act to amend the fourth paragraph of article seven of the act approved the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and one, (P. L. 20), entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class," prescribing the manner in which money shall be drawn from the city treasury.

Senate Bill No. 81, entitled:

An Act to amend section one thousand one hundred and forty-seven of the act, approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 103), entitled "An act concerning townships of the second class; and amending, revising, consolidating, and changing the law relating therto," by extending the power to accept roads, streets, lanes and alleys dedicated as public highways.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT. from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 469, (House Bill No. 364) entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 566) entitled "A supplement to the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736) entitled as amended 'An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder and prescribing penalties' as reenacted and amended providing for the payment of compensation to volunteer firemen or their dependents" amplifying the provisions thereof as to persons entitled to such payments.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want to say today a great many volunteer fireman have come into Harrisburg because they were interested in this bill and House Bill No. 199. They met with the chairmen of those two committees, and have asked me to thank the chairmen, Senator Heyburn and also Senator Henry I. Wilson, for the courtesy extended to their committees upon the presentation of these bills and amendments.

Mr. President, I want to say this bill corrects an evil that has long been existent in a situation on workmen's compensation relative to volunteer firemen. For instance, Mr. President, there is one particular case I think the Senate should know about relative to a Cambria County volunteer fireman whose home caught fire one evening and he went into the house and saved one of his children and then made another dash into the place to save another child, and was trapped by the flames and he and his child both died.

I want to say that the borough and the insurance carrier fought the case and the court of Cambria County ruled that the widow was not entitled to workmen's compensation. They ruled he was acting in the capacity of a father instead of a fireman. They could just as easily have stretched their imagination a little further, and if it would have been a neighbor's house, they could have said very easily he was acting in the capacity of a friend and not as a fireman.

Mr. President, this bill sets up workmen's compensation on the same basis as it was in the 1937 act, and the amendment does nothing more than to guarantee that they shall be paid workmen's compensation for duties performed as firemen, when such duties are authorized by the municipality or township with which they are connected.

Mr. President, I want to publicly thank the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Henry I. Wilson, and the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, for their interest in this bill and the work they have done to get it to the floor of this Senate, and I hope all of the Senators will read the bill and give it early consideration.

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SNOWDEN, from the Committee on Municipal Government, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 497, (House Bill No. 610), entitled:

An Act to amend clause forty-seven of section two thousand four hundred three of the act, approved the twenty-third of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 932), entitled "An act relating to cities of the third class; and amending, revising and consolidating the law relating thereto," changing the qualification of historical societies to receive appropriations.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 381, as follows:

An Act to amend the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" by authorizing the acquisition and operation of aviation landing fields and airdromes by counties of the first second third fourth fifth and sixth classes

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. Section 496.1 The proceedings for the condemnation of lands under the provisions of this act and for the assessment of damages for property taken injured or destroyed shall be conducted in the same manner as now provided by law for the condemnation of land for buildings for county purposes in the county in which the land is situated The title acquired by virtue of any such condemnation shall be a title in fee simple

Section 496.2 Any such county acquiring land for any aeronautical purposes may lease the same or part thereof for an adequate consideration after due public notice and with the consent and approval of the taxing authorities of the county acquiring such land to any individual or corporation desiring to use the same for the purposes of landing or starting an airplane therefrom or for other aeronautical purposes on such terms and subject to such conditions and regulations as may be provided Any such county may enter into a contract in the form of a lease providing for the use of said land or any part thereof by the Government of the United States for air mail delivery or other aeronautical purposes upon nominal rental or without consideration

Section 496.3 Any such county acquiring land for any aviation purpose may operate and maintain said airdromes or aviation landing fields jointly with any city county borough town or township or other political subdivision upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the corporate authorities thereof and the county commissioners of the county

Section 3 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. REED. Mr. President, because I think there will be some debate on this bill and due to the absence of the sponsor of the bill, Mr. McGinnis, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 32, on third reading, entitled:

providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act; providing for the collection of tolls for the payment of such bonds and for the cost of maintenance, operation and repair of the turnpike; making such turnpike bonds exempt from taxation; constituting such bonds legal investments in certain instances; requiring suits against the commission to be brought in Dauphin County; prescribing conditions upon which such turnpike shall become free; providing for grade separations, grade changes and relocation and restoration of public roads and State highways affected by the turnpike; providing for condemnation; granting certain powers and authority to municipal subdivisions and agencies of the Commonwealth to cooperate with the commission; and authorizing the issuance of turnpike revenue refunding bonds.

L. 814), entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the second class as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries, and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries; prescribing certain procedure for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors; and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens, parties, political bodies, registration commissions, commissioners, registrars, inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commissions, county election boards, election officers, municipal officers, departments and bureaus, police officers, courts, judges, prothonotaries, sheriffs, county commissioners, peace officers, county treasurers, county controllers, registrars of vital statistics, certain public utility corporations, real estate brokers, rental agents, and boards of school directors; and imposing penalties," abolishing the existing registration commission for cities of the second class and providing that the county commissioners of each county in which any such city is located shall act as a registration commission therefor, providing for the consolidation of the second class city general register with the general register of cities of the third class and boroughs, towns and townships of the county, providing for the transfer of the registration of electors upon change of residence from a third class city, borough, town or township in the same county, changing the period during which changes of enrollment of political party may be made, eliminating preparation and distribution of preliminary street lists, and permitting the destruction of certain records.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I want to call the attention again of this body to the defects in this bill, which show there has been some hasty second thought in order to make of this bill something that it was not intended to be. Now, I want to call attention to the sponsors of this bill that they have amended the body of the bill, but if they read the title they will see the title has reference to the registration of electors in cities of the second class and then the amendments or the changes in the bill refer to abolishing the existing registration commission in cities of the second class and providing that the county commissioners of each county in which any such city is located shall act as the registration commission. Now, Mr. President, this is diametrically in opposition to the body of the bill.

Mr. President, the title of this bill is very faulty and if this bill is read for the second time without amending the title it will have to be amended again.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I must say I agree with the gentleman from Fayette, which is a novel procedure; the suggested correction made by him is necessary.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 169, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 207, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsections (a) and (b) of section one thousand two hundred five of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by further regulating the employment, suspension, and retirement of professional employes.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

Mr. EDMONDS. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I ask the gentleman from Montgomery what is the purpose to be accomplished by this bill.

Mr. EDMONDS. The object is to bring about the time in which no one teacher will have two contracts with two school districts at the same time. It seems to me there is an anomaly in our legislation that we allow that at the present time, and I think the quicker we get rid of it the better.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, does the Senator from Montgomery feel this is a fair deal in the sense that a teacher may be suspended through no fault of her own, as by a decrease in pupil population and that after a period of five years has elapsed she should be removed from the rolls.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I can understand there may be cases by which, through a decrease in pupil population, teachers will be suspended temporarily and I can imagine they will go into another district and in the other district they may perform their services so satisfactorily as to get a contract, and when they get a contract it is my opinion they should give up their contractual relationship in the first district.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Montgomery has anticipated my next question but I do not think it was an answer to the question I propounded just now. I will ask the gentleman from Montgomery the next question, if he will permit me.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Does the Senator from Montgomery believe that when a teacher is unemployed she should remain, so when she becomes unemployed through no fault of her own, and with full knowledge of the fact that a teacher has a particular training, that their training usually fits them for teaching alone and does not equip them very well for some other occupation, does the Senator from Montgomery believe it is fair to have these teachers stay home on relief and wait for the opportunity to turn up, to be recalled for employment?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, in the case of a teacher who is suspended because of curtailment in pupil enrollment, I would be very glad in that case to have the teacher ambitious enough to go into another district and get a position. I think that would be first-class but I think to have two contractual relationships with two districts is not fair and the teachers should not ask that they be given that privilege.

Mr. MUNDY. I should like to further interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, in these days of defense, may we use the name of defense?—there will be a great many male teachers called to the service and there will be created vacancies as a result. There may be some unemployed teachers who are unemployed, as I say, through no fault of their own, who may be available to fill those vacancies but may not care to lose their contract in the original district because it will be a better contract when the contract is fulfilled. Does the Senator from Montgomery believe in temporarily filling these positions they should give up their original contract, which is the best for them.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, my recollection is that this bill provides a five year period before they have to give it up and I think at the end of the five year period it is entirely fair they should give it up.

I want to say this, Mr. President, in a way it is unfair the Senator from Luzerne started a furore over teacher's tenure—the teachers stood on their own feet and when the time came there was a shortage in pupils they looked around and got positions in communities in which they fitted.

It seems to me, Mr. President, the effect of this present thing is to convey the impression a teacher has a right to a salary whether there are pupils to teach or not. I do not believe that for an instant and I do not believe the better element among teachers wants it. It seems to me it would be a lot better for them to go out and compete and if they can get into another district and get a contract, why then let them give up the contract they have in the first district. That seems to me in the line of meritorious legislation.

Mr. MUNDY. I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be further interrogated

Mr. EDMONDS. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I recall a little meeting we had at which were present the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, and if I recall, representatives of school boards and representatives of the school teaching profession in the 1939 Session, when we received objections from the school directors' association and we were led to believe if those amendments were put into the teacher's tenure act all the ills which they complained of would be corrected. Is that correct, Senator

Mr. EDMONDS. I recall very well that meeting, Mr. President, and I recall that was the time when the gentleman from Luzerne and the gentleman from Philadelphia signed a bill that afterwards was introduced by the four sponsors, and my recollection is that both of those gentlemen voted against the bill later on.

Mr. MUNDY. That is very true, Mr. President, because, as has occurred in many instances here on the floor in the present Session, the original contractual relations were abrogated after the agreement had been entered into.

Let me take further issue with the Senator on that. The Senator made the statement I created a furore by introducing the teacher's tenure bill in the Senate of Pennsylvania. Let me assure you his interpretation of this furore from my point of view is incorrect; the furore was present but the Senator from Montgomery and many of my other colleagues, were far removed from the center of the conflicting and disturbing emotions, and had not felt its presence and the very fact when I introduced the bill it did invite the attention of some individuals so far removed from the situation justified that action.

Let me say too, Mr. President, that in the 1937 session when I introduced this tenure bill—while I have no pride of origin or pride of creation in this bill—but I freely admit and feel it was one of the best tenure bills introduced in any state of these United States and it seems at the end of that session everybody seemed satisfied and as a rule, Mr. President, we judge law as made by results and in the ensuing period of two years we seemed to have had a fairly good result and fine interpretation by the courts, despite the fact that the School Directors Association hired high-priced lawyers to attack it, and may I say that by each opinion of the lower court and by the Appellate Court the law itself and the phraseology that is so viciously attacked was very well voiced in the opinion of those legal experts.

May I say, Mr. President, this condition existed too: naturally some of those school directors, of which the gentleman from Montgomery has no experience, became restless immediately after the passage of the bill and they organized a pressure group to atack the Tenure Bill itself and they proceeded to think up a few vicious amendments which would destroy it.

Now, Mr. President, I do not know of any real good official in the State of Pennsylvania who wants to avail himself of unnecessary powers and may I say to the Senators, so that the Senate will have knowledge of the situation, I labored under the impression this was not on a political basis and I wanted to take the school teacher and the eminent teaching profession out of politics entirely, but I might say that the Senate has never had experience of seeing school boards as I have up in my community, when they send teachers out on election days to canvass houses from door to door, and then put policemen at either side of the street because they do not even trust the school directors.

I might further say, Mr. President, the gentleman has never had experience with school directors who absolutely exact graft for appointment and graft for continuance in office and graft for supplies and that is an abuse of power which I want to correct.

I want to say, Mr. President, up in my coal region section I would be absolutely sorry for and absolutely pity a poor good looking school teacher that came in to some of these unintelligent ignoramuses, jackasses with the name of school directors, to be judged on their ability to teach.

That is far removed from the residential district in which the Senator from Mongtomery resides and he does not have any experiences of this kind; he knows nothing of the other side of it, of this pressure group of school directors, if you please, who have been coming in here constantly telling us they would be satisfied with that and satisfied with this, but there is only one thing they are satisfied with and that is to give them power over the very body and soul so that they can exact tribute from the school teachers in the State of Pennsylvania and then they will reach the point of satisfaction and saturation. These gentlemen who are interested in the school problem, those three gentlemen who jointly sponsored this bill, I wish they would come up in the coal region section and really investigate some of the things with which the teaching profession have to put up with.

Now, Mr. President, in conclusion I want to say and I want to repeat that this is an unfair bill, it is a bill that absolutely as far as we are concerned lacks courage and lacks direction. You have seen on the floor of this Senate time and time again these pressure groups attacking one single group, the poor little innocent school marm, because they have not had the courage to become powerful voting parties, an amalgamated union that might threaten someone's seat in the Senate of Pennsylvania. Let us be frank about it, Mr. President. They have gone along in a peaceful way and these gentlemen regard the school teachers as a peaceable little citizen who raise their voices timidly in protest only to subside when some school official with power puts their thumb upon them and suppresses their emotions in an un-American way.

If this bill goes through, Mr. President, I want to get up on the floor and say this is the culmination of a series of bill that savor of fascism, if you please, emigrating from the Senate of Pennsylvania; we have witnessed here bills day after day which say they shall not do this and they shall not do that and I say to the gentlemen over there who have time after time gotten up on the floor and attacked this regimentation of the administration at Washington, who have viciously attacked that and said it was wrong, said it was wrong to regiment people, said it was wrong not to let people interpret facts as they are and have now put four or five bills on record that are the worse kind of fascist legislation that has ever gone on record in Pennsylvania and if you want to keep on thumbing the timid little school teacher I say, gentlemen, it is just like going out and instead of hunting a lion or a tiger you go out and hunt a timid little rabbit because he will not kick you in the ear.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, if that is an apology from the gentleman from Luzerne I will accept it so that the matter may be closed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the answer to the question put by the gentleman from Luzerne prompts another question from me to the gentleman from Montgomery.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. With very great pleasure, Mr. President, particularly on this subject.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman from Montgomery said he thinks on a question affecting a new contract there is a five year limit in the bill. As I read the bill, and I should like to read it to the gentleman, page five, beginning line twenty-three it says "No employee suspended as aforesaid shall be prevented from engaging in other occupations during the period of such suspension except that a suspended employe who accepts employment as a professional employe under contract with another school district shall thereby lose his or her status for reinstatement in the district in which suspended."

It seems to me, and I would like to ask the question, whether that does not plainly mean that a six months contract taken temporarily by a teacher on suspension would prevent her from going back again to the original district and seek her contract status. Will the gentleman answer that question?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, the gentleman from Lancaster, Senator Homsher, has just reminded me the five year clause to which I referred was in the last half of the sentence and related probably to a different subject. On the question, as now presented, as I understand it the question is: is not there an immediate cessation of one contract when you take another?

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Should that not be, Mr. President?

Mr. SHAPIRO. No, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Why not?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I suggest the gentleman might explain here what the gentleman from Luzerne said, that if a school teacher has an opportunity to get temporary employment she has the choice to make of getting temporary employment and staying off the relief rolls, and it is my thought that the suggestion is in the bill to make her lose her first contractual right, which would keep her on the relief rolls, because what is the use of taking a six month's contract in another district if she loses her tenure rights in the first district?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I understand the clause says if they are employed under a new contract with another school district they shall thereby lose—

Mr. SHAPIRO. I understand, Mr. President, a contract can be made variable, I understand a contract can be made for three months, I understand that a contract in one of these vocational schools now being sanctioned by this Legislature can be made effective for a temporary period and if a teacher took that kind of a contract wouldn't she under the provisions of this bill lose her status in the original jurisdiction?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, if she has a contract in writing, as the tenure act provides, and takes a new contract with a new district, ought not she lose here status in the first district?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if the new contract gives her the same status as she has under the old district, yes, but under the provisions of this bill there is no assurance that the new contract she takes comes under the terms of this bill. Now she can take any kind of a contract temporarily or otherwise and be bound to lose her status in the first instance and I am quite sure that was not the intention of the framers of this bill.

Mr. EDMONDS. Well, Mr President, I would say the intent of the framers of this bill was to end this situation in which there can be two contractual statuses for one teacher. I confess I have not looked at the wording of the bill for some little time but my own feeling is the bill itself contains an adequate statement of that desire, but if the Senator from Philadelphia has any amendments, by all means let us debate them.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I suggest that the bill be referred back to committee so that there may be further study on this question.

Mr. EDMONDS. No, Mr. President, I do not know that I would agree to that. Why not introduce them here on the floor and let us debate them?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, after all this bill involves contractual rights of a large group of people and I do not think it is fair that I should suggest any amendments to the bill on the floor and then have amendments which might be questioned. I think this is sufficiently important to have the committee study the question which I have raised and which the gentleman will admit he cannot at this time answer completely.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think it would be much better to allow this bill to go back to committee and give it the consideration to which it is entitled.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

Mr. SHAPIRO. I so move, Mr. President, that Senate Bill No. 207 be recommitted and I hope in view of the importance of the situation the gentlemen will join me in that motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. EDMONDS. I appreciate the suggestion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, but it also reminds me of the quotation: "Timeo Danaos fet dona ferenter" which means, "I fear all Greeks even when they bear gifts," and having been burnt once on that proposition I do not propose to be burnt again and personally I shall oppose the motion to recommit this bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, all my life I have been objecting to being called something but never before have I been called a Greek and I think it is carrying the matter a little too far. We are still dealing with teachers and not with Greeks.

Therefore, Mr. President, I press the motion which I made.

The PRESIDENT. Is there a seconder to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I might say further, Mr. President, I do not bear any gifts nor do I bear any grudge but I do bear a sense of responsibility for passing legislation which affects a group of people who are entitled to just as much consideration as any other group and therefore I press my motion that this bill be referred back to committee, Greek or no Greek.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. COX. I second the motion, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I simply want to testify that I have been emotionally stirred by the speech of the gentleman from Luzerne but I think as he approached his climax he became a little more emotional and the vibrations became somewhat faulty and I missed some of the end of the speech. However, Mr. President, I understood him to say or draw a picture of a modest little timid schoolmarm and I simply stand here to say from my experience she is far from that. I have met lobbyists in my long career here and believe me the school marm lobby is one of the most formidable of all lobbies; it surpasses in my opinion the American Legion, union labor or the anthracite bootleggers and even the blind.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I intend to vote against the motion to send this bill back to committee. I know, Mr. President, that motion is not debatable but there have been misstatements or misrepresentations made which I believe should be corrected at this time.

Mr. President, under the present tenure act, if a teacher gets a position in any school district whether she has a contract or not, she has to teach two years before she can get a contract in that district because under the rating system a superintendent must rate her for two years and if she is satisfactory at the end of two years she will get a contract.

I believe Mr. President, when a teacher has taught in one district for a period of two years and is then granted a contract that naturally and morally she should release the former district from her contract. I also believe when a teacher has been on a suspended list and has not taught for five years she should not be carried along in that district, for today most of our up to date school teachers come into their classes and teach history and geography out of the current newspapers, because the textbooks which were in use last September, as far as history and geography are concerned, are out of date, and when a teacher has been out of the profession and the work for a period of five years I do not believe any teacher is fit to go back in the schoolroom and be forced upon pupils in that district and I feel, Mr. President, we should allow this bill to go through.

In 1937, when the teacher's tenure act was passed, I doubt if there was any one member of this Senate, outside of the gentleman from Luzerne who did more and was most earnest in seeing that the teachers got a fair share in this tenure act than I was.

I might say, Mr. President, I was chairman of the Committee on Education at that time and I still believe in the tenure act, but as a school director for more than twenty years I have seen some of the bad features that have come about because of that tenure act and I shall do all in my power to help to correct the tenure act so that it will be fair to both sides. I feel this bill should stay on the floor.

Mr. MUNDY Mr. President, in answer to the statement of the Senator from Philadelphia, I want to say it was a wonderful provision on the part of the Lord to plan it so we do not all see the same thing in the same way. If it were not for this provision every one of us would picture some particular woman as being the most beautiful which would mean we would all wind up by wanting to marry the same woman.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I might join with the fly, which after having settled on a window pane and then flew away, and said, "that could be viewed from both sides."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I might suggest before consideration is taken on the motion that this bill be recommitted, that in the Republican Caucus we agreed that this bill should go over in its order, so that there might be ample opportunity to study it. We are perfectly willing to permit the bill to go over in its order if the gentleman from Philadelphia will withdraw his motion and save the time of taking a roll call.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. SHAPIRO. Yes, certainly, Mr. President; I withdraw the motion to recommit this bill and I will be glad to have the bill go over in its order.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 207, Printer's No. 217, go over in its order.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 294, (House Bill No. 481), be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. COX. I second the motion, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I second the motion, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to state my reasons for asking that this bill go back, and they are very brief. This bill has been amended and reamended on several occasions and it now looks no more like the child we prepared here in the first instance than does Senator Chapman's grandchild look mine and I therefore think it ought to be referred back to the Committee for further study.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I do not think the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, prepared any bill in the first instance in this Senate

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, it is my frank opinion that the bill ought to remain on this Senate floor. This bill has been amended so many times that it is not even funny, as we popularly say, and this bill now ought to remain on the Senate Calendar.

We ought to pass it because in its present state it is absolutely certain the House will never concur in any amendments we have made and when they refuse to concur that will throw it into a conference committee and you will then get some kind of a bill. but if you keep on sending it back to committee you will never get to the point of a conference committee. I honestly and sincerely believe we ought to keep this bill on the Senate floor and pass it with any kind of amendments, because the House will never concur in them and then the bill will be ready for a conference committee where it will finally be moulded into whatever kind of child of whatever particular race or religious sect they want to make of it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to call attion of the members of this Senate that there are some limitations upon the powers of a conference committee and that a conference committee can not mould this bill into a new bill and can not change the sense of the Senate amendments. There may be some amendments in this bill when it gets to a conference committee, and I am not ready to answer just what are the limitations of a conference committee that will preclude the conference committee from acting on any kind of a bill, but I do not believe in the procedure of just putting amendments into a bill for the purpose of throwing it into conference. I do not agree with that kind of legislative action and therefore I think now that this bill has been amended, I hope for the last time unless somebody else inspires the gentleman from Philadelphia with another set of amendments, I think we ought to take it back to committee, look at it, discuss it and see what it is we are acting on. I do not believe we can act on it intelligently in one day's time, to have a bill amended today and consider it again tomorrow. I know the votes are going to be against me but I am making a record of my position on this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. COLEMAN and Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—8

Barr,	Cox,	McCreesh,	Shapiro,
Coleman,	Frey,	Mundy,	Stiefel,

NAYS—39

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Letzler,	Thomas,
Becker,	Farrell,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Carr,	Geltz,	McQuiddy,	Wade,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Miller,	Walker,
Chapman,	Heyburn,	Reed,	Watkins,
Crider,	Homsher,	Ruth,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crowe,	James,	Snowden,	Wilson, T. B.,
Deitrick,	Jaspan,	Stevenson,	Woodward,
DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Tallman,	Ziesenhelm,
Ealy,	Lanius,	Taylor,

So the question was determined in the negative.

An Act providing for the creation, maintenance and operation of a county employes retirement system in counties of the fourth and fifth classes; imposing certain charges on counties, and prescribing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 413, (House Bill No. 692), entitled:

An Act to amend clauses (k) and (l), and to add clause (n) to section two thousand four hundred two of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, some time ago there was some amendments offered to this bill and I objected then on the ground that they changed the original purpose of the bill. I am informed the purpose of amending this bill is to conform with the procedure which we have established some years ago, to take all amendments to the codes and treat them in one bill and while it is true that it may be somewhat confusing as a matter of legislative procedure, I think it has been established to be a better way of handling the bills.

OBJECTION TO AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. SHAPIRO. Therefore, Mr. President, I withdraw my objection to the amendments introduced several days ago, which are now on the table but suggest however, that this bill be held until all of the amendments to the code—well, I am informed these are all the amendments to be prepared to the code—and therefore we can take them up at one time. I therefore withdraw the objection and I think the amendments should be offered.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INFORMATION

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President I rise on a matter of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will state his query.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Do we now have before us Senate Bill No. 413, Printer's No. 101?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. The copy of that bill, Printer's No. 101, on my desk, Mr. President, does not contain the amendments proposed.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct. A point of order was raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia several days ago and the amendments lay on the table pending a decision by the Chair on that point of order. Now the gentleman from Philadelphia has withdrawn that objection and the amendments have just been taken from the table.

AMENDMENTS TAKEN FORM TABLE AND ADOPTED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the amendments proposed to Senate Bill No. 413, Printer's No. 101, be taken from the table and given immediate consideration.

Mr. EALY. I second the motion, Mr. President.

It was agreed to.

Messrs. MILLER and MUNDY read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 828, entitled:

An Act authorizing and directing the Department of Highways to erect, construct, and maintain a free bridge over the Susquehanna River connecting the city of Wilkes-Barre and the borough of Kingston in the County of Luzerne; and to provide the necessary approaches and connections with state highways; providing for the acceptance of Federal aid; empowering counties to pay certain damages and making an appropriation.

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING PHILADELPHIA COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Mr. SHAPIRO and Mr. WOODWARD offered the following resolution which was twice read.

In the Senate, May 6, 1941.

Whereas, The evidence produced during the recent trial in the Courts of Philadelphia of criminal charges against a member and a former member of the Civil Service Commission of the City of Philadelphia revealed that irregularities existed in the work of the Commission; and

Whereas, The public criticism of the action of the court in discharging the defendants in that case on the grounds that the civil service lists were illegally made up and the evidence produced at the trial and the discussion of the circumstances surrounding the case in the public press has convinced the public that a borough investigation should be made of the Civil Service Commission, its staff and the administration of the system; and

Whereas, The members of the Commission being appointees of the Council of the City of Philadelphia and not employes or officers of the Commonwealth, such investigation should not be made at this time by the Commonwealth unless action is not taken by the authorities of the City of Philadelphia; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Council of the City of Philadelphia is hereby requested to at once investigate or appoint a competent committee of its members or of citizens of Philadelphia to investigate the conduct of the Civil Service Commission of the said city, its staff and the administration by the Commission of the system of examinations and appointments thereunder.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to say on behalf of myself and my colleague from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, this is an important matter, and we think the City of Philadelphia should be given an opportunity to clear its own household. If it does not, then it may be proper for us to act.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Messrs. SHAPIRO and WOODWARD, Mr. President, asked unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

ERRATUM

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I should like to have corrected a reference appearing in the Legislative Journal, page 1571, April 22, 1941, pertaining to my definition of the word "gerrymander." The PRESIDENT. The correction will be noted.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 714, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section fifteen of the act, approved the eleventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 522), entitled "An act relating to dogs, and the protection of live stock and poultry from damage by dogs; providing for the licensing of dogs by the Secretary of Agriculture; providing for the enumeration of dogs by assessors; regulating the keeping of dogs, and authorizing their destruction in certain cases; providing for the protection of licensed dogs, and for dogs temporarily imported for trial, show, and breeding purposes; prescribing certain privileges for hunting dogs, and dogs owned or used by the Board of Game Commissioners; providing for the assessment of damages done to livestock and poultry by dogs, and for the illegal killing of licensed dogs, and the payment of such damages by the Commonwealth; imposing powers and duties on certain State, county, city, borough, town, and township officers and employes; directing the payment of all moneys collected into the State Treasury; and making an appropriation thereof; and providing penalties," by providing for the return of a portion of moneys received for licenses to the counties for use by Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and specifically appropriating the same for such purpose go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER ACTION OF SENATE IN RECOMMITTING BILL

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I move that the action of the Senate be reconsidered whereby Senate Bill No. 554 was recomitted to the Committe on Public Health.

Mr. COX. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, the Chair is performing his work so diligently that this slipped by me without having an opportunity at the time to state my opposition to the bill.

I feel personally, and I know the gentleman from Lackawanna joins with me and many more colleagues in the Senate, that the provision in connection with relief recipients is improper and I would like to be in a posistion to wipe that provision out. We of course do not know what the purpose of the gentleman on the right is in sending the bill back to committee but we want to be in a position, as far as the record is concerned, to show our protests against this procedure against this motion to recommit the bill.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I object to the motion and ask that the roll be called.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GELTZ and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—13

Barr,	Cox,	McCreesh,	Ruth,
Bartlett,	DiSilvestro,	McQuiddy,	Stiefel,
Cavalcante,	Jaspan,	Reed,	Walker,
Coleman,

NAYS—28

Becker,	Edmonds,	Kephart,	Thomas,
Carr,	Farrell,	Letzler,	Tyler,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Mallery,	Wade,
Crider,	Haluska,	Snowden,	Watkins,
Crowe,	Heyburn,	Stevenson,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	Homsher,	Tallman,	Wilson, T. B.,
Ealy,	James,	Taylor,	Woodward,

POINT OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise on a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his question.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I understand the result of this action is that the bill remains committed?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Dear God, increase our faith. Help us to believe that faith is the victory that overcomes the world. Help us to see that it is the men and women of faith who have done most for the world. Warm our hearts toward those who have lived for duty rather than desire, and may we never set up idols of worldly achievement that shall lead astray those of thy children who are weak. Keep us and our loved ones ever close to Thee, our Heavenly Father, we pray in the name of Christ, Thy Son. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. RAUSCH, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inquire of the gentleman from Delaware where his carnation is today.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, there comes a time in the day's occupation, the children's hour, and this one of the times I must plead guilty of childishly having forgotten my flower this morning and left it on the drainboard in the kitchen.

Mr. Speaker, I was undecided as to whether I should buy a fresh flower, or return to my apartment for the one I forgot. I decided to do neither, because I thought some one would ask just that question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not have a white carnation, but he would like to present the gentleman from Delaware with a red rose.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I suppose every man in his life time is entitled to one whim. I have always worn the white carnation for purity. Today I will walk in grace and put a little dash of red on.

The SPEAKER. That is the Democratic way, the red rose for hope.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 15, 1941.

Whereas, The Federal Government recognized in the original Social Security Act that the administration of unemployment compensation laws is properly a function of the various states and accordingly designed the act as an inducement to the adoption of the program by the states themselves; and

Whereas, The funds received from the Federal Government for the expenses of administering the state acts have in the first instance been taken from employers of the states themselves; and

Whereas, The Social Security Act has prior to and since its amendment August 10, 1939, required the state acts to meet a prescribed standard as a condition to the eligibility of such states for the refund of their expenses of administration; and

Whereas, By amendment of August 10, 1939, clauses (8) and (9) were added to subsection (a) of section 303 requiring as further conditions to the refund of such administrative expenses, the following:

"(8) Effective July 1, 1941, the expenditure of all moneys received pursuant to section 302 of this title solely for the purpose and in the amounts found necessary by the Board for the proper and efficient administration of such state law; and

"(9) Effective July 1, 1941, the replacement, within a reasonable time, of any moneys received pursuant to section 302 of this title, which, because of any action or contingency, have been lost or have been expended for purposes other than, or in amounts in excess of, those found necessary by the Board for the proper administration of such state law;" and

Whereas, Said clauses (8) and (9) are unnecessary for the reason that ample protection is afforded the interests of the Federal Government by the existing requirement for approval and certification of state laws by the Federal Social Security Board; and

Whereas, Said clauses are improper for the reason that they attempt to give the Federal Government power to encroach upon the domain of the states in determining their own questions of procedure and administration in which, because of geographical locations, peculiar governmental procedures and processes, and other differentials, there must necessarily exist wide variations among the several states which cannot be standardized, nor can a particular state efficiently adopt a procedure in regard to one of its functions which would be out of harmony with its general practices; and

Whereas, Clause (9) makes possible by a single act of the Federal Social Security Board the upsetting of established precedents existing under present state unemployment compensation laws already approved and accepted by the Federal Board and requiring the repayment of funds heretofore legally expended, nor does said clause have any limitation either as to the scope of the inquiry or as to the time in which demand for repayment must be made; and

Whereas, The enforcement of said clauses will have the effect of giving the Federal Government complete and arbitrary control over the administration of the unemployment compensation program which the Federal Act itself recognizes as a proper function of the states themselves; and

Whereas, If said clauses are allowed to become effective they will grant to the Federal Government control of the administration of any state or local law wherein the benefit of Federal funds is or may be obtained; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully memorialize and petition the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States to cause said clauses (8) and (9) of subsection (a) of section 303, of the Social Security Act, as amended August 10, 1939, to be repealed prior to its effective date; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted to the President of the United States and to each Senator and Representative in Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Speaker:

We are in receipt of a copy of resolution No. 18 adopted by the House of Representatives on April 29, 1941 stating that it is the sense of the House of Representatives that the proper authorities of this Commonwealth take immediate steps to pump or to arrange for the pumping of the water in the distressed coal mines of the Herminie Coal District in Westmoreland County, and to pay for the cost of such work for the express purpose of providing employment for the coal miners of said district.

The addressing of this resolution to the Departments of Health and Mines is assumed to indicate that the House of Representatives is of the opinion that these Departments can and should undertake the proposed dewatering. Therefore, it appears proper to call to your attention the following facts:

The Mines located in and near Heminie, Westmoreland County, were last operated by the Ocean Coal Company and the Keystone Coal Company with a combined tonnage of approximately 57,108 tons. In 1938 these companies abandoned their properties and stripped both the underground workings and the surface properties of all mining equipment, for the reason that the companies could not operate the properties at a profit. As the situation now stands, the water in the Keystone Shaft workings, which are connected with the Ocean Coal Company Mines, would have to be pumped in order to dewater the mine of the Ocean Coal Company.

Although facilities are not available for the making of an accurate estimate of the cost of dewatering the aforesaid properties, a conservative estimate by the Department of Mines indicates that the cost of this dewatering to the bottom of the Ocean Coal Company Shaft would approximate $180,000. Inasmuch as the mines have been generally worked to the dip, there would be the further expense of dewatering these dip workings, thus materially increasing the above estimate.

After the workings had been dewatered, there would arise the question of a responsible party to rehabilitate these workings and thereafter operate them before reemployment of mine workers could be made effective.

Although Secretary of Mines Richard Maize, interviewed banking interests in Herminie in an effort to contact a party who might be interested in operating the mines and was told the bank would have such parties contact him, to date no one has shown any inclination to undertake the operation of the workings. In view of the fact that the Ocean Coal Company could not operate the workings when they were in going condition, it appears all the more improbable that these mines could be operated at a profit even at the present market for bituminous coal.

But even assuming that profitable operation of the mines were possible, there are no funds available, either to the Department of Health or the Department of Mines, which could be used for this purpose. The funds credited to the Department of Health for the dewatering of flooded coal mines are entirely inadequate for the proposed dewatering, and furthermore cannot under existing laws be used for such purpose, inasmuch as they are specifically limited to dewatering of mines flooded directly or indirectly by the high waters of March 1936.

Therefore, the Department of Mines and the Department of Health respectfully call your attention to the fact that although they have genuine sympathy for the situation of the unemployed miners of the Herminie District, neither Department is in a position to undertake the dewatering of these mines under present conditions.

Very truly yours,

JOHN J. SHAW, M.D.,
Secretary of Health.
RICHARD MAIZE,
Secretary of Mines.

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McFALL. Mr. Speaker, I am going to oppose this bill because I think it is very bad. In the first place this bill seeks to set up a Saturday holiday for a special group. This group, of course, is made up of bankers and those who are employed in banks. This to my mind is a small group of people who will get the benefit of a Saturday holiday. Compare this to the thousands of people that are inconvenienced or that are really made to suffer a great deal because banks are being closed on Saturday, so that they cannot do any business.

Mr. Speaker, I refer to the large group of working men and women who work all week and who are paid on a Friday night in checks, and that is the method of paying men and women who work in my district. There are twenty-three banks in Northampton County, and not one of these banks wants this bill passed. I think, therefore, this is a fair percentage of what the rural sections want, pertaining to this bill. I do not think any of them want it. If we are going to make holidays for special groups of workers, why not take in every group of workers?

I am sure the farmers would welcome a Saturday and a Sunday holiday; men who must feed stock every day of the year, men who must milk twice a day for seven days a week; they would welcome a holiday, but they do not get it. The fact of the matter is it would be impossible.

I say to you this bill is nothing more nor less than a bill that gives a special group of workers special privilege. Banks are not only business places, but banks are bordering very closely on being public utilities. They are the life-blood of business; you stop the flow of money and everything stops.

When these men and women get their pay on Friday night, our banks are open for an hour in order to accommodate as many as possible who want their checks cashed, but most of them are held over until Saturday, and these men and women make a line reaching out to the doors where for three hours they receive their Saturday's pay.

I want to picture to you if I possibly can the inconvenience to these people, doing without money, going without proper goods, or special enjoyments, that they would have if they had money, but who must wait until Monday. The clerks of banks tell me this would in no way assist them in their work, because the work they now get on Saturday would be carried over into the next week, so I say to you, give this bill your consideration and have a heart for the working people, and for the small business people who would be harmed if this bill were passed. It is very nice, I will admit, to be in a position to close your desk on a Friday afternoon and go to Atlantic City and stay there until Sunday and come home Sunday night. Many of us would like to enjoy that privilege, and I do not want to deny the bankers the privilege of this holiday, but I am trying to tell you people, you Members of this House, just what harm you would do to the rural sections. Saturday is the big business day for the small business man, and if the people do not have money to spend, they probably will not get their bills paid and there will not be the amount of business that is being done now. I say in all fairness to those of you who live in rural sections, give this bill the consideration to which it is entitled, and I call upon the members of this House on both sides to vote "no."

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I am rather amazed that anyone from the other side of this House should rise and oppose a bill which is for the benefit of a large group of employes in banks. It is not for the benefit of the bankers, they can leave their office on Friday afternoon and go away over the weekend, but the employes of the bank must not only stay until 12 o'clock Saturday, but many of them must work throughout the afternoon balancing their books and doing the different duties that fall to employes of a bank.

The gentleman from Northampton has said this gives a special group of employes a Saturday holiday. Remember, the bill only applies to the summertime. Remember also that all of the departments of the State Government are closed on Saturday, so that a group of employes having the opportunity of a day off on Saturday, or to work a five day week has been approved by the state government over a long period of time.

In addition to that there are any number of peole who are employed only five days a week under the present law and do not work on Saturday. I find that in my community most of the men who work in our industries and in other places of business within the community are on their way home in the afternoon long before I leave my office. As a matter of fact most of them are through at half past four in the afternoon and are on their way home.

Today in all the modern and up to date communities during the summertime there is either a closing at noon on Wednesday or the stores are closed on Saturday. In the city of Philadelphia the large department stores are all closed all day Saturday, as well as almost all of the retail shops in the center of Philadelphia. That has spread, I have found, into many of the smaller communities where they are up to the modern idea that Saturday closing is proper, giving the people who work in the stores an opportunity to enjoy a Saturday holiday the same as those who work in the mills.

The question of getting checks cashed in my community, in the city of Chester where I have my office, the large industries there do not pay on Friday night. The banks do not want long lines of people cashing checks in the banks on Saturday morning, because they want to attend to their regular customers, so they have their payrolls during the week. They have special days for the Sun Shipbuilding Company, for the Ford Motor Company and other large industries when their employes are paid and they can go to the banks and get their checks cashed .

There is no reason why, because there has been a certain custom existing in a community, that the custom cannot be changed. I remember during the first World War I had working for me a woman who came to this country from Hungary. She owned a couple of small properties in Philadelphia, and whenever she wanted to pay her taxes or water rent, she took a day off and went to the city of Philadelphia and paid her taxes and water rent. She could have just as well gone to the post office and bought a money order or she could have gotten someone to send that money in for her, but because that was her custom she went personally to the office and paid her money.

That is true of many of our people. I remember when I started to practice law in the city of Chester there was hardly a law office that was not open every night in the week and also on Saturday. In fact about the only time lawyers ever got a holiday was on the Fourth of July and Christmas. Those were the only two days they ever took off. Today you cannot find any law office opened at night and you won't find many lawyers during the summer time in their office on Saturday. It is more a question of custom, it is more a question of adjusting yourself to the conditions as they exist.

Why shouldn't we do this for the thousands of employes of banks who during the summer time cannot go away on Saturday like many other people do. This is an opportunity of giving employes of banks a day of rest and recreation, the opportunity of going out into the open spaces, going to different resorts, or to some small place in the country where they can have the advantage of outdoor life which they cannot have in the wintertime. If employes of banks could stay around some night in the week, for instance Friday night, to accommodate these people, certainly the employes would be far better off. It is so universal. Closing on Saturday seems universal not only in industry, not only in the state government, not only in many of our local goverment offices, but in the offices of utilities, insurance companies and many other large corporations. This is particularly during the summertime. If the merchants want to deposit money all the modern banks have night depositories where anybody can deposit money without any trouble.

Somebody suggested they would have to keep on hand a large amount of money over the week-end. There is no reason why they cannot make a deposit in a night depository. There is no reason why arrangements cannot be made to give the merchants the change they need. The change could be handed to him. For the sake of the people who will not change their customs and habits, they are going to inconvenience quite a number of people. This bill, it seems to me is modern, it is up to date, it gives an opportunity to thousands of employes to enjoy those modern things which thousands of other employes are enjoying today. If they must work on Saturday then certainly a lot of other people who work in the mills should also work on Saturday. If the five days a week are good for one group of people why not for this group?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TURNER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Delaware like to have an amendment to this bill to include the law officers and the attorneys in the state?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would be very happy to have such an amendment. I tried to convince my brother attorneys in Delaware County to this effect that in justice to our secretarys and stenographers who everyone knows, work, Mr. Speaker, in my office does work seven days a week. This would not benefit me, but I tried to close the office in the summer time on Saturday to give the girls a week-end off. I would be very happy to have all the law offices closed on Saturday because a lot of fellows who take particular delight in putting in a lot of motions and a lot of proceedings during the summer time, might take pity on some of the rest of us and give us a day off.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I find in my particular community the law offices at least are open, and if the attorneys are not there the girls are. I agree with my friend, Mr. Turner, if he would like to include the law offices in the state there may be a possibility that I would vote in favor of this bill. If not, I will have to vote against it.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, it is my impression that the banks from the standpoint of holidays have been treated very well. In our community banks open at eight o'clock in the morning and close at two in the afternoon. That gives them a pretty long evening. Theoretically what the gentleman from Delaware says is awfully good, awfully fine, but from the practical standpoint and from the business standpoint,—I sometimes think lawyers don't know so much about business,—it just doesn't have any weight. In our community we issue on Friday afternoons close to two thousand checks. You might, as the gentleman from Delaware said, we should suggest to business, "You ought to pay on Wednesday," or "You ought to pay on Thursday because the banks want to close on Saturday morning." You know how much weight that has with the business man. What happens? The merchants in our community would be compelled to carry in cash on Friday afternoon any where from two to four thousand dollars in their drawers in order to meet the checks of the customers who would come in. If you close your banks on Saturday morning, it then means that the merchants will have to carry sufficient money to pay practically all of the checks that are issued on Friday afternoon or on Friday morning. It seems to me there is absolutely no necessity for this bill, it looks to me like poor business. If any of the members of the House were in business and were compelled to carry in cash a thousand or more dollars in order to cash the checks of their customers as they came in, they would say, "Well, I think you ought to keep your banks open, give them an opportunity to come to the bank on Saturday morning, and relieve us from the responsibility of carrying a large amount of cash in our drawers." This is a business proposition, it is not theoretical. Industry is not going to change its method of business because the banker wants to have a holiday on Saturday forenoon.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. Speaker, by way of addendum to what the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, said I might say that this bill is a step forward in the right direction. I am quite sure if New York and New Jersey had felt, as Mr. McFall does and as Mr. Trout does, they certainly would not have enacted such legislation. This bill makes banking practice in Pennsylvania conform with the banking practices now established in New York and New Jersey.

I do not think Mr. McFall has offered one legitimate excuse for voting against this bill. Frankly this is not a bill to give bankers any priorities or any rights they do not have. This is a bill which affects the employes. In that connection I might say I have received more than two or three hundred cards from employes in my district in Philadelphia. This is a bill that will afford certain opportunities to persons who work hard and certainly are entitled to a little added vacation during the months of July and August and the first Saturday in September.

I do not think, Mr. Speaker, that this is a bill that requires controversy because it does not affect the banker or the persons who are in business during the course of the entire year. It merely affects two months and the first Saturday in September. I, therefore, ask the members of this House to vote "yes" on this bill.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, we have had a great deal of legislation relating to first and second class cities. If Philadelphia and the bankers of Philadelphia, the business interests of Philadelphia, as Mr. Rosenfeld said, want to have a Saturday holiday, why not make this bill apply to cities of the first class and permit the rural territories to regulate their own affairs? It seems to me the rural bloc and the rural members have gone far enough with cities of the first class in regulating the operation of business in rural territory.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TROUT. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. Speaker, what happens to the community of the gentleman from Lancaster when a legal holiday falls on Saturday. Does that upset the banking practice?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, it naturally does upset the banking practice, and in those cases efforts are made to meet the situation. Very often payrolls are gotten out on Saturday morning by special arrangement with the bank.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Lancaster know whether or not there was any opposition raised to this measure at the public hearing?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I beg the gentleman's pardon, I did not understand him.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know as a matter of fact that no opposition was raised to this measure by Members of the rural areas throughout Pennsylvania?

Mr. TROUT. I do not know what opposition there was, if any. I know how my people back home feel.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. Speaker, did any of the gentleman's constituents appear at the public hearing to oppose this measure?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, not to my knowledge.

Mr. McFALL. Mr. Speaker, just to clear up a little matter that seems to be puzzling some of the proponents of this bill, I want to say to you that those who are employed in banks are employed just forty hours a week, and I am told they religiously keep to that forty hours. This bill has listed on it the twelve holidays. It does not list Thanksgiving because the President of the United States has been setting aside one day, and the Governor of the state of Pennsylvania another day. We therefore have had two Thanksgiving holidays, not because the state of Pennsylvania needs two holidays but after all they are holidays on which we can well be thankful for the blessings Pennsylvania enjoys. That makes thirteen holidays. Every employe in a bank is granted two weeks vacation with pay. They take one of these weeks during the month of July or August so that by adding ten more holidays to their vacation you have a mighty nice list of holidays to be enjoyed by those who work in banks. Now, facts are facts, we cannot get over them; and the truth is truth. Our business places are open on Saturday, until ten or twelve o'clock at night, and because of this fact during the summer months those who work in the stores are granted a Wednesday afternoon holiday. The banks not having anything to do close their doors at half-past one and they have practically a whole half-holiday in addition.

Mr. Speaker, we are here to legislate common sense laws, but this is legislating a restriction on a large branch of business without any well founded or expressed reason or justification for those restrictions. If this bill passes business will be harmed in all rural sections. The farmers who have arranged their work five days out of the week into the twilight hours of the night, go to the small cities or boroughs to transact business, and they will be trribly handicapped if the banks close. If restrictions are necessary as a matter of health, police powers or general welfare, then this would be desirable, but this present bill can scarcely be justified on any of those grounds.

Therefore I say vote down this bill, because it will do tremendous harm to business and rural people who have to work for a living.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I think the previous speakers Mr. Turner and Mr. Rosenfeld have covered the situation very fully but I would like to add my plea for the passage of this particular bill.

Mr. McFall said stores were open in his community until eleven or twelve o'clock on Saturday night. I wish to speak to the membership of this House as one who started as a clerk in a country store, when I would get up and go to the store at six o'clock in the morning, sweep the dirt out of the store, and open the store at seven o'clock for business. We kept open every night in the week. I have seen girl clerks in that store almost exhausted at the end of a busy day. We got together in my community and visited the merchants and asked them to change the hours. They of course thought, as you men here think, that this was a step in the wrong direction, but we finally succeeded in showing to the merchants that there was just so much business to be done, and if they opened their stores at nine o'clock and closed them at five o'clock it would be a humanitarian act. The merchants acceeded to that request and, my friends, they are doing just as much business as they did prior to that time.

Mr. Speaker, as one who started as an individual bookkeeper in a country bank, this is not a Philadelphia bill, but this bill has to do with the individual bookkeepers and clerks in banks whether they are in Philadelphia or in the rural community from which I come. May I call your attention to one matter in connection with this bill, that has caused confusion. I believe that every president of every bank in the State possibly may be opposed to this particular bill for selfish reasons. The president of the bank, as Mr. Turner has well said, can leave his office, close his desk on Friday night and retire to Atlantic City, or some other place, and come back on Monday morning. You have heard a lot about the fourth class school district teachers being underpaid. You have heard a lot about the laboring men who have to work, and I say to you, among the hardest workers and the most underpaid people in the state of Pennsylvania are those men and those women who handle tremendous sums of moneys as bookkeepers and tellers in your banks. May I call your attention to the fact that this is a very confining occupation, that the handling of money and the keeping of books is necessarily a very nervous situation for fear mistakes may creep into the business.

Mr. McFall said he talked to one clerk who said this would not help them because they would have to do the business on Monday anyhow. That is correct, Mr. Speaker, they would. There is just so much business to be done, but in addition to doing that business on Monday he would give to these persons a much needed vacation on Saturday. They talk about the hardship on the stores. My friends, the farmers in the rural communities of Pennsylvania do not visit the cities or rural communities on Saturday morning, they come into your rural communities on Saturday night. My town is just filled with automobiles from one end to the other on Saturday night, and the merchants in my town are delighted that we can furnish enough money so that they can attract into their stores men and women with checks to be cashed, because at the present time mercandise is displayed and the merchants feel if they can attract them into their stores, to get their checks cashed, they may in turn receive some benefit from purchases of goods in their particular stores. Therefore, that argument as to closing on Saturday falls by the wayside without one prop to hold it up.

The barbers in my county and the dentists in my county close on Thursday afternoon; the lawyers of my county close during the entire month of July—the entire month. I say to you in the interest of those hard working boys and girls in the country banks, from personal experience, I don't think there is any harder work being done in any manufacturing plant or in any coal mine in this country than the work of the individual bookkeeper in any bank, whether it be in a county, or a city.

Therefore, I appeal to you to take a step in the right direction and give to this particular class of people the very benefits you have given to so many others.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I object to just one statement the previous speaker, Mr. Gates, has made. He said bank clerks are the hardest working people and the poorest paid people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I know that the preachers of the Gospel are the hardest workers and the poorest paid workers in the state of Pennsylvania, and we do not have any holidays. We keep open every day in the year, night and day. However, we are willing to show some of the milk of human kindness and give to these bank clerks the holiday they need. Of course, we realize that we will be losing a little bit because if they took this holiday on Saturday they would go to Atlantic City and wouldn't come to church, and the poor preacher is left in the lurch again. I am willing to vote in favor of this bill because I hope when these people return from their vacation they will have more strength with which to go to church. I agree with, Mr. Gates, and I will vote for the bill.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the Members of the House, the Speaker comes from the same section of the city the Reverend gentleman does, and the Chair assures you he only works one day a week.

Mr. McFALL. Mr. Speaker, just one thing I want to add to what I have already said. This House is composed of intelligent men, and when I say intelligent I mean it, because we are classed as being intelligent. Why should we at this particular time be talking about holidays and giving a particular class more holidays when they have plenty now. The fact of the matter is they don't need it. I have a telegram here from my county which says that they represent the entire banking association made up of those who work in banks and those who own the banks, and they do not want this holiday.

The thing I have in mind, which I want to refer you to, a few days ago the President of the United States for national defense declared this country of ours is going on a seven day week work period, twenty-four hours a day, in order to have a better national defense. The men who are working in these munition plants and all that kind of thing, will have to work and will be glad to do the kind of work that will bring the sweat out of them, because as the bible says, "You shall earn your bread by the sweat of your brow." I never saw many of the bank presidents or vice-presidents doing any sweating.

Talking about the Philadelphia banks, some of the Philadelphia banks have twelve or fifteen vice-presidents and they can go to the seashore whenever they wish. Here is the point I am trying to impress upon you, we are debating at the present time in a sort of humorous manner holidays for a class of people who really do not need them, when the real workers of this country by the President's own statement are going to work twenty-four hours a day for seven days a week.

Mr. BENTZEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to cover one point which I think has been overlooked in this entire debate. We have had a lot of humor and probably everything else under the sun. I want to say to you after all I do appreciate men coming in here and to introducing bills for the purpose of eliminating work. I, too, don't like work. I do believe if this bill is passed it will not eliminate very much work for the bank clerk. He must make up his time in the bank. It is up to the banker, he cannot do in four days what is done in four and a half days. Furthermore, the point was brought out here that in some of the rural districts they are making banks out of the stores. After all, a very serious point is, what are banks organized for? They are organized with a bank president, directors and employes. Are those banks organized for the convenience of the general public? Where I come from, the biggest part of the banking is done on Saturday morning. We close our banks at noon. Saturday is the big bank day. The farmers come in to town on Saturday morning and do their banking, not on Friday afternoon. We have people who come from a distance of fifteen or twenty miles to do their banking, and they cannot come in during the week. They do their banking on Saturday morning, they do their shopping on Saturday morning. It gives the farmer five days at home and it gives him Saturday morning in which to do his shopping and his banking and his city work.

I appeal to you that after all the employe of a bank is not overworked, we cannot kid ourselves on that. The passage of this bill will work an inconvenience upon the general public who have not sent us here for the purpose of giving a few bank clerks a holiday.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken. Mesrs. Lovett, Weiss and Maxwell asked for a verification of the roll. The roll was verified and was as follows:

UNITED STATES SENATOR GUFFEY INTRODUCED

The SPEAKER. The Chair is pleased to have as his guest this afternoon United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey. If there is no objection the Chair will ask the Senator to say a few words to the Members.

REMARKS OF SENATOR JOSEPH F. GUFFEY

SENATOR JOSEPH F. GUFFEY. Mr. Speaker, and Members of the Pennsylvania State Legislature, I did not come here this afternoon to make a speech, however I feel very much gratified to be presented to this body.

I could not help but observe during the last half hour when you were debating and taking a vote on the last bill some of the advantages you have over the United States Senate. I think you confine your debate much more closely to the subject and transact your business a little more expeditiously. There is one thing that stands out distinctly in my mind as I look over this body this afternoon, and that is you keep your records and your journals on top of your desks whereas in the United States Senate we keep them below the desks. That is one feature I distinctly noticed.

I congratulate you upon having an amplifying system in this Hall. We do not have one in the United States Senate, much to the disadvantage of the Members and the audience. They do have one in the House but not in the Senate. I hope before I finish my service there, and I am now beginning my second term and looking forward to the future, that we will have an amplifying system in the Senate. It takes a long time to bring about any reform or correction in the United States Senate, but when they get into the mood to do business in the Senate they can work very fast indeed under the unanimous consent rule. When Vice-President Garner was in the Chair we were sometimes delayed a great deal of the time, but a lot of business would be transacted in a very short time and in a very expeditious manner.

I want to congratulate you. I know I do not have as much experience as a number of you Legislators here have, because I have just finished my first term in the Senate. That was the first time I ever served in any legislative body and I know many of you have served longer than that. I congratulate you on the manner in which you transact your business and I thank you for the opportunity of saying a few words.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the Senator.

NAYS 0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 891, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1225), entitled "An act concerning game and other wild birds and wild animals; and amending, revising, consolidating and changing the law relating thereto" by requiring the Department of Revenue to establish a system for the permanent registration of hunters revising the provisions of said act relating to the issuance of licenses and eliminating the power of justices of the peace magistrates and notaries public to receive applications therefore

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, this is a very complicated bill, it runs into considerable length and I don't think ten percent of the Members of this House understand what is is all about. I would like to have the sponsor of this bill explain it in detail as to just what this bill will accomplish.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, this is a sportsmens' bill, it is rather involved as printed, because it introduces into hunting a new measure which has been needed for many years. It provides for the examination of all new hunters along the line of the regular car driver's examination, said examination to be given by the Game Commission officials in the various counties in the State. The bill was discussed thoroughly in committee pro and con. It was presented to the Game Commission, it was presented to the sportsmen, and Charles K. Fox, the Chairman of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs' Legislative Committee, appeared before the Game Committee of this House and endorsed the purpose of the bill. The bill was taken up with the Game Commission officials and they have worked out the details to their satisfaction also.

There is another provision in the bill which provides for permanent registration of hunters. The real purpose behind the bill is to exercise some measure of control over the hunter which is lacking at the present time.

At the present time anyone, regardless of his experience with firearms, can walk up to a neighborhood issuing agent and obtain a hunting license, and for two dollars get the right to carry a high powered rifle or a shotgun into the woods. No questions are asked, all that is required is that he identify himself as being a citizen. In other words, anyone who has never had a gun in his hands before can without passing an examination go out into the woods. The reason for desiring this control is the fact that so many accidents happen and this bill aims to give the hunter who has had a hunting license his regular license without any red tape. In other words, he will get his license without any more trouble than he had before, but the new hunter who has not had a hunting license must appear before a game warden and demonstrate his ability to handle firearms, his knowledge of safety precautions, and his knowledge of game laws.

There was a little difficulty in setting up the administration which I think is troubling Mr. Dix. The bill sets up county treasurers as agents and it also permits them to appoint sub-agents in their own county. Under the present system, all the agents deal with the Department of Revenue and the Game Commission. They have over nine hundred, and the returns are not complete, not only for last year but for 1939 and as far back as 1938. A few of the nine hundred regular licensing agents in the past have not submitted their returns which means further lack of control of the hunter. I think the bill is worded in a fautly manner on the calendar. It says the right shall be taken away from notaries public and magistrates and so forth, to issue licenses. It doesn't mean that. The bill really means that the county treasurers are set up as the issuing agent in each county. The notaries public and the justices of the peace and so forth can still retain their rights to issue licenses by merely going to the county treasurer and getting their appointment there as they did before by going to the Department of Revenue.

I could go on with many illustrations of this character, but I want to say to you in regard to the bill and in regard to the attitude of the sportsmen towards this bill, the Southern Division of the Sportsman's Clubs, comprising nine counties, Mifflin, Juniata, Perry, Dauphin, York, Adams, Lancaster, Lebanon and Cumberland met on Sunday at Huntsdale and endorsed the bill one hundred per cent. The President of the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, which by the way number over 1100 in the state, whose name is Merrill Merrits of Altoona, in a conversation with me recently endorsed the bill one hundred per cent. As I mentioned a minute ago, Charles K. Fox, Chairman of their Legislative Committee, appeared before the Game Committee of this House and endorsed the bill. There is nothing more that I can say. As I said a minute ago, I could go on and on but I do not care to take up the time of the House.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, will this bill eliminate the local issuing of licenses?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, it will not. It will regulate it in this way: it is provided that the county treasurer does not have open appointive power, that is, he cannot appoint one hundred and ten or fifteen agents but the bill provides he shall appoint one issuing agent per thousand licenses issued the year previous. In my own county there are twelve thousand hunting licenses issued during the year, which means we may have at least twelve agents. Then it provides in some of these smaller counties where there is no necessity for a great number of agents, he can appoint them on the basis of one to two thousand. In Clearfield county we have seven licensing agents now but under the bill we can have from six to twelve according to the wishes of the county treasurer.

Dr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, what is the cost to the person who has this license issued to him?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, the cost to the hunter is two dollars, less ten cents for the agent's fee, so that the Game Commission has a net return of one dollar and ninety cents.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, do I understand then that the new hunter must pay two dollars for this certificate to hunt in addition to his regular hunting license?

Mr. BRETH. No, Mr. Speaker. The new hunter will go to the County Treasurer and get an application card which he takes to the Game Warden and takes an examination, and his license will cost him only two dollars the same as any other hunter.

Mr. DIX. The same as it is now?

Mr. BRETH. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, in my opinion this bill will not accomplish what it sets out to do and for that reason I personally will not support the bill.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this bill of Mr. Breth is just another bill that the real hunter is opposed to. It creates a whole lot more jobs for the Game Commission. He uses the words "a safety measure," and if it is proposed as a safety measure I do not think it will do what he wants it to do. What is the game warden going to do while he is passing on these examinations? They should be out in the woods looking after the game for the hunters. I think this is a bad bill. Mr. Merrill Merrits, the President of the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs in the City of Altoona told me personally he was opposed to the bill, and I think the average hunter, the average person, the average sportsman, is going to be opposed to this bill. Yes, they are, in Allegheny County and every place else.

I am going to ask the Members not to vote for this bill.

Mr. STAMBUAGH. Mr. Speaker, the bill before us is one of far reaching effect. It reaches out into every home and every farm in the state and requires the men and boys who do not have a hunter's license at the present time and who want to take a day out in the woods, to make arrangements long in advance and be examined in order that they may have a hunter's license. I feel this is a step in the wrong direction. The compelling of the taking of an examination to handle firearms in the woods is a matter that does not show in any manner whatsoever the individual's ability to act carefully and sanely when he is excited, when game is flushed or jumped. Some men who have the best understanding of firearms, who may be perfectly composed under ordinary circumstances, are the ones who become unduly excited and do the thing they should not do when hunting in the woods. Therefore, I contend and believe that the examination under this bill is very bad and should not be enforced on our people. I believe it is a step backward for the Game Commission to sponsor this bill, if they do, and I am not so sure that they have gone all-out on this part of the bill.

I should like before going any further to ask the sponsor of this bill, Mr. Breth, what organization or factors in the County of Perry were represented at the Huntsdale meeting.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, what organization from Perry County was represented at the Huntsdale meeting?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I do not know what organization was represented, nor do I know the names of the delegates, but I do know it is a matter of record that the nine counties that met in Huntsdale went on record in support of this bill one hundred per cent. The bill was discussed pro and con and at length at the Huntsdale meeting on Sunday, but as far as who was there from Perry county, not being present myself, I cannot say.

Mr. STAMBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, this bill as set up provides for a permanent registration of hunters. This permanent registration of hunters is being taken care of by the Department of Revenue. That part of it is very good and perhaps a step in the right direction. The county treasurers are made the issuing agents in each county and they have the prerogative and right to appoint agents to assist them in their duties of issuing licenses.

Mr. Speaker, we find in section 302 of the bill that is set up in detail. In section 303 of the bill we find further instructions as to the setup of the bill, but when we go over to section three on page six, I want to call that particularly to the attention of the members of this House, beginning on line 7 the bill provides, "all such agents of the county treasurer shall be authorized by the treasurer to issue resident and non-resident hunting licenses, and they shall receive all licenses, tags, and necessary supplies, forms and materials from the treasurer and shall make all returns, reports and remittances, to him. The treasurer shall be responsible for their acts in relation to such duties." That is on page six in section three.

Now, we read on. We take up section 305.1, which is the new section setting up the permanent registration, and 305.2, which takes care of the loss of registration, and 305.3 showing what the registration cards should contain. In 305.4, note this, do not miss it, "The powers of the Department of Revenue. The Department of Revenue shall prepare, install and furnish to issuing agents all such files, forms, blanks, and equipment and shall make such rules and regulations not in conflict with the provisions of this or any other act of Assembly which it deems necessary to carry out and enforce the provisions of this amendment."

Section 310 on Page 9, "Issuing agents to keep a record and make reports. Each issuing agent shall keep a correct and complete record of all resident and non-resident hunter's licenses issued by him. Eact issuing agent shall at the close of each week forward a weekly report to the Department of Revenue on blanks furnished to him, a complete list of licenses granted during the previous week in correct numerical sequence, with the names and addresses of the licensees and such other information and data as the Department of Revenue may require. A duplicate copy of said report shall be forwarded to the director, and a triplicate copy of the report shall be retained in the office of the issuing agent, and such other copies of forms and other parts of the records of said agent as the Department of Revenue shall designate shall be forwarded to the director of the said department and retained in the office of the issuing agent".

Now, what have we done? In one place we have said that the agent shall report directly to the county treasurer and shall be responsible to the county treasurer. In another place in the bill, in section 310, page 9, we say that the agent shall be responsible and report to the Department of Revenue.

Mr. Speaker, the bill is such a conglomeration of errors and mistakes, containing so much of doubtful meaning, that I say this bill in it's present form should not be passed by this or any other House. I am not a lawyer but it does not take a lawyer to read this bill and determine that in one place the bill says the county treasurer shall be the chief issuing agent and the agent shall in all cases report to the county treasurer, and in another place it says the agent shall report to the Department of Revenue.

The bill is poorly drawn, poorly written and it certainly won't do the things that it is intended to do. Again the County Treasurer is made responsible by the first section of this bill for the acts of the issuing agents. The agents are given the full amount of the commission of ten percent for writing the license and in turn the County Treasurer has the responsibility of seeing after this, and there is no provision made whatsoever to reimburse the county Treasurer for clerical or other work.

Mr. Speaker, In view of these several glaring shortcomings in this bill, as much as I would like to see a system of permanent registration put into effect, but since they have tied up with it these doubtful provisions, I ask that this bill be voted down.

Mr. GEORGE E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this is one bill that is positively not a political football. Fellows that go hunting are both Democrats and Republicans. In my county, I want to leave this impression with you, we have fifteen thousand sportsmen and I personally called a meeting and had delegates from every one of these sportsmen clubs and they are strictly opposed to this bill. This is a bill that will get every darn hunter in the State on your backs if you pass it. I am going to ask you to vote it down.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I come from a county which depends very much on fishing and hunting as a business. Fishing and hunting is the only natural resource we still have left in our county. Years ago we used the mountains to cut the timber off and convert it into lumber; we used the streams for floating timber to market, but to-day we are using those same mountains and those same streams for many of the people to make a livlihood. Therefore, I am naturally interested in anything pertaining to the question of fishing or hunting. I have supported every bill that the sportsmen have sponsored because I felt that whatever bill they would introduce would benefit all of my constituents. I wish to say further, when it comes to that question, Mr. Breth, the member from Clearfield County, is a leaf from my bible, but I believe we will not get the results he is expecting in takling the question in this way. I admit that the woods have too many incompetent, reckless and irresponsible hunters during the hunting season but I believe that as this bill is a tenure bill it does not cure any evil caused by the reckless and irresponsible hunter. He can still, if he has a license, go into the woods and hunt. This bill gives him the tenure to do it, while the outside members have to take an examination. It seems to me that the way to get at this would be to require the men who handle a rifle to get a license for handling the rifle, and not put a restriction on the hunter. If incompetent people were required to get a license before they could handle a rifle I think we would then have this problem pretty well settled.

For that reason Mr. Speaker,—

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, —

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Tarr. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, due to the fact that there is so much controversy over this bill and so many persons are, I believe, frankly unable to vote on it intelligently at the present time, I move that the bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is out of order. The gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Huntley, has the floor.

Does the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Huntley, yield to the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Tarr?

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I will yield to the gentleman from Fayette.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to thank the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Huntley.

Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Monroe for presiding.

RECESS

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time to recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Somerset will proceed.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President and members of the Senate, the House has invited the members of the Senate to come over there at eleven-twenty this morning to hear the Honorable Paul McNutt, who will make a few short remarks in regard to the defense program. I think it would be well for us to accept that invitation. It will not take a great deal of time and the Speaker and officers of the House request us to do so. However, it is a matter for the Senate to decide.

The PRESIDENT. What is the pleasure of the Senate?

MOTION TO ACCEPT INVITATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I move that the Senate accept the invitation and that we go over to the House in a body.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if these fellows can stand any more speeches I am willing to go over there but I think we should first finish the Calendar.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rose to say something before action was taken on the motion.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I just wanted to suggest to the Senators that we have quite a long Calendar for consideration and we are going to be out of here practically all afternoon, I am afraid, at the meeting of the Defense Council in the Forum, so that it may cause considerable congestion and mean staying late tonight or staying over until tomorrow. It makes no difference to me what the Senators want to do but I feel they should think about it before acting on this motion.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, we can not have a Session tonight as there is a statute which was written by the newspapermen some time ago that tonight we have to attend the correspondents' dinner, and unless we get an amendment to that act we will not be able to stay here tonight.

I think, Mr. President, we should go through with the Calendar and the motion of the gentleman from Cambria should be amended to state that if we get through with the Calendar in time we will accept the invitation.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I understand we shall have an opportunity of hearing Governor McNutt at the afternoon session of the Defense Council and it does not seem to me to be at all discourteous to remain here and perform our duty. I therefore suggest that the resolution of the gentleman from Cambria be amended to state that we courteously decline the invitation of the House and that we remain in our seats.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, there is no resolution to amend and the motion has been passed, but in order to expedite matters I would suggest that we proceed with the Calendar up until eleven-twenty o'clock.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, before the motion was put I asked for recognition and the President asked me to wait until the motion was put, and then the vote was taken.

Mr. President, I have nothing further to say with reference to this motion except that I want the Senators to be advised of the difficulties with which they may be faced.

Mr. EALY. This action of the Senate is perfectly satisfactory to me but I think, however, we ought to send a page over to the House to notify the Speaker the Senate will not attend.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I think the former Governor of Indiana is one of the outstanding personalities in America today. We have had many elastic recesses, Mr. President, for ten minutes that have stretched out to an hour and a half and the Senate has at various times and will, I assume, if it follows the custom of the past, engage in considerable tomfoolery between now and the time we adjourn sine die.

I think, Mr. President, for the Senate of Pennsylvania to tell a former Governor of Indiana that we do not want to listen to him address the House is an affront; I think the gentleman is entitled to that courtesy and I am inclined to believe that to vote "no" in rejection of the invitation will be an affront to a man who has done so much for the people not only of his state but for the people of America generally and I think he is entitled to that courtesy as the same courtesy has been given other distinguished Americans in the past and I urge the members of the Senate to accept the invitation to go over to the House.

The PRESIDENT. The question before the Senate is whether the Senate will accept the invitation of the House.

The Chair feels that both sides of the Senate are unanimously of the opinion it would be discourteous, at least, not to accept that invitation and it has been agreed, with the approval of the Senators, that we will send a messenger to the House who will advise us of the arrival of the Governor and Mr. McNutt and we will then recess promptly and attend the session in the House.

Is there any objection? The Chair hears none. It is so ordered.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 253, on concurrence in House amendments, entitled:

An Act relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class providing subject to the approval of the electors for a three-platoon system for such members with certain exceptions providing for an election on such question and regulating hours of service hours of rest and annual vacation.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is notified that the Governor of Pennsylvania and the Honorable Paul McNutt are now present in the House and in conformity with the motion, the Senate will proceed in a body over to the House.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, on a recent trip to Indiantown Gap, in conversation with numerous lads from my end of the state who are in the encampment, they told me the only time they really have off is the forty-eight hour week-end leave, and that it is difficult for them to do anything but sit around and twiddle their thumbs, or go to places they do not want to go.

Therefore they suggested to me that perhaps if they could have movies in this section on Sunday afternoons they could take in a moving picture show instead of sitting around and not having anything in particular to do.

Therefore, I introduce at this time a movie bill for the soldiers.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING VETERANS' ADMINISTRATION OF U. S. TO LOCATE A HOSPITAL IN CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA TO TAKE CARE OF SICK AND DISABLED WAR VETERANS

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

In the Senate, May 7, 1941.

The present facilities of the Federal hospitals within the Commonwealth are becoming inadequate to properly care for the veterans in need of hospitalization and medical care.

As this need increases the facilities will become less adequate and those who made the great sacrifice for the Nation will be denied the care and attention they so richly deserve.

An additional veterans' hospital is now needed in Pennsylvania to properly care for the veterans within its borders now requiring skilled medical care and attention.

Any new hospital erected for this purpose should be located in a section of the State not now having such facilities and at a place where the inmates would have the benefit of elevation and the quietness that distance from built-up communities affords; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Veterans' Administration of the United States and the Federal Board of Hospitalization to locate as quickly os possible a hospital in central Pennsylvania to take care of sick and disabled war veterans; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to Veterans' Administration, Federal Board of Hospitalization and representatives in Congress from this Commonwealth.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, MAY 7, 1941

The House met at 11 a. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The Rev. Finley Keech, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Harrisburg, is the guest today of the gentleman from York, Mr. Bentzel, and will give the invocation at the invitation of the Chaplain of the House.

PRAYER

The Rev. Finley Keech offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for a nation such as we have on this continent. We thank Thee for the spirit which prompted our forefathers to make it the nation that it is. We thank Thee for those principles upon which it has been built, and which through the years have made it what it is. Help us to understand to-day that we are entering into their labors. We are a part of what they have done, and it will not be complete without our doing our part well.

This is Music Week in America. How much music there is that does not come from any instrument! How much we can make music, and hearts to sing, lives to be made glad and worthwhile through what we do from day to day!

May Thy blessing attend the duties of this House to-day. May the Members go unselfishly to their desks and their labor, mindful not alone of a duty to a constituency but of a duty unto Thee, and may this duty to the Divine be that which challenges them each moment they serve the state, until this nation shall indeed be a God-land, God-fearing, righteous people who can lead the world in this tremendous day to new ways that shall mean the brotherhood of mankind. Make us mindful of Thy part and of our part in Thyself, O God of all mankind.

We ask for our Lord's sake, in the name of our Lord and Master. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By. Messrs. EDWIN F. THOMPSON and REUBEN E. COHEN. RESOLUTION No. 92.

In the House of Representatives, May 6, 1941.

Whereas, There has been in existence in the City of Philadelphia since 1934, an organization known as the Philadelphia Youth Movement; and

Whereas, That organization was formed for the purpose of establishing a more direct personal contact with youth in crowded slum areas, where conditions are conductive to a life of crime and deliquency, and against good, wholesome, moral and spiritual training; and

Whereas, Since its inception in 1934, against enormous odds, the movement has grown from a group of ten to forty-two hundred members, achieving, in the meantime, great success in securing positions, providing recreational activities, increasing educational opportunities, and generally providing opportunities lacking to youth in such areas; and

Whereas, This movement, similar in its operation to Father Flanagan's Boys Town, has fostered the processes and ideals of Democratic Government by electing its own officers, enacting its own laws, and impressing youth with the necessity of becoming active and cooperative members of a wholesome society; and

Whereas, This movement was initiated by Samuel L. Evans, and has been under his direction and supervision since its inception; and

Whereas, The said Samuel L. Evans has given of his time, energy and finances to the success of this movement without regard to personal reward; and

Whereas, In the course of human progress such sacrifice by individuals for the benefit of society is often unheralded and unrewarded; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby acknowldges and commends the said Samuel L. Evans for his personal sacrifices and inspiring efforts in contributing to the cultural, moral, spiritual and physical development of youth in his community by endorsing the activities of the Philadelphia Youth Movement, which he conceived and supervises and by wishing it continued success; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House be directed to mail a copy of his resolution to the Philadelphia Youth Movement, in order to apprise the members thereof of the esteem in which the membership of this House hold the organization and its founder.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE IN ATTENDANCE

The Senate arrived in the House in a body to listen to an address by the Honorable Paul V. McNutt.

The SPEAKER. The Chair invites the Lieutenant-Governor and President pro tempore of the Senate to be seated on the rostrum. The Senators will please occupy the seats provided for them in the well of the House.

HONORABLE PAUL V. McNUTT INTRODUCED

The SPEAKER. We are honored this morning by reason of the Governor's generosity in sharing with us for a few moments his distinguished guest, the honorable Paul V. McNutt.

Paul McNutt needs no introduction to this Assembly—he is well remembered for his many achievements of the past, as a Governor of the great state of Indiana; as Governor General of the Philippine Islands; as National Commander of the American Legion; as President of the Council of State Governments and as dean of law at a university in his home state.

He now has been chosen by the President of the United States for the most gigantic and important assignment of his entire career; the job of co-ordinating the health and welfare of this Nation with the national defense—in short his job is to "Keep the home fires burning."

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE PAUL V. McNUTT

HONORABLE PAUL V. McNUTT. Your Excellency, Speaker of the House, President of the Senate and Members of the General Assembly. I must confess that I have an attack of nostalgia this morning in getting back into legislative hall. I am pleased, as you must be gratified, to see the evidence of industry upon your desks piled high. I doubly appreciate this opportunity to say just a few words to you.

Four years ago, the President of the United States, with that insight into events which has made him one of the great leaders of all time, told the American people that this Nation had a rendezvous with destiny.

The time is now at hand. One cannot live in this period of our national life without consciousness that things are in the saddle; that the swing of events is carrying us on the surging sweep of time to world-rocking changes.

For the first time since the birth of the Republic, our national security is threatened by external forces. For the first time in our existence, two mighty oceans are inadequate to insure our safety.

America has grown and prospered as a great peace-loving nation. We have never had imperialistic designs We have never played the agressor's role. We have never sought by the force of arms to impose upon other peoples our own way of life. We have, on the whole, gotten on well with our neighbors in this hemisphere. There is no Maginot Line either on the Canadian or the American side of our northern border. No pill boxes, mines, or underground fortifications between us and the nation to our south. For a hundred years, with negligible exceptions, three great nations in North America have erected an historic monument to the peaceful life which is possible when the decencies of intercourse between nations is observed. But within the memory of the youngest of this audience, forces have been borne which contain within themselves a deadly threat to our very existence as a free people.

Across what is now the slender defense line of the Atlantic and the scarcely less formidable Pacific, we now face the most powerful combination of destructive forces ever mobilized in the history of the world. Forces, the avowed purpose of which is to wipe out every shred of decency and humanity that the race of man has acquired over the centuries of struggle.

The slate is to be wiped clean. The world to be remade. Remade in the East and in the West.

There have been among us those who purport to see in all this some great, irresistable force of the future—the future, bearing down on the present like a wave. It is a "new order," supplanting the old. A new kind of society displacing a decadent one. And because this was said to be "new"—because it was "change"—it is intimated that it must be good—at least inevitable and inescapable. Therefore, we must get along with it.

It is all false—the whole argument, in its every phase. Totalitarianism is not the future.

It is a collection of the dregs of the past—the cruel, ignorant, barbaric past, from which men had thought they were forever liberated. It is not a wave. It is the surging flood of intolerance, bigotry, and fear. It is not new. It is older than man himself—it is the brutality of the savage; the ruthlessness of the jungle. And, if the unshakable will and determination of the free peoples of the world can prevent it, it is not inevitable or inescapable.

But let no one be deceived.

The struggle in which we are engaged is a struggle to the death. Totalitarianism and democracy cannot live side by side. The one must be destroyed or the other will perish. It is the old story of a house divided against itself.

The world cannot survive, half free and half slave. From the begining, the enemies of democracy have counted heavily upon the process of deliberative Government as its weakness. Democracy, they think, is unable to withstand the relentless efficiency of dictatorship because it cannot make up its national mind and because it is unable to act promptly. America has already given the first part of the answer. It has made up its mind according to its traditional processes. Our policy is formulated and we have attained complete national unity on the issue of appeasement.

Ours is not the false unity of compulsion or the forced unity of fear It is the solid and genuine unity of men who have weighed carefully the issue and passed final judgement. A united people who have made their choice and expressed their will in terms of their own aspirations and the ideals of free men everywhere.

Some countries there are which get "national unity" whenever the dictator and the field marshal get together on some new stroke of agression against defenseless nations or persecution of helpless minorities.

Here, we get unity after full and open discussion, when the majority of a hundred and thirty-five million people express their will through freely chosen representatives.

Unity does not mean with us that expression of opinion will be throttled or that dissent will be punished.

We are still free.

It does mean that the dominant and overwhelming judgment of the citizens of this Nation has been formulated and that we face the future—wave or no wave—determined to resist with our full national strength every assault from whatever source upon the civilization which we have built.

England might have been our Czechoslovakia; the lend-lease bill our Munich.

But our day of indecision is past. And with it is gone the fear which indecision breeds. In its place is firm determination and the quiet courage which it brings.

We are ready to act. You have acted here in Pennsylvania. And it is this decision that marks the beginning of a new era for us all, and we say to the world, we are not afraid.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Father in heaven, we continue to look to Thee as the giver of every good and perfect gift. May we, as we give honor to our Mother this coming Lord's Day, remember her willingness to sacrifice for us. We truly thank Thee for her love. We pray for her, O God, and for all the mothers throughout the world, for young and old, for the near and the far, for those who are happy and for those who dwell in shadows, for those who have seen the travail of their souls and been satisfied, and for those who wait for their reward with the coming of eternal day.

Make us conscious of what might happen if our factories, our prisons, our legislative halls would consult the mothers of mankind in formulating their policies and in measuring their success. Since, Our God, Mother's Day calls us with a symbol of a flower, a greeting, an endearing word, may it above all else call us to build a world for such love as hers. In Thy name we pray. Amen.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to comment just briefly on House Bill 229 and at the same time I shall also comment, if the House does not object, on House Bill 228.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Both measures are tax measures of an emergency nature, Mr. Speaker, and represent the beginning of the disclosure to this House of the results of the study of the Democratic Appropriations Committee of this House in relation to the particular measures as well as the result of the study of the budget.

I realize perhaps it is a bit annoying to the Republican administration that the figures their Governor submitted to this House should be challenged and questioned. As a matter of fact, the result of the study has indicated it was about time some one did challenge the Republican party for the manner in which they were operating and for the manner in which they hoped to be able to operate for the coming two years.

I am saying, Mr. Speaker, that in the course of the next few weeks the Appropriations Committee will disclose to this House and at the same time unfold to the people of Pennsylvania a program that is both constructive and meritorious. It will differ, Mr. Speaker, in a radical degree from that which has been submitted to this House by the Governor of Pennsylvania. I believe the program that we will submit will meet with universal approval by the people of this Commonwealth.

I do not intend at this time to discuss that program; it will, however, be discussed at a later session of this House. I do, however, wish to comment on the two particular measures now before the House, because they disclose the value of the studies. They also disclose that there was a real, urgent necessity that there be a study.

May I point out, Mr. Speaker, first of all the gasoline bill, that is, the one cent emergency tax on gasoline? That is the bill immediately before us here. You will note in the budget that the Governor has estimated that this particular tax in the biennium now ending would yield in the negihborhood of $29,845,010. May I state to the members of this House that that sum is about equalled at the present moment. As a matter of fact, up to the last day of April that tax has yielded $29,137.844.

That included a collection of one and one-half million dollars in the month of April, but I point out to the members of the House that as a matter of fact in this month of May there will be collected in excess of two million dollars on that particular tax. That may be challenged by the other side, but may I say in the first few days of May there has been collected in excess of $515,000. It means, Mr. Speaker, that the collection in that particular instance will amount to somewhat in excess of $31,000,000.

Now, here is the thing of real importance to the members of this House. The Governor in estimating his budget for the coming biennium estimates the amount that will be collected by that particular tax as $31,668,000, a truly conservative estimate, Mr. Speaker. Our committee has made a careful and exhaustive study of what might be anticipated in the form of yields for the coming two years, and we have arrived at the conclusion that the correct amount and the amount that we should proceed on in forming our budget and determining our plans for the coming biennium is $37,236,000. In other words, we anticipate a collection of five and a half million dollars in round numbers in excess of the amount designated to this House by the Governor of this Commonwealth.

You will say "How did we arrive at that?" We arrived at it by a number of different methods. We used our own particular method of arriving at it by determining the increased income of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and determining by a formula what increase of taxes could reasonably be anticipated from that source. We arrived at practically the figure I have designated. We then sought to verify and prove that particular figure. We wondered what the Republican Members of the House, particularly the Republican Members of this House who sat in the last session of the Legislature, had in mind in relation to this particular figure, so we had recourse to the figures collected by the Local Government Commission

If you will turn to Senate Bills 297 and 298, in which there is an effort to redistribute certain funds collected from the gasoline taxes, you will discover there is a considerable increase in the amount intended to be allocated out of the general taxes so collected to local governments, and you will also learn that the Local Government Commission has said it will make very little additional expenditure from the highway fund. All we are doing is spending the amount of money we had appropriated heretofore plus taking the anticipated increases. We took the figures that the Local Government Commission had prepared and broke them down and found, Mr. Speaker that those figures indicated that the Local Government Commission is in hearty accord with the figures that I am now giving to the Members of this House, that is, the sum of $37,236,000.

Then again we thought we would compare it and see whether or not our figures might be justified and proven by any other source, and so we made a comparison of the figures of tax collections on gasoline for the last five months of 1940 and 1941, and compared them with a like period of 1940. We found that the increased sum was one and a half million dollars in taxes, an indication that we were safe in anticipating an increase for the coming biennium of at least $6,000,000.

The Governor has anticipated thirty one million dollars that we will collect in this bienium, and, by taking those figures you will find the figures we are now submitting to this House of thirty seven million dollars will be completely justified.

May I turn to the second bill that is on the calendar, that is, House Bill 228, the cigarette tax. The Governer's estimate for the biennium now ending is that the tax should yield $23,982,658. As a matter of fact, up to the end of April there has been collected on this tax $23,285 652. That included, Mr. Speaker, a collection of $1,077,851 in the month of April.

It is safe to assume that there will be a collection of a like amount in the month of May. That again may be challenged by the Members on the other side. I believe I am on sound ground in so saying, and I point out that for the first few days in May on that particular tax there has been collected the sum of $256,137, indicating, that there will be an amount considerably in excess of twenty four million dollars collected for the present biennium; $24,750,000 is anticipated by the Governor in the coming biennium. I submit to the members of this House that the formula we have evolved has indicated that it can be sustained, and that formula, Mr. Speaker, indicates that we are safe in assuming that for the coming biennium this particular tax will yield the sum of $25,800,000.

This House will find as it goes to the emmergency fiield of taxes that to a large extent in most instances the story will be similar to the one I am telling now, that is, that the budget receipts have been underestimated. For what reason? I will hazard my opinion at a later date, but I think I know the reason.

However, Mr. Speaker, I am not rising for the purpose of opposing these two bills. I advise the Democratic members of this House to adopt the bills as a part of the James tax program. It is obvious to all that money is needed, but not, Mr. Speaker, in my mind to the extent that he has indicated to the members of this House when he delivered his budget message.

However, I can say, Mr. Speaker, these two bills should be passed.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the Chair extends to the gentleman from Dauphin the same privilege that was extended to the gentleman from Monroe, that is, the privilege of discussing both bills at the same time. The Chair hears none and the privilege is extended.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, again we have the gentleman on the other side refusing the remarks which he made immediately after the budget message was delivered by the Governor in the hall of this House on February third of this year. At that time the gentleman got up on the floor of the House and said this message was marked by one great underlying thought, and that was there was too much hope—too much hope. Too much hope in what? Too much hope in the estimate of revenue. And now the gentleman, after months of study, comes back and says this is a terrible budget, that these estimates were made too high; then he corrected himself and said they were too low, "They are made too low for a purpose which I know, but which I am going to keep secret for a while, but later on I will tell this House." But today, the answer was what? The keynote of the answer to the message given by the gentleman on the other side is that there is always too much hope in these revenues. This is an outrage to the people of Pennsylvania, that the Governor should get up before this House and suggest that he can pay off the deficit with the increased amount of revenue. Too much hope! And now it is deliberate pessimism.

Well, that is about the consistency that we can expect in criticism of this budget. I would like to interrogate the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I tried to follow the gentleman as to how he arrived at the figures he gave me. I am talking now particularly about the liquid fuel tax. I would like to ask the gentleman—I have the total figures here, but I would like to ask the gentleman to repeat how he arrived at the sum of $27,236,000 as the estimate of the revenue from the liquid fuel tax for the coming biennium.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I pointed out that we used three methods. We used the old method of determining the income of Pennsylvania, using that as a basis and determining what the anticipated income of Pennsylvania would be in the coming biennium. We then made a study of the increase and decrease of taxes of this type as the income of Pennsylvania increases or decreases, and we found there was a slight variable; as income increases taxes go up; as income decreases the taxes decrease. That system, Mr. Speaker, was based on the period of ten years past. Taking the income of Pennsylvania as it was anticipated for the coming biennium, we then proceeded to determine the amount of the tax. We proceeded to ascertain whether or not we could prove those particular figures.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Will the gentleman yield, Mr. Speaker? Let us take one point at a time, please.

Will the gentleman state what was the amount of revenue he took as the actual amount now received during this biennium?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Would the gentleman mind repeating his question? I do not know whether I understand it.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the amount of revenue the gentleman stated has now been received by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the liquid fuel tax for the present biennium.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. The amount received to date, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the amount at the end of April was $29,137,844.

Mr. WOODSIDE. My figures, Mr. Speaker, are a few thousand dollars more favorable to him.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Then, Mr. Speaker, so far in the month of May we have figures which cover a period of seven days and that would be added to the sum I have given $515,354.90.

Mr. WOODSIDE. What does the gentleman assume it would be for the month of May? I believe he stated $2,000,000, is that correct?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Something in excess of two million dollars, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. How did the gentleman arrive at the sum of two million dollars for the month of May?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. From the collections made to date in the month of May, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. There is a very marked fallacy, Mr. Speaker, in that figure. Does the gentleman know how the gasoline tax is paid; what system is used in collecting the liquid fuel tax?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Oh yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Will the gentleman please explain it to the House?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. The collection is made from the companies and generally made in the form more or less of monthly returns.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Well, the gentleman is wrong about that. As a matter of fact, the collections are made upon monthly returns. In other words, gasoline that is used during the month of March—by used I mean sold by the companies to the retailers—is paid for on the last day of April. As a matter of fact, the true situation is that if it were not for a special effort which is being made by the Revenue Department to have the oil companies cooperate with them in paying in advance of the time they would pay in May and the income for the month would be very substantially less than a million dollars. The reason for that is this, that the thirtieth of May comes at the end of the month, and the Departments on the Hill will be on vacation, and when the money is paid at the end of May it would be carried over and included in the month of June. The figures which the gentleman gave as payable in the month of May are really hangovers from the month of April and are absolutely meaningless in arriving at any figures. I just point that out as one of the many fallacies in the method the gentleman has used in arriving at the sum that will be realized during the month of May. What it will be is difficult to determine but the method the gentleman has used to determine it is absolutely fallacious.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Would the Chair permit me to answer the gentleman during the course of his interrogation when he feels it is essential to make some remarks?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the Chair for permission both for the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, and myself to carry on a conversation and debate the interrogation across the floor of the House.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the Chair gives both gentlemen permission. The gentlemen will proceed.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted to learn how the oil crowd is cooperating in operating the state of Pennsylvania in connection with the gasoline act. I always had on idea that they did have much to do with the operation of our state government, and at the present time the gentleman rather confirms my thought in the matter.

I presume if the half million dollars collected so far in May, however, is as the gentleman terms it a hang-over from the preceding month of April, I would suppose that the one and a half million collected in April is a hang-over from March and so we can go on and on with these hang-overs into millions of dollars. However, referring to the manner in which taxes are collected and the manner in which at present they are being received, may I point out that in 1941, in January, we had collected the sum of $355,000.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Will the gentleman yield? Will he please tell us what he is reading from?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I am reading the collections of the one-cent gasoline tax for the month of January, 1941. In February, there was a collection of $1,042,000; in March $1,796,000, and I have already given the figures for May, indicating, Mr. Speaker, that there has been a regular consistent collection of taxes. Of course, it might be a Republican trick to fool the people, and they come along and say, "We have collected money in April and we won't collect anything in May." Then again, it is possible that taxes will flow in naturally because of the great desire of the oil companies and the gas companies to help the government of Pennsylvania out of it's dilemma.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has difficulty in staying on the point and likes to inject a little politics now and again, and since he has, I ar going to take a little time to answer.

Of course, the method of collection is the same as was adopted under the Earle administration; there is no change in it whatsoever. In the second place, as frequently happens the departments have asked cooperation in order to do what? That the picture may be more favorable to the position which the gentleman has taken? At any rate, let us go over the figures. He says there is a fair consistency between the March figures of $796,000 and the month of April figures of $1,521,000. If we go back to November the figure is $604,000 and the month of December is $2,168,000. Is that a fair consistency? Is there a fair consistency between August with $787,000 and September with $1,545,000? Is there a fair consistency between the month of June, 1940, with $843,000 and July with $2,311,000?

The gentleman has taken the figures of one or two months and attempted to prove something with them. I have attempted to explain the method of payment of these taxes to indicate that the amount received during any one month or any two months is no indication of trend, nor is it any indication of the amount of money that we will receive over a period of twenty-four months.

Of course, if you take your figures over an entire year you have a consistent basis on which to base an estimate, but even then there are a lot of things that enter into it. If you have an open winter you will have a lot more taxes than if you have a cold winter. Inasmuch as he is talking that type of figure and has given the figures for January, February, March and April of 1941, I wonder if the gentleman has compared those figures with the comparable figures for January, February, March and April of 1940? Has he?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, as I said orginally, I have.

Mr. WOODSIDE. What does the gentleman find, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Permit me to answer the question, Mr. Speaker. I have taken December 1940 and January, February, March and April of 1941. I have taken December of 1939 and January, February, March and April of 1940. Now, for the gentlemen's information, the 1940 period shows a collection of $5,495,413.20. For the comparable period of 1941 there was collection of $6,877,350.55. I have anticipated the receipts for the month of May, as I pointed out, and I estimated that as around two million dollars. Might I say that in all the remarks the gentleman has made he has not stated on his part what they are going to collect in May 1941. I am curious to know what the schedule is. Mr. Speaker, may I point out this, that upon his shoulders and upon his party falls the task of supporting the budget that was submitted to this House by his party, and we are expecting them to justify and to sustain it.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, again let me point out the gentleman's fallacy. He uses a joker again. The joker is Thanksgiving this time, because over Thanksgiving you always get a peculiar situation arising between your November and your December account. In order to figure out the income he does not take the first four months of this year against the first four months of last year. He takes December from the date of Thanksgiving, and the operation on it between the time of credit not the amount of gasoline he used. He is giving us the amount when payments are credited. Let us see what a fairer test than the gentleman is giving would show. Let us take January, February, March and April, the first four months, of 1941, and there you would have in 1941 $4.718,-850. These are the last four months without any guessing.

He wants to guess what you are going to get in the month of May and then figure that in as an actual amount in order to estimate what you are going to get in the next four months. Let us take that $4,718,000 for 1941. What was it in 1940? It was $4,583,045. What is the answer to that? The percentage of increase is not as much as estimated in the budget. After all, here is what happened. There is a continual increase in the amount of gasoline which is used over a period of time. It is a fair estimate that that increase will continue and possibly slightly more rapidly during the next two years than in the last two years, but it is a pure guess, Mr. Speaker, because there is no way of telling over a period of twenty-four months what is going to happen to liquid fuel consumption upon which tax is paid.

It is fair to estimate that there will be a normal or a little better than normal increase, and that is what the budget office did, if you will take the budget figures over a period of years,—let us take back in 1935 to 1937, twenty-two million dollars. Remember that was not for the whole twenty-four months, that was only part of it, you have twenty-seven million dollars. Well, that is about the proper increase for that time, 1927 to 1929, to have had. Then you have the present amount of over twenty-nine million dollars, probably slightly over that figure —not very much. No man can tell exactly what is going to be realized. The gentleman does not presume I am sure, to stand over there and tell us what is going to be received during the next year or two years. The estimate is based upon what? Upon experience. And by whom is the estimate made? Under the head of the Department of Revenue, and quite properly so. The detail work is done by the comptroller, who has made the estimate of revenue from the beginning of the establishment of the budget, the same man during the four years previous, the same man who made the estimates during the Pinchot Administration, the Fisher Administration, the Earle Administration and now during the present Administration, and he has been reasonably accurate in his estimates. Of course, you cannot be precisely accurate if there is an unexpected increase during any particular two years or if there is an unexpected deficit, you cannot be exact about it, but in the merely normal years the estimates have been uncanily close.

That is the basis upon which these estimates were made around the first of the year.

The figures presented to this House on February 3d maybe are not accurate to the dollar, the gentleman's figures are not accurate to the dollar, nobody's figures are accurate to the dollar, but they indicate the normal trend and normal increase, and that is the reason the estimates were made as they were. If the gentleman wants to go into a lot of things that might happen in the future, we could argue until doom's day, but the normal increase would indicate that it would be in the neighborhood of thirty-one or thirty-two million dollars in the next biennium.

Let me state here a few of the estimates that were made by the Department on an annual basis: In 1935-1937, $9,137,000. The actual figure was $9,242,000 Then, in 1936-1937, the estimate was $12,000,000 and the actual was $13,000,000. But in 1939-1940, the estimate made on the annual basis was actual $14,245,000, and the estimate was $14,320,00, which is uncannily close in many instances.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman another question, and that is whether he used the actual consumption of gasoline figures, or obtained them anywhere? The actual monthly consumption of gasoline.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. No, Mr. Speaker, the figures used represent actual money collected.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think I pointed out to the House that unless you take a very large period of time your figure is meaningless. Let me go briefly over that point again so that it can be made clear. The taxes which are due for gasoline sold by companies during the month of February, say, are payable on the last day or the thirtieth day of March. Those checks go to the Secretary of Revenue. As rapidly as it is possible they are checked with the records and the reports and handed over to the State Treasurer and by him run through his books, and at the time they are run through his books credited to that month.

Now, if the end of the month comes in the middle of the week or in the beginning of the week, most of them can be run through in the month in which they are payable and are run through, but the Treasurer's office closes its books at eleven o'clock on the morning of the last day, and so particularly if the end of the month comes on a Saturday or a Sunday or a holiday, much of the amount which is received for that month is not credited to that month, but passes over into the next month, and therefore that month would be unusually high, and the month prior would be unusually low. As a result of that situation, no month or no two months even is an index of the amount that can be truly estimated.

The gentleman has not used the actual consumption of gasoline, and if he would, it would show him a little less accurate picture than he has demostrated here,— or rather a little more accurate picture of what can be truly estimated than he used here.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin raised the question as to the propriety of the method used. Let me point out what his party has done. Apparently they have anticipated what they are going to get from the gasoline tax in this particular biennium and have assigned that as the figure for the coming biennium, which of course is a fallacy. We have assumed that there will be an increase in business produced in a large measure by the national defense activity. The amount of the increase is not definite but nevertheless positively an increase. Now, what has the increase in employment done in relation to the taxes? Can you think of anything better than what occurred the comparatively normal year of 1940 and then endeavor to learn what will be the result in Pennsylvania after the national defense program starts up? I point out to the gentleman that there is a very definite trend and very definite results occurring and we have endeavored to ascertain and anticipate that improved employment conditions be reflected very definitely in the taxes collected.

That is all we have done, and the fallacy of the gentleman's party is that they assume the employment condition as it now exists apparently will retrogress into the condition of 1940. That is what they are doing, and I am saying we are safe and this House is safe in proceeding on the theory that the national defense program will continue through the coming biennium, and if it does it is going to be reflected, Mr. Speaker, in the collection of increased taxes, and those figures I have given to the House. That is the fallacy I pointed out to you, the fallacy of their position.

In relation to the gallonage that the gentleman speaks about, it is the third method we used and when I say used, we really appropriate the method. A committee dominated by the Republicans was appointed at the last session of the legislature, the Local Government Committee, to study the one cent tax and the three cent tax and to ascertain the funds collected. It is rather simple to use those figures. Those figures I understand where based both on gallonage and collections. The Highway Department had their estimate of increase, and that was used by the Local Government Commission in arriving at their figures. Is that foisting anything upon them? Oh no, they adopted it themselves. The Commission which was appointed by their party adopted it and we merely used their figures, and those figures apparently justified the figures we obtained. I wonder how the gentleman would explain that one away.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the fact still remains that in the first four months of 1941 the increase was less in the first four months of 1940 than the percentage of increase which has been used in estimating the tax for the coming biennium. The gentleman has suggested that in the next two years there will be an abnormal increase in the use of gasoline. His figures indicate that and he has admitted it on the floor of the House. I said, and I think truthfully so, that we can to some degree assume that the increase is going to continue during the next two years as a result of the defense program. But what is going to happen in the next two years in the way of an extremely abnormal use or abnormal increase is certainly speculation upon which we should not now base our figures. The gentleman says we are going to have great prosperity in the next two years. I wonder if that is going to be reflected in the use of gasoline on which tax is to be paid? I wonder if the gentleman is taking into consideration some of the facts that exist. According to the newspapers there are indications that we are going to start convoying ships to England. I don't think that any of us have any doubt as to what that must mean. I wonder if the gentleman recalls that during the last war we had gasless Sundays. I wonder if he realizes what a thing like that would do to the estimates that were made by the administration on the tax on liquid fuel for the next two years? Over in Europe England is having trouble getting gasoline. We are going to send, I understand, fifty tankers to carry the gasoline to be transferred to British ships to be taken over. Does the gentleman realize that the government is going to demand the use of gasoline first and thereafter there will be permitted use of gasoline by those people who will pay tax? Does the gentleman realize—and I am sure he does, that for that gasoline which is used by the Government there will be no tax paid, and that the supply of gasoline with the demands being made upon it as they are probably going to be made during the next two years, may well be reduced to the extent that we as a people will restrict the non-essential use of gasoline and greatly reduce the tax which will be realized thereon.

I say those things are speculative, but they certainly balance off any thought of a wild increase in the amount of gasoline which will probably be used in the next two years.

I think we can count on a continued increase in the amount of gasoline used on which tax is paid. The administration has counted upon that, and the estimates are pretty close in this biennium to what may likely be received. If the gentleman studies carefully the amount of gasoline and figures the percentage of increase he will find it comes pretty close to the facts and figures presented, if fairly and honestly estimated.

I would like to ask the gentleman the percentage of increase he figures on?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I understand the Local Government Commission has estimated something like five per cent for each succeeding year.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has used a higher figure than that.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am merely stating what I understand your Local Government Commission used. I merely used the results obtained by the Local Government Commission for the purpose of verifying.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Verifying what, Mr. Speaker? The percentage? What percentage did you arrive at?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I verified their figures, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Well, in the gentleman's study, he certainly used some percentage of increase, did he not?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Oh yes, the gentleman means the figures adopted in the first instance?

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I do not have them here but I can send for them.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think it is important, but I am not going to hold the debate up for it.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. May I answer one statement made heretofore, Mr. Speaker? The Governor apparently has anticipated some increase in the use of gasoline for the coming biennium. May I point out that apparently the collections for this biennium are going to approximate the estimated receipts for the coming biennium. Now, if the collections for this biennium equal or approximate the anticipated collections for the coming biennium, then apparently the gentleman did not anticipate any increase in the use of gasoline for the coming biennium, even though business conditions are so much improved that it should be reflected in the total.

Mr. WOODSIDE. The gentleman's statement is wrong on that because the figures he gave on the floor of this House compared with the actual amount received is less than the estimate. The only money that will come in is that collected during the month of May, and I say again, we have practically gotten in what we will get in for the month of May because of the efforts of the Department of Revenue to get money in which is normally credited to the month of June.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. This, Mr. Speaker, is the custom which the gentleman told me has been in force and effect for the last two years, and I think the last four years. And it goes back into the preceding years and so on. In other words, there has not been any change in the conditions as they existed before, and there is no reason to believe that there would be any change in that system unless there is a falling out between the oil business and the Republican party.

Mr. WOODSIDE. The gentleman misunderstood me, Mr. Speaker. I said there is no change in the method of collecting taxes, not in the matter of trying to get in the tax earlier than usual.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the gentleman estimates the yield of the cigarette tax is approximately one million dollars more than that estimated by the Department of Revenue in January of this year. May I call the attention of the House to the fact that in 1937-1939, the actual amount of tax was $22,450,008.08, and that the amount realized to April 30th, 1941 was $23,285,673, and that there will be some additional taxes during the month of May. The increase, as will be noticed there, is more or less a normal increase.

There is one factor that ought to be taken into consideration in connection with that. That is that the amendment put into the bill in committee which was suggested by the administration, relative to the exemption of tax upon cigarettes sold to the soldiers and in government camps and things of that sort, will reduce the amount of cigarette tax which would otherwise have been realized. The exact amount which it will reduce the tax is somewhat difficult to estimate because there is nothing upon which you can base that, but there is certainly a reduction of at least $250,000 a year, which is half a million dollars a biennium, and some estimates have been made as high as a million dollars. So in taking into consideration the estimates for the next biennium, that fact should be taken into consideration, and I believe if it is, the gentleman will find that the Department of Revenues estimate is pretty close to what will actually be realized.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MESSAGE AND BILL LAID ON TABLE

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the message together with the bill be laid on the table.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it has come to my attention that some newspapers in Pennsylvania have misconstrued the action on my bill, which was to change the Labor Day Holiday for this year in Pennsylvania. The newspapers, they tell me, have indicated that the Democratic majority decided to kill the bill because they made a mistake in getting it out originally.

So that the record may be clear, may I state that when the bill was introduced, it was introduced solely because the Assembly of the State of New York had passed such a bill and at the time it was lying on the Governor's desk for his signature. I introduced the bill here so that we in Pennsylvania might be ready in case Governor Lehman of New York signed the bill, to make our holiday coincide with the New York holiday in order to protect the vacation industry in Pennsylvania, and that the banking circles might be in harmony on the legal bank holiday. I was surprised on last Saturday to hear that Governor Lehman had vetoed the bill, so on Monday night I moved to recommitt my bill, hoping that it would remain in committee silently and peacefully, so that it would never come out again. It was my idea, my thought, and the Democratic majority had nothing to do with it. I hope the newspapers will publish and correct this mistake.

The SPEAKER. We are honored today to have with us students of the Indiana State Teachers College, who won the highest award of the American Musical Arts Foundation in competition with three hundred colleges and universities on May sixth.

They are the guests of the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. McMillen, the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, and also the Senator from Indiana, Senator Wilson. We will be privileged to hear them sing today.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and declares a recess for fifteen minutes.

The students of the Indiana State Teachers' College beautifully rendered several vocal selections.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

THANKS EXTENDED TO

The SPEAKER. The sentiments of the House have been expressed in a resolution which was passed in this House today, and which will be transmitted to Dr. Schiett, and Miss Muldowney. The Chair thanks the boys and girls for their splendid performance.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. Speaker, further augmenting the remarks of the Chair, in view of the spontaneous and enthusiastic applause that was given to this fine chorus, I know we have in some measure expressed our appreciation for the splendid work they have done. I feel, Mr. Speaker, we have had the rare pleasure of hearing unusually fine acappella singing. The freshness of the voices, the richness of the melody, the delicacy of shading, the precision of attack, all tend to mark this very unusual choir as one worthy of the recognition it has already gained. I know all the Members join me in expressing our appreciation, and I trust that we may have the pleasure of their company again.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I believe the thanks of this House are due also to the Members of the House who are responsible for bringing this aggregation here as our guests.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Allegheny.

SENATE

MONDAY, May 12, 1941

The Senate met at 3:30 o'clock, p. m., E. S. T.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

O Lord, Our Heavenly Father, who art tender and compassionate and merciful and who doth heal all our diseases and comfort us in all our distresses, we do thank Thee for the hospitals of our land on this day when the entire nation evaluates these institutions of mercy and helpfulness.

Bless by Thy Presence the physicians and nurses in each hospital and their board of directors as well as those who affect the mechanics of each institution. May they ever be aware that the ideals of the hospital came with the great Physician unto the children of men and that rightfully, unto Thee should our thanksgiving be rendered.

Especially are we thankful for hospitals in this day when the imminence of belligerent action seems so obvious and the necessity for medical skill and tender ministration unto the sick and wounded seems so pronounced.

Remember those today in our hospitals who seek the restoration of health and the return unto the daily routine of life. Be very near to those whose diseases are incurable and who very soon must "join that innumerable caravan which moves to that mysterious realm where each must take his chamber in the silent halls of death," and may they be sustained by a sure and certain trust in Thee.

Guide and keep us here assembled today in the service of our great Commonwealth. Amen.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. T. B. WILSON and Mr. WALKER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, under the order of business of resolutions I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the gentleman from Luzerne will proceed.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, after the session of the Senate last Wednesday, May 7th, I announced I would postpone interrogation which I had announced I would make until to-day, in order to facilitate matters.

I would like at this time to interrogate the Chairman of the State Government Committee.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TALLMAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Lehigh if he has or has had at some time in his committee a bill which would authorize the erection of a mansion for the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I have had in my committee a bill, introduced by the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Mundy, for the purpose of amending the act relating to the General State Authority, which amendment is to make possible a provision to erect a new mansion.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh further?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lehigh permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. TALLMAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, will the Senator from Lehigh tell me whether or not any action has been taken on that bill in the committee of which he is chairman?

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, no action has been taken on the bill.

Mr. MUNDY. Would the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. President, consider me inopportune if I asked the gentleman further if there was any serious reason advanced for not considering that bill in committee?

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, it has been my understanding that an opinion has been rendered by counsel for the General State Authority to the effect that no such bill is necessary in order to give the General State Authority permission to erect a new mansion.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I take it that the Senator from Lehigh is quoting as his authority Pennsylvania law of 1935, page 454, section 4, which says that the State authority has the power to erect buildings at the seat of government, which I would consider now to be Harrisburg, and further quoting from the amendments of 1937 which gave this Authority permission to erect buildings outside of the seat of government.

Is that correct, Senator?

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I might state that my answer to the gentleman from Luzerne has been based on information that had been given to me and is not my interpretation of the acts which he now cites.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I interrogate the Majority Floor Leader?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, if he is aware of the fact that the other day I presented on the floor of this Senate a resolution asking that the Senate ask the State Authority to erect a mansion for the Governor; is that correct?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I know my colleague from Luzerne presented some resolution but I do not know what it was.

Mr. MUNDY. Well, Mr. President, that seems strange to me because I recall the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, getting up on the floor and objecting to immediate consideration of that resolution and now he says he does not know what the resolution was.

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President, that is the reason I objected to immediate consideration of the resolution. I think these things should be studied and we should have time to think about them.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, there were exactly about ten lines in that resolution, which were clearly read by the Clerk and easily understood by even the most obtuse mind and I cannot understand why the thing was not presented very clearly.

Mr. President, I wish at this time to make a few remarks, if granted permission.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the gentleman from Luzerne will proceed.

Mr. MUNDY. In 1864-65 General Grant was made Commander in Chief of the Union Army and General Sheridan made his famous ride in the Shenandoah Valley. General Sherman drove through the heart of the South to the sea. Mobile was captured by the Union Forces. Lee surrendered at Appomattox Court House. Nevada and Nebraska were admitted as states in the Union. President Lincoln was re-elected, then cruelly assassinated, to be succeeded by Andrew Johnson who failed of impeachment by one vote. The Thirteenth Amendment was passed—and the sovereign State of Pennsylvania erected a mansion for the Governor of Pennsylvania by taking over an old home and remodeling it at a cost of $300,000, and have spent triple this sum in maintenance since. All the other events have been catalogued in history, but the old mansion still stands.

Now, Mr. President, the Governor said—I refer to Governor James—in his St. Patrick's Day speech at the Penn Harris Hotel, that the mansion was a rather ghostly place full of blood curdling strange noises when through the rafters the wind sighed plaintive lullabys, despite its protecting oil burning furnaces.

Governor James, in his original speech to the combined General Assembly—and I quote from the Journal, these are the Governor's own words, "if the Authority funds permit, I propose the erection of a new Executive Mansion, so that the next Governor of Pennsylvania, whoever he may be, may have a residence in keeping with the state's respect for the dignity of the high position he holds."

Then again, Mr. President, the Governor in another address before the Assembly, on February 3, 1941, made the following statement: "Enacted and successfully carried out, it would give the next chief executive a house of government with the mortgage paid off—a household in which the cost of living would be reduced to many millions of dollars below the present level of tax income."

The Governor and I for the first time are in agreement about something. I felt as he did, that a Commonwealth which boasted of its vast natural resources, its material wealth, its educational progress, and the beauty of architecture of its governmental buildings, old and new, was certainly especially remiss in not erecting a home for its chief executive, which would compare favorably with all of this.

When Senator Taylor of Harrisburg introduced a bill to condemn additional land for a Capitol Park, I was foolish enough and I dreamed a dream of a beautiful ornamental bridge extending across the river, and at its western terminus on yonder hills a beautiful executive mansion overlooking the silvery shimmering Susquehanna as it wends its way lazily down to the sea. But you gentlemen in the majority have cruelly blasted that dream of mine into oblivion, and I have alone only memories to urge me to faintly raise my voice in mild protest at such an infamous and such a sordid act.

That the Governor may have other cause for complaint other than those he mentioned, but he was too conservative to include, was attested by fact.

In the good old days of supreme Republican rule the only aroma that was wafted out of the mansion down there was that of the finest bourbon, which was constantly wafted on the breeze until Pinchot came.

I remember former Governor George Earle complaining bitterly of the pungent odor of the house and furnishings because of the indelible impression made on them by the Pinchot dogs. Considerable money was spent by the state to expunge the lurking odors left by passing pittling diabetic Pinchot Pinchers without avail. George Earle then imported bigger and better dogs and threw in a pet skunk for good measure. Now, Mr. President, we agree with the present Governor that any odor from his predecessors would offend his sensitive highly trained nasal mucosa, or that of any modern "Diogenes" of his type.

Now, Mr. President, I am in a paradoxical position in presenting a resolution proposing the erection of a new mansion for the governor. I have attempted to lay aside all political partisanship in order to try to serve the best interests of the people of this Commonwealth.

I had believed there might be some opposition upon the part of the Democrats but I am certainly astounded to learn that the real serious opposition was found in the Senate, among the members of the same political faith as is Governor James.

For some time, gentlemen, I have sensed there was some dissatisfaction with the Chief Executive upon the part of certain members of the majority party, but I did not realize it was so widespread as to affect Caucus action.

The vocal protestation we have listened to today and the magnificent legal interpretation of the chairman of the committee and of the Majority Floor Leader are but a subterfuge to conceal the real situation.

Mr. President, when Wendell Willkie toured this state in quest of the Presidency of the United States it should have been, according to well established custom, the prerogative of the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania to welcome him and introduce Mr. Willkie to the Pennsylvania voters. When Governor James took the rostrum at New Castle to perform this function he was received with cold indifference, except for a few cat calls and some scattered boos.

The next day Mr. Willkie was scheduled to appear at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh, and former Senator Frank Harris wired for the good of the party to keep the Governor off the platform, because his very appearance would lose votes for the Republican Party in Allegheny County, and the Governor of Pennsylvania sat in the third row of the bleachers that night and Wendell Willkie never referred to him in his speech at all, but the next day, out here in front of the Capitol, Mr. Willkie for the first and for the only time mentioned the Governor's name while talking to a group of the state payrollers.

Your chairman over in Lancaster County the following day wigwagged and said for the "love of mike" keep James in Harrisburg, and the Governor stayed at home.

When the party reached Lackawanna County, I really felt sorry for the Chief Executive because the Republican County Chairman, Dr. Leonard Frieda and Mayor Heuster said they would leave Mr. Willkie's party if Governor James introduced Willkie, but your national committeewoman, Mrs. Marjorie Scranton, in return for favors rendered, insisted that James do the honors.

Mr. President, we were there and we really felt sorry for the Chief Executive, to see Dr. Frieda and Mayor Heuster walk out and dub him a "persona non grata."

Their good judgment was vindicated a few minutes later by the hostile demonstration of the crowd at the station when the Governor vainly tried to introduce the Presidential Candidate and later, on the following day, I stood in the Sterling Hotel the afternoon of Mr. Willkie's visit to Wilkes-Barre. With me were a group of your sterling Republican leaders and someone asked who was going to introduce Mr. Willkie. The answer was James.

Immediately, Mr. President, in unison some of them chorused, "why can't James get sick tonight for the good of the Party."

Because of these events even the most saturated minds capable of not grasping the trend of events could grasp the fact that Governor James was literally in the dog house with the rank and file of the Republican Party, but gentlemen of the majority, I could believe that the Republican majority of the Senate would refuse to erect a badly needed home for the Governor because of patronage differences, particularly since Governor James has repeatedly stated that many of you rode into office on his coat tails.

I want you to clearly understand that Arthur James' former friends, of his breaker boy days, the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Miller, is familiar with them from Plymouth, have not petitioned me to present this bill or this resolution.

The present unpretentious edifice is more in keeping with his former humble position in life as a little breaker boy. The few old friends from Luzerne County who occasionally visit and who are still welcome at the brown stone mansion on Front Street would hardly recognize our present Chief Executive in more palatial surroundings. Rather, Mr. President, do I ask for building of this mansion so that he may more fittingly and more properly entertain his new-found friends, the millionaires of special privilege, say from over in Bucks County, or from the City of Brotherly Love and also from that famous State of Allegheny.

I believe Senator Edmonds, in addressing Senator Shapiro on this floor last week, when he said he is always suspicious of Greeks bearing gifts, that really reflected the truth of your attitude of suspicion of my motive.

You are afraid if you passed my bill or resolution I might ask that a new wing be added to the house to accommodate a certain gentleman from cactus lands of Texas, the real power behind the throne, Colonel Carl Estes.

Now, gentlemen, taking in consideration the attitude of the many old line Republicans to whom I have talked, and your present attitude on that side, if the Governor's social list continues to curtail itself automatically we may change our minds and ask the architect to design a moderate size, well ventiated telephone booth so that he may properly entertain his friends.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I am glad the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Mundy, was able at last to get his speech off his chest. It sounded well over the amplifing system.

However, the Senator's remarks in regard to the mansion are just a little out of date. The General State Authority has already been investigating sites and so far as I know proposes to erect a mansion for the next governor and for the remainder of the term of this Governor, if that is possible.

A few weeks ago I introduced a bill in this Legislature and the same was passed by the Senate, which required the General State Authority to undertake no projects without prior consent of the Legislature. I think that was a good bill. Senator Mundy was among those who voted in the negative and I am wondering why, if he feels it necessary now to interest the Legislature in this proposition which he voted against only a few weeks ago.

Personally, Mr. President, I think the Legislature should pass an act for the erection of a new mansion. The present site was secured under an act of Assembly; the funds for its building or change were provided through an act of Assembly and it seems to me the proper thing is for the Legislature to pass an act which will deal with this subject.

As I tried to point when the other bill was passed by the Senate, I think the Legislature is surrendering a considerable amount of its power in passing these general acts which allow some other group or commission to go ahead and spend our money without our supervision. I think the bill which I introduced, and which lays in the Committee on State Government, should be brought out on the floor and passed, which requires the State Authority to do nothing further than what it has already undertaken. But, if we are going to pass an act of Assembly or if we are going to pass a resolution in regard to this, it requires study as the acts which have already been passed.

It would not do simply to amend the General State Authority Act; if we are going to pass an Act of Assembly we should amend or change the act which provided for the present location, so that the bill which the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Mundy, introduced, and the resolution which he introduced are not the proper ones to deal with this subject.

I do not propose to discuss the other part of his speech, in regard to the present Governor; I think he is perfectly capable of taking care of himself and I think when this administration passes into retrospect it will be regarded much more highly than it is at the present time; but I am perfectly willing that this Senate do stand on its dignity and destroy this General State Authority as far as any new projects are concerned, or pass an act properly relating to this Governor's mansion.

Mr. President, as I have stated, this resolution and this bill introduced by the Senator from Luzerne are not proper ones for this purpose.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, myself and my distinguished colleague from Luzerne have generally seen eye to eye on propositions that have been before us in the Senate of Pennsylvania and I dislike intensely to differ sharply with him on this question, which I must do with respect to this question of the building of an executive mansion.

The learned gentleman from Luzerne has suggested that the architect who builds the proposed mansion should build it to dimensions of a telephone booth so that the present Governor of the Commonwealth can accommodate all his friends.

During the four great years of Governor Earle's administration the executive mansion was the scene of many splendid social events and those of us on the Democratic side are inclined to disagree with my colleague from Luzerne when he suggests the building of an executive mansion so small. We are looking ahead, Mr. President. A mansion of that type may be all right for the next two years, but we are looking ahead to January of 1943 and we do not want to put up with the same crowded conditions in the executive mantion that we had during the four years of Governor Earle's administration, and we suggest if and when a mansion is to be built it be built with the thought in mind of taking care of many a splendid celebration in that mansion. We want it built so spacious that we will not have to put up with the overcrowded condition which existed all during the four years Governor Earle was the Governor of this great Commonwealth.

Mr. EALY. May I suggest to the gentleman from Lackawanna I have no fear whatever he will have a chance to get his Governor in that mansion.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I correct a false impression created by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, when he stated this affair was on my chest. That is decidedly incorrect. My interpretation is that all this responsibility, when the present Governor is in office, the responsibility of doing the proper thing at the present time, really falls upon the leadership on the part of the party, of which he is a member. Of course, if the gentleman from Somerset insists that I substitute for him and "carry the ball" I will be very glad to do so.

He also stated, Mr. President, that I voted against the measure which he proposed to curb the power of the State Authority, and might I remind him that in 1937, whenever we did propose to erect a building, whenever we did propose to create a new hospital, we, the then Democratic majority, always passed an enabling act on this floor and submitted it to the Senate and the House for their approval.

Now, Mr. President, if the responsibility really devolves upon the party in power, they should be very, very willing to accept it and carry it and not try to shift it to one who tries to show them the light and the direction but can not pass that way without obstruction.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, while we are all offering suggestions to the architect for that dream mansion, and our colleague from Scranton suggested we were building this for the incoming Democratic Governor, if there might be a faint possibility of that, may I suggest to the architect that he also provide in this new mansion a twenty foot boxing ring so the Democratic Party can settle their factional differences.

BILL ON NON-CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 253, entitled:

An Act relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class; providing, subject to the approval of the electors, for a three-platoon system for such members, with certain exceptions; providing for an election on such question; and regulating hours of service, hours of rest and annual vacations.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, this bill is now before the Senate for concurrence in the amendments placed in the bill by the House.

There are several amendments placed in the bill, one on page 1 of the bill, at line 4; one on page 3, line 4; and one on page 3, line 5.

There is also an amendment placed in the bill on page 3, lines 18 and 19.

Mr. President, at this time I would like to suggest that the Senate concur in the amendment as it appears on page 3, lines 18 and 19, and that the Senate do not concur in the amendments appearing on page 1, line 4 and at the top of page 3, and in the amendments appearing on page 1, line 4, and the amendments appearing on page 3, line 4 and line 5.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Somerset will state his point of order.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, as I understand parliamentary procedure, we can not pick out certain features of this bill on which we may concur, and certain other features on which we can not concur.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order raised by the gentleman from Somerset is well taken. The Chair understands the Senate can either concur or to non-concur in the amendments adopted by the House. In the event of non-concurrence, the bill then goes back to the House with that information, and then the proper procedure would be the appointment of a Conference Committee.

MOTION THAT SENATE NON-CONCUR IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do non-concur in the amendments placed in Senate Bill No. 253 by the House.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, being new, I do not know just what to do, but I want to object. I ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this motion, and I ask for a roll call.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, a vote "aye" is a vote to non-concur?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 30, entitled:

An Act providing for the establishment, construction, operation and maintenance of a mountain ridge road or parkway in the Pocono Mountains through, bordering or accessible to the counties of Monroe, Northampton, Carbon, Luzerne, Lackawanna, Wayne and Pike to be known as the "Rim Parkway," providing for the creation of the Pennsylvania Parkway Commission, and conferring powers and imposing duties on said commission; authorizing the issuance of parkway revenue bonds of the Commonwealth, payable solely from tolls, to pay the cost of such parkway, providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act; providing for the collection of tolls for the payment of such bonds and for the cost of maintenance, operation and repair of the parkway; making such bonds exempt from taxation; constituting such bonds legal investments in certain instances; prescribing conditions upon which such parkway shall become free; providing for condemnation; granting certain powers and authority to municipal subdivisions and other agencies of the Commonwealth to cooperate with the commission; conferring powers and imposing duties on the Department of Highways; and authorizing the issuance of parkway revenue refunding bonds

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 32, entitled:

An Act to facilitate vehicular traffic between the eastern and western sections of the Commonwealth by providing for the construction, operation and maintenance of a turnpike from a point at or near Irwin in Westmoreland County, the western terminus of the turnpike heretofore constructed by said commission, to a point on the western boundary line of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania touching on the State of Ohio; or the State of West Virginia, and conferring powers and imposing duties on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission; authorizing the issuance of turnpike revenue bonds of the Commonwealth, payable solely from tolls, to pay the cost of such turnpike; providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act; providing for the collection of tolls for the payment of such bonds and for the cost of maintenance, operation and repair of the turnpike; making such turnpike bonds exempt from taxation; constituting such bonds legal investments in certain instances; requiring suits against the commission to be brought in Dauphin County; prescribing conditions upon which such turnpike shall become free; providing for grade separations, grade changes and relocation and restoration of public roads and State highways affected by the turnpike; providing for condemnation; granting certain powers and authority to municipal subdivisions and agencies of the Commonwealth to cooperate with the commission; and authorizing the issuance of turnpike revenue refunding bonds.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President,

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland whether or not he has found out whether the contractors that he spoke about last week as not having been paid, have since been paid.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in answer to the question I might say the complaint that I had on the part of the contractors was based upon my argument that they should be allowed to accept turnpike bonds in lieu of cash payment. However, the Committee on Highways have decisively defeated my argument, and therefore, rather than jeopardize the extension of the turnpike, I thought I would not get into an argument on the merits of allowing contractors to receive bond payments. I still believe, of course, that it would be proper, and I might say, in direct answer to the question of the gentleman from Washington, that the contractors have not been paid.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Westmoreland know whether the farmers whose lands have been taken have been paid the damages they are entitled to.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the last information I have on the matter of farm payments, or adjustment of claims, is that out of 760 odd claims against the turnpike, 532 have been adjusted. However, I want to say I offered an amendment to this bill in committee along that line, stating, no construction work should be started on this new extension of the turnpike until all former claims would have been paid. However, that was decisively defeated by the committee.

Mr. REED. I desire to thank the gentleman from Westmoreland. Now, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis, know whether enough money was realized from the sale of the turnpike bonds to meet the necessary expense of construction, including the amounts due the contractors.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I am advised that there is sufficient money to pay the contractors and all damage claims.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Allegheny know why the contractors have not been paid?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I do know that in a project of this size there may be some disputes with contractors. I know that has happened heretofore on much smaller projects, and I am sure that if there are any disputes with contractors that they have been already paid.

Mr. REED. I wish to thank the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. President, it seems to me this bill should go over in order until we have had an opportunity to ascertain from those who control the turnpike whether the contractors have been paid, and if they have not been paid, what the reason is for non-payment, and also to determine whether the farmers have been paid and in the event they have not been paid, what is the reason for non-payment.

I believe the Turnpike Commission would very readily appear and give us that information and I believe we are entitled to that information before we vote on this bill.

SENATE BILL NO. 32 OVER IN ITS ORDER

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 32 go over in its order until we have had an opportunity to get this information.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I do not object to having this bill go over for one day, but we are getting towards the end of the session, I hope, and if we keep putting these bills over, they will come on us in a rush towards the end.

I am willing to let this bill go over until tomorrow, because anybody can call the commission on the telephone or go down to see them, and in five minutes they can get this information.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I might be sick tomorrow, and may I ask my question of the Senator today?

The PRESIDENT. Which Senator?

Mr. WOODWARD. The distinguished Senator from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, to explain the term—probably he cannot—why the Controller of the Currency in Washington ordered the turnpike bonds out of the portfolio of a national bank in Harrisburg, as an unworthy companion of the other bonds in the portfolio; that gave them a black eye.

Mr. McGINNIS. I have not the slightest idea, Mr. President; I do not know that.

Mr. WOODWARD. I do, Mr. President.

Mr. McGINNIS. If that is so, Mr. President, I have not the slightest idea.

Mr. WOODWARD. I have sitting near me a director of the bank which suffered this insult. I do not want to call upon him, to take him out of his privacy, unless it is absolutely necessary, but he is here.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I will consent to have this bill go over in order for one day.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to call the Senate's attention to the fact that this procedure we have just concluded is somewhat irregular. The bill had passed third reading and it was up for final passage and the roll had been started, and it was only because the Chair wishes to give everybody an opportunity to be heard and not cut off debates that the procedure was allowed, but if a point of order had been raised, the debate would have been cut off.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 122, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend subsection (b) of, and to add subsection (e) to, section twenty-eight of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 447), entitled as amended, "An act relating to the administration and distribution of the estates of decedents and of minors, and of trust estates; including the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, liabilities, accounts, discharge and removal of executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees, herein designed as fiduciaries; the administration and distribution of the estates of presumed decedents; widow's and children's exemptions; debts of decedents, rents of real estate as assets for payment thereof, the lien thereof, sales and mortgages of real estate for the payment thereof, judgments and executions therefor, and the discharge of real estate from the lien thereof; contracts of decedents for the sale or purchase of real estate; legacies, including legacies charged on land; the discharge of residuary estates and of real estate from the lien of legacies and other charges; the appraisement of real estate devised at a valuation; the ascertainment of the curtilage of dwelling houses or other buildings devised; the abatement and survival of actions; and the substitution of executors and administrators therein; the survival of causes of action and suits thereupon by or against fiduciaries; investments by fiduciaries; the organization of corporations to carry on the business of decedents; the audit and review of accounts of fiduciaries; refunding bonds; transcripts to the court of common pleas of balances due by fiduciaries; the rights, powers and liabilities of nonresident and foreign fiduciaries; the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties and liabilities of trustees durante absentia; the recording and registration of decrees, reports and other proceedings, and the fees therefor; appeals in certain cases; and, also, generally dealing with the jurisdiction, powers, and procedure of the orphans' court in all matters relating to fiduciaries concerned with the estates of decedents," authorizing executors of a will with the approval of orphans' court, to sell at private sale the real and personal estate of the decedent although the will directs such sale to be public, and to purchase real and personal estate of the decedent when sold at private sale go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 934 is a bill which amends Section 901 of the third class city code, which was enacted in 1931.

I want to call to the attention of the Senate that the Act of 1931 provides that police in cities of the third class, as well as the firemen and those employed in the engineering department, in the electrical bureau, as well as building inspectors and health officers, are protected by civil service. Among the city employes are a great many men and women employed in the Finance Department, in the Bureau of Highways, in the State Treasurer's office and in the Water Department, who have no such protection. In most cities you will find men and women in those departments that are not covered by civil service who have reached the age where they could not go out into private industry and obtain employment. For all the years they have worked in the various third class cities, they would not come under the Federal Social Security Act. If many of those cities had not provided retirement systems, there would be nothing much for those employes to do other than to go on relief.

Mr. President, this act, the gist of which is on page 2, simply provides that no employe or subordinate officer of the city other than per diem employes in the employ of the city for less than one year, and those whose suspension or dismissal is provided for in article 44 of this act, shall suffer a deduction from salary or be suspended or dismissed without his consent in writing, except after hearing before the Board of Review and then only in the manner hereinafter provided. The bill sets up a Board of Review which shall be appointed by council and whose members shall serve without pay and who will hear and determine the complaints.

I want to call your attention to the fact that council has five causes for which they can discharge an employe. The first is physical or mental disability affecting his ability to continue in service; in such cases the Board of Review may recommend honorable discharge from service. Second, is neglect or violation of any official duty. The third is violation of any law of this Commonwealth which provides that such violation constitutes a misdemeanor or felony. The fourth cause is inefficiency, indifference, disobedience of orders or conduct unbecoming an employe or subordinate officer. The fifth cause is intoxication while on duty.

Now, Mr. President, the only reason I can see why anyone would not want to do justice to this class of employes of third class cities is the hard-boiled politician who thinks he can browbeat anyone in the Commonwealth into voting for him or his party.

I heard a statement made on the other side of this hall with which I am heartily in accord, and that is if we want our party to be the controlling party in Pennsylvania, we must seek to have laws enacted that are good and for the benefit of the great majority of the people of the state. I think the time has passed when you can browbeat anyone into voting for any individual or for any party. The old saying, "You can lead a horse to water but you can not make him drink" applies; you can not make the people of this Commonwealth vote for any individual or any party; you can not compel them to do that any more, and I hope my colleagues will support this bill.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise also in support of this measure. My senatorial district has five third class cities in it and I have witnessed on many occasions dismissal of men who stood by the city in the days when there were high wages and they worked for normal wages. For instance, in one particular city, in which I happened to serve as councilman, they dismissed at one time three men who had served on the city payroll as laborers for fifty-five or sixty cents an hour, during the twenty dollar a day days of the World War. Then, when the depression came along in the early thirties, other persons who had made big money in the days of the war wanted these small jobs and because they had political influence, they had these poor old-timers dismissed and they themselves took the jobs.

I think it is perfectly right we should try in some measure to protect these men who do the dirty work of the cities of this state when times are good, and they certainly ought to be entitled to those jobs when times are bad.

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. Mr. President and gentleman of the Senate, I merely want to second the remarks of the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Mallery, and the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, and call your attention to the fact that in every third class city there are many men who have given the best years of their life to their municipality and at the present time, they have neither seniority rights, retirement rights, nor social security rights.

This bill will go part way toward remedying that condition and I ask my colleagues to vote favorably for it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The way it now stands, the bill will appear on the third reading Calendar,

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I thought I heard the Chair ask consent for this bill to be read the third time and the consent was granted. If that is so, this bill will appear on final passage tomorrow.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, the purpose of my request that it go over in order was so that it would not be on final passage but on third reading tomorrow.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman is correct. The Chair asked whether there was any objection to the bill on third reading as amended, and then the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, rose and the Chair recognized him, and he then made the motion that the bill go over in order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. If the record is straight, Mr. President, I am satisfied.

SENATE BILL No. 561 CALLED UP FROM THIRD READING POSTPONED

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Bill No. 561, on the third reading postponed Calendar, page 15.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 561, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the thirtieth day of March one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 115) entitled "An act to provide for the permanent personal registration of electors in cities of the first class as a condition of their right to vote at elections and primaries and their enrollment as members of political parties as a further condition of their right to vote at primaries prescribing certain procedures for the conduct of elections and primaries and the challenge and proof of qualifications of electors and prescribing the powers and duties of citizens parties bodies of electors registration commissions commissioners registrars inspectors of registration and other appointees of registration commission election officers municipal officers departments and bureaus police officers courts judges prothonotaries sheriffs county commissioners peace officers county treasurers county controllers registrars of vital statistics real estate brokers rental agents certain public service companies persons firms and corporations operating vehicles for moving furniture and household goods and boards of school directors and imposing penalties" as amended by amplifying and changing the powers and duties of the commission its employes and commissioners further regulating and changing the provisions of said act relating to the appointment and removal of registrars and the powers privileges rights and duties of registrars watchers election officers and electors revising and changing the provisions of said act relating to the times places and manner of registering electors and their enrollment as members of political parties change of party enrollment cancellation of registrations preparation and distribution of street lists appeals to the commission and to courts and the procedure thereon the inspection of the records of the commission providing for appeals by the commission to appellate courts repealing and changing certain provisions of said act relating to removal notices and for the manner of reckoning time imposing additional duties on certain city officers clarifying and coordinating certain provisions of said act and imposing additional penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 561 go over in its order.

Mr. FARRELL. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this is a bill which changes the registration law, and contains a number of amendments to the registration law of cities of the first class.

One of the things to which I object in this bill, particularly, is the provision which takes away from the public the right to examine the lists at all times. That is only one of the first objections I have to it.

I understood it was to remain on the postponed Calendar and would not be called up until an opportunity was given for a conference, and following a public hearing which was held in Philadelphia last week, I think on Friday, and that was my reason for suggesting that this bill go over in its order. If, however, the gentleman insists on acting on it, I shall ask my colleagues to vote "no" on the bill.

There are some provisions in this bill which have merit; there are other provisions which I think require further consideration and further study. I am quite sure very few of the members of the Senate who will vote on this bill are familiar with the effect of all the amendments proposed; I am not sure even the sponsor is familiar with the effect of the amendments proposed.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, it has been a month and three days since I presented this bill to the Senate, and it was left on the postponed Calendar for a full week. I have carefully read the bill, as did the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, and others who are experts on legislation, and we have read the other bills in the House, and I regard this bill, and say with these other gentlemen, this is the best bill that has been offered, and I know it will go a long way to bring about a decent registration law for Philadelphia. This bill will go over to the House, and if they want to amend it, or the Committee of Seventy wants to amend it, I have no objection, provided they keep within the lines of a good bill.

Mr. President, I would like to say here this bill is identical with the bill the Committee of Seventy presented two years ago. If it was good then, it is good now, and I object to the bill going over in order.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of information.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, my point of information is whether this is a vote on the bill on third reading or on the motion that it go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. It is a vote on final passage of the bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 294, (House Bill No. 481), entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 331 on second reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section two of the act, approved the seventeenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirteen (P. L. 507), entitled "An act to provide revenue for State and county purposes, and, in cities coextensive with counties, for city and county purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment and collection of the same; providing for the duties and compensation of prothonotaries and recorders in connection therewith; and modifying existing legislation which provided for raising revenue for State purposes," by changing the time for the return and payment of said county (and in certain cases city and county) tax to the county treasurer go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before that motion is put, I should like the gentleman first to consider an amendment which I propose to offer. This bill originally was intended to make the city tax return conform to what exists now with respect to the state tax return on personal property. As it is now amended, it takes out from the act the provisions which made the tax a self-assessing tax, also made the tax returnable on the fifteenth of February.

I think the bill in its original form presented a very favorable piece of legislation, and I should like to offer an amendment now placing the bill back in its original form.

Mr. President, I therefore offer the following amendment before the bill goes over in its order.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I have requested that Senate Bill No. 331 go over in its order and if that would be granted I would be very glad to confer with the Senator from Philadelphia. However, Mr. President, I do want to say on the question of having the bill amended that the bill was prepared in the first instance in a manner in which I thought it was most desirable. Enough influence, or rather, enough word comes to me to make me feel I should defer passage of a very deserving piece of legislation by insisting that it be paid immediately and also by insisting it should be paid to the County Treasurer and I therefore feel the amendment should go in to defer the actual payment made on April 1st which would practically carry out the intent of the bill and would secure enough influence, I think, to pass the bill, or I hope it will.

The report, however, of the return would be made at the same time as the return for state taxes.

Now, Mr. President, as to the question or reason for this bill, it is that it comes at a time in the early spring when the municipalities need money so much. The cities and the large boroughs and many of the outlying districts need this money, and one other thing is that we have determined by actual inquiry that nearly fifteen per cent of all of the tax is lost by putting it on the duplicates and I feel the bill as now amended is in the proper form to secure passage, and if the Senate will permit the bill to go over in its order until tomorrow, I will be very glad to confer either privately or converse more at length on the merits of the proposed amendment with the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I withdraw the amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 706, (House Bill No. 1021), entitled:

An Act to add section six hundred seventeen and one-tenth to the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" authorizing school districts under certain conditions to appropriate money to non-profit corporations established for the purpose of constructing school buildings for the use of the district.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, I desire to offer amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 17, by striking out the following: "with the approval of the Department of Public Instruction"; amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 2, by inserting after the word "prices" the following: "provided however that none of the powers granted by this act shall be used by the board of school directors of said school district without the specific and written approval of the State Department of Public Instruction".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Letzler.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LETZLER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I am somewhat confused by the provisions of this bill, which provides that where a school district wants to rebuild or build a new building where its old building has been destroyed, that it may appropriate money to an organization whose business it is to construct a school building and then lease it in return, with the right to become the purchaser at the end of the lease.

Mr. President, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Clearfield whether that is not a rather unusual procedure; because under the wording of the bill if the school board should appropriate enough money to erect the building through this private corporation, then why would it need to lease the building and only acquire title after a period of time; is there not something wrong with this bill?

Mr. LETZLER. The answer to that, Mr. President, is probably that this bill was prompted by a peculiar circumstance that has arisen, particularly in Bellefonte, where the high school had burned and the school board received insurance amounting to somewhere around $90,000 or $100,000. That amount is entirely inadequate to build a new high school; not even under a W. P. A. appropriation could a high school be built.

This bill is, therefore, intended to permit contributions, on the part of citizens and others interested, to a non-profit corporation, and the school board also will contribute the amount of insurance it now has to this non-profit corporation, in order to accomplish the building of a new high school.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. LETZLER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I desire to ask the gentleman from Clearfield whether it is not true then that this bill ought to be amended so that when it provides for the appropriation of money out of the general fund of the school district to any non-profit corporation, there should be some limit on the amount of the appropriation; under the provisions of this act the school board could appropriate the whole amount of money necessary.

Mr. LETZLER. Of course, Mr. President, that is the intention in this particular case, that it shall appropriate the whole amount of the money it has. The fact that it does not have enough money to build a high school will prevent it from appropriating enough to build the building.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. LETZLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. If it does appropriate all the money, Mr. President, it does not need a non-profit organization, but if it is not appropriating all the money, the bill should so provide, because there is nothing to prevent the school directors, except the fact that they do not now have the money, from appropriating all the money. If they have the power to borrow under the bill they could borrow the money and pay all the money over to this non-profit corporation and still only have a lease instead of a title.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, the borrowing capacity is limited by law and consequently the school board is not in a position to borrow any money.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Well, Mr. President, this is the bill of the gentleman from Clearfield. I think this bill should be amended and I have called his attention to that fact and I will leave it to him.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, I yield to the gentleman from Montgomery.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I call attention to the fact that this amendment just put in provides that in every title there must be the written approval of the superintendent of public instruction; in other words, we are creating a school authority but it is a school authority that can only act under some supervision from the state and I am inclined to think when the Senator from Philadelphia reads the amendments put in today he will be satisfied with this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section was read and agreed to.

The title was read and agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President,

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE UNITED STATES

Since last Monday, there have been momentous changes in the world. One can sense in the acts and words of the men of affairs, who know the war situation, that time is a greater factor than ever before in the situation. Time to shift troops, time to secure ships and time to make and deliver to the weak spots of the British fronts more materials.

President Roosevelt has appealed for more haste in the delivery of the big bombing planes, and to that end has urged more action. Lord Halifax has added his voice to that of the President and Winston Churchill and has made a ringing plea for ships and more ships. The British Admiralty has given forth the figures of ship losses for the past month and they are staggering. The world's shipyards cannot begin to replace the tonnage that has been sent into Davy Jones' lockers.

And still there is loose in this country, the idea that everything is fine and that our Congressmen can spend endless days in debate. This idea is being carefully formulated and spread over the country by various groups bearing names in which "Peace" is predominant. But there can be no peace with such a group of highbinders and gangsters as Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin. These three stiletto bearing murderers recognize neither God, man, nor the devil. Their word is but falsehood and their acts have not an iota of sincerity. They are beyond the pale of all decent men.

Certain men are leading the groups that are spreading this propaganda and to my mind it is a question whether or not they should be curbed. Some of the members of these propaganda spreading groups are doubtless sincere and it is not in harmony with American thought to forbid free speech. Yet the privilege of free speech is being abused in many quarters.

Ignorant people, devoid of thoughtful thinking, are given a mass of half truth which they absorb for the truth, and which, like Canadian thistles, once planted are hard to eradicate. These persons repeat the statements they have heard and unwillingly spread a school of thought that is most harmful. Some weeks ago I suggested that we Senators make an effort to inform ourselves on the situation in which the country today finds itself and truthfully tell our constituents. I feel we should not miss an opportunity to go before our service clubs, Chambers of Commerce and fraternal society meetings and spread the gospel of the aims and needs of our Nation.

We have been silent too long. In our state we have been hearing the Council of National Defense. I am hopeful that through this medium our people can be given the truth, and that by binding them together in the various organizations embodied in the Council of National Defense, secure some semblance of united effort. As I see it, Great Britain is today fighting a life and death battle and her efforts are as much in our behalf as they are in her own. It is a war on our system of life, it is a war on our liberties and our homes and firesides. It is a ruthless war to make free men slaves doing the bidding of a blood crazed trio of despots.

Think ye that Stalin who "liquidated" seven millions of his more prosperous farmers, sending them to Siberia where they died by millions; Mussolini, who had "a good laugh" as he was told how bombs dropping among the naked spear bearing Ethiopians, caused them to rise high in the air; Hitler who with a wave of his hand turns his murderers loose on conquered nations to shoot, rape and pillage; are men with whom peace could be made?

Churchill knows; Lord Halifax knows; the people of England, who with gritted teeth see their homes disappear into a mass of rubble as bombs drop, know. Our Secretary of War and the observers who have been over seas know, and they all echo a grand chorus "Away with the dictators and their satelites."

To that end we have promised "All Out Aid to England." And let me ask "Are we keeping our promise? Are we giving aid as we should? Have we geared our lives to that program? Are we desisting from the practice of taking from the war munition plants things they need for non-essential industry? Are our leaders cracking down as they should on those who persist in throwing encumbrances into the wheels of industry?"

It is impossible gentlemen to answer these questions. Our press, which Thank God is free and untrammeled, tells us that "we are getting into production". It pictures one tank rolling out of a factory; it pictures groups of planes lined up in airplane plants; it shows our shipyards busy; it portrays our research laboratories working on new high explosives, gas masks and sundry items, but how many of those items are being made?

Perhaps those are war secrets; perhaps we are not to know but when men like Paul McNutt come into our midst, I feel that at least a conference might be held with Legislators, and some ideas given them. I feel that we as men recognize by our constituents as worthy of seats in this Senate, could be given some insight into affairs. Then we could act more intelligently and perhaps with more speed.

Our state stands ready as it always has, ready to take up the burden of national defense. I feel that we are ready to appropriate money to aid the cause and to do whatever we are called upon to do. Our goal is to uphold the hands of our government to keep it free and in the hands of our peoples. To that end then, we should be told the truth.

I have heard it said "We are turning out more airplanes and more ships and guns than anybody knows, and I am lead to assume the factories are doing all right." For myself I think that idea is one that is causing a lag in the production. I cannot but see that people believing such a thing would tarry long with their play and feel that "George is doing it."

Personally, it is my idea that if American is falling down on the job after all the billions that have been voted for defense and all the "dollar a year" men have paraded down to Washington, and the President has more than rattled the saber, we should know it. This is no one man government. This is a government of the people, by the people and for the people, and there are ways and means to get action if the present leaders are falling down. I do not say they are, but we are entitled to know it if they are, and why? If it be politics, contracts to favorites who have to build plants to get into production and thus make the nation wait, then Congress has the right to ascertain and report to "We the People."

Our people are ready and willing to be taxed for defense. They are ready to forswear luxuries if need be. They are ready to march off into training camps, which for some reason have cost more millions than was given out but they are not ready to be deceived. It was deception by the leaders that laid France prostrate before the invader; it was deception that caused the harbor forts of Norway to withhold fire on the German transports until too late; it was deception that opened the gates of Belgium and we must have no deception here. Our streets are each day trod by young men in Kahki who are young, virile and fresh, and they must not be deceived and turned from free men into slaves.

There is today a dire need for the people to know the truth. Let us try to ascertain it and then in our capacity as leaders in the thought of our State, go forth and spread it in our home districts. It is a duty we have as I see it and as most of us are beyond the days of kahki, we must be in the first line of home defense, and no better way can be found to serve than to let our folk back home know the story of what is going on in our nation.

Have we voted enough for our Council of Home Defense? Has it funds with which to do a good job. This is one thing that is near to my heart. We have all loved ones in the ranks of the armed forces afloat or ashore and we must give to see they are properly armed and protected. It is my opinion that our national government should have liasion with every State government whereby the various states may at all times know the stark realities that are with us today.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the gentleman from Montgomery will proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, when the debate was on concerning the attitude of those who had newly come to this country of America, I was interested sufficiently to write the historical section of the American Army to find out how many of those who served in the World War under the American flag had been foreign born, and I have some very interesting figures from the Adjutant General of the Army which I would like to read for the information of the Senate.

No compilation has been made by the War Department showing the total number of foreign born who served in the United States Army during the World War or of those who served overseas during that period. However, it may be stated that based on a study of applications for adjusted compensation under the provisions of the World War Adjusted Compensation Act in the cases of 3,138,261 individuals who served in the United States Army during the World War, 350,712 are shown to have been born in foreign countries of which number 10,388 were born in Germany. Of the latter number 378 were commissioned officers; 17 were army field clerks; 44 were nurses, of the Army Nurse Corps, and 9,949 were enlisted men. The total number of individuals who served in the United States Army during the World War was 4,057,101, of which number 2,059,629 served overseas.

In other words, Mr. President, taking three-quarters of the record of the American Army, it would be safe to say that more than ten per cent were foreign born, and of that ten per cent there was quite a sizable proportion who were born in Germany. I have always felt myself one of the great glories of this country was the quickness with which we Americanized those who came to us, and these figures help me to feel there is substantial authority for that point of view.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Help us, O Lord, to love our country not less but Thy kingdom more. Help us to see our duty as citizens in the light of Thy eternal purpose. Help us to serve our country because we believe in her and feel that as we make her strong we are advancing the cause of righteousness and truth. Give us a faith that asks not to be relieved of responsibility to the world about us, that has the courage to face the problems of life, and no vain desire to live for itself alone. Help us to take our religion into the market-place and prove its power there.

Grant unto us a citizenship which is grounded in right living and devoted to the brotherhood of man. Make our country, we pray Thee, a friend of all the world, and help us, each and everyone, to strive to the end that our people may be a people who serve Thee, the one true and living God. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1401, as follows:

An Act to amend section six of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051), entitled "An act relating to public assistance; providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children, aged persons, blind persons and other persons requiring relief; providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose; authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with, and to accept and disburse moneys received from, the United States Government for assistance to such persons; providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board, Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund, and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind; and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, and the State Emergency Relief Board," further regulating the establishment of standards and qualifications for assistance and imposing additional penalties

Section 1 Section six of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance pensions for the blind old age assistance and the State Emergency Relief Board" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 6 Rules and Regulations The State Board of Public Assistance shall have the power to promulgate rules and regulations concerning the administration of this act including the establishment of standards of eligibility for assistance and its nature and extent Provided however That such standards shall be based on the actual weekly cost of all assistance necessary for the maintenance of a decent and healthful standard of living determined in accordance with standards of cost in each county And provided further That no such rule or regulation shall restrict the right of any applicant for assistance who is employed but earns less than the established standard in such cases from receiving the difference between the amount of such earnings and the standard so established

The county boards shall determine the eligibility of an applicant under the standards so established subject to the right of appeal as provided under subsection (d) of section seven of this act

Section 2 Section thirteen of said act as amended by section three of the act, approved the twenty-sixth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 1091), is hereby further amended to read as follows:

Section 13. Penalties. (a) Any person who, either prior to, or at the time of, or subsequent to the application for assistance, by means of a wilfully false statement or misrepresentation, or by impersonation or other fraudulent means, secures, or attempts to secure, or aids or abets any person in securing assistance under this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00), or to undergo imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, at the discretion of the court, and also [shall] may be sentenced to make restitution of any moneys he has received by reason of any such false statement, misrepresentation impersonation, or fraudulent means.

(c) Any person receiving assistance, who secures employment, and fails to notify the county board with regard thereto and the consideration, salary or wages to be received therefore, within forty-eight hours, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon summary conviction thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars ($25), or to undergo five (5) days imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court, and also may be sentenced to make restitution of any moneys received during the term of such employment.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will one of the sponsors of this bill permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. D'ORTONA. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I would like to inquire of the sponsor of this bill whether or not it is his intention in it to create two different and separate standards upon which relief will be given, one of those standards being the determination of whether or not a person is entitled to relief, and another one being the standard to determine how much he may earn in addition to the amount which he is receiving on relief?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, it is not my intention to create two different ways of giving out relief.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman please tell the House what is the intention of this bill?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, the intention of this bill is to encourage people who are relief recipients to have confidence in themselves so that they can go out and earn a decent living.

In further answer, I want to say that a person receiving $4.80 a week first class counties, if he had one day's work, he would turn it down because his relief would be discontinued for the one day's work he would have in that one week. He would then have to be re-investigated and wait for three more weeks before he could be placed on the eligible roll.

The intention of bill 1401 is to have the people who are receiving relief, if they are offered or have an opportunity of receiving one or two day's work, that they could go out and earn that money without having their relief discontinued.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman whether there is not some standard or basis upon which the sum of $4.80 per week for a single person in the city of Philadelphia is arrived at.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, that standard was fixed by the Department of Public Assistance.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, it is not the intention to interfere with that?

Mr. D'ORTONA. It is not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. But, Mr. Speaker, it is the intention of the gentleman to provide if a man earned say four dollars a week, he would still be entitled to $4.80, is that correct?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, if the Department of Public Assistance according to Bill No. 1401, would set up a helpful and decent standard of living in the separate counties.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, am I to understand the gentleman then to say that the $4.80 standard or the method of arriving at the same is not to be changed by this bill, but that there is to be set up some additional standard to measure a fair rate, and that sum would be in addition to the $4.80

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, if the man should find work, yes.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, then there really would be two standards, there would be the $4.80 for example and $6.80 standard for example?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, there would not.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, how would the gentleman determine how much in addition to the $4.80 anyone person is entitled to?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, the State Board would fix that standard.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, and that standard would not be $4.80?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, that I do not know, what standard they would think would be healthful in the separate counties.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, it is the thought of the gentleman to have that amount in excess to $4.80, is it not?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, if a man can earn it.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, then the amount would be in excess of $4.80?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, if he had the opportunity to earn it, I would say yes.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Then, Mr. Speaker, supposing a man is on relief and he is receiving $4.80 per week, and the board sets a standard of $6.80, he would then be entitled to earn two dollars and still continue to get the $4.80, is that correct?

Mr. D'ORTONA. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the Board in order to determine that situation of course would have to set the $4.80 standard and also the $6.80 standard, so that there would be two separate standards, but in addition to that suppose you have a man who is now on relief and earning nothing, and he gets $4.80 per week. The Board sets a second standard of $6.80, the man earns two dollars, he is then receiving $6.80, $4.80 from the State and two dollars from his job, he is entitled to it, is that correct?

Mr. D'ORTONA. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, suppose you have a man who is not on relief but who is earning two dollars a week and exhausts his money, he continues to earn two dollars a week, would he then be entitled to $4.80?

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, not unless he had made application and he would be eligible to be placed on the relief rolls.

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is the point I was getting to, Mr. Speaker.

The bill then creates this situation: there are two standards set up by the board, one standard upon which they will permit the person to receive relief, the second which they will consider the fair living standard which will be in excess of that amount. Then you have this situation: I am going to use figures in excess of this amount,—suppose we have a man and wife and several children, because it demonstrates the situation a little more clearly,— you have a man who we will say is receiving fifteen dollars a week on relief, and the board sets the proper living standard for him at twenty-five dollars per week; then he gets a job and he makes ten dollars a week on that job. He is receiving twenty-five dollars a week, fifteen dollars he is receiving from being on relief and ten dollars from his job.

Here is another man who did not happen to get on relief, he is earning on his job fifteen dollars a week. Under the law to-day he would not be entitled to receive anything in addition, and according to the standards set up by the bill as written he would still not be entitled to anything because he did not happen to be on relief.

So you have this situation; here is a man working on a job making fifteen dollars a week and not entitled to anything from the State, while right next door you will find his neighbor who happens to be on relief, and a week before he got the job this man was receiving twenty-five dollars a week from relief and his job together. That is going to cause havoc throughout the State, not only costing the state a tremendous additional sum of money but it is going to create a situation which would be definately unfair to all the people on relief, and create a condition whereby people side by side with exactly the same status, one will be receiving money from the state because he happens to be on relief, and the other who in the same situation would not be receiving any money from relief.

It sems to me this bill is entirely unwarranted and does not meet the problem which I think the gentleman wants to meet. I fully realize the thing the gentleman is aiming at. It is something that has given all of us a lot of serious trouble ever since we started giving relief. It is the thought that here is a man on relief, there ought to be some encouragement for him to go out and earn a dollar or two or three dollars, and he should not be punished, and he should not receive too severe a blow from relief because he is willing to go out and earn a little money. I realize that there is a situation that ought to be met, and if there is any sound way to meet it by legislation I certainly am one hundred percent for it. I know that two years ago it was a problem that we struggled with considerably and one to which we gave considerable time and thought. All of us would like to do something to meet that situation, but this bill, although it may be aimed at it, certainly is creating a far more serious, difficult and more unreasonable situation than the one which this bill aims to meet.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 1401 is offered as a step in the direction of increasing the self-respect of our unfortunate people now on the Assistance rolls by giving them a chance to enjoy better and more healthy ways of living as the result of their own efforts rather than as the result of increased grants by the State.

When the State Board of Assistance sets its "Minimum Decent Living Standard" and the person on Relief knows that he may earn the difference between that standard and the amount the States can give him before anything is taken from his Relief cheque, not only will he and his family enjoy a much better living but also, he will become interested in the matter of securing regular work of some sort that will enable him to continue his new mode of living. Once that point has been reached his self-respect and confidence will have been restored and he will be leaving the Relief rolls.

As to the argument that it will cost a great deal to check on him, there is no reason to believe that such check-up will cost any more than is now the case when some part of a Visitor's duty is to check on the eligibility of a person to continue on the Relief rolls.

The average American is only too glad to get off Relief and to again be free to spend his income as he deems best.

Under House Bill 1401 not one person will be added to the Relief rolls since eligibility for Relief is decided solely on the basis of need. Any "Standard" set by the Board will NOT be the amount the State will be obliged to give, it will only be the amount the person may have as a TOTAL income, including Relief grant, while continuing to receive such Cash grant.

It is hard to see how any person who voted for and believes in the principles covered by the work-relief plan can object to any plan such as offered under House Bill 1401 which is essentially a plan to encourage a person to seek to work for his living.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise very reluctantly to disagree with the minority floor-leader. I believe that the minority floor-leader rather misunderstood the bill as introduced. The bill does not confuse the issue, it does not raise two standards for relief. House Bill 1401 in my opinion merely gives the right to relief recipients, or the opportunity to earn as much as the State Department of Public Assistance thinks should be the standard of living in that particular community. I believe the bill is a meritorious one. I think it is a step in the right direction, because I feel that if this bill is enacted into law, it will not only curb what we have been annoyed with, which is known as chiseling, but it will give to the relief recipient encouragement and initiative to go out and earn more money. I believe that is the real intent of House Bill 1401.

The argument proposed by the minority floor-leader relative to two standards of relief, I believe, is an erroneous one, in view of the fact that he is taking two entirely different people. One person he would assume is on the relief rolls without employment, and the other person is on the relief rolls and has employment. They are two entirely different subjects and should be treated differently. I say to the membership of the House that House Bill 1401 is a meritorious bill, should be supported and deserves the vote of every Member of the House.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Levy.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEVY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the information I have in regard to this bill I received from the sponsor rather than from reading the bill. Therefore, I do not think that I can be very far wrong.

In reference to the two standards of relief I would like to have the gentleman explain to me just how he assumes that there are not two separate bases or standards that the Board is going to set up.

May I ask first whether the Board does not set up a standard upon which it is going to give the person relief?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, I would say there is a definite standard.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will not the Board also under this bill set up the amount of money which they will permit that person on relief to earn in addition to the sum he is receiving from relief?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I would say in answer to the interrogation of the gentleman from Dauphin Mr. Woodside, no, and I regret to inform the gentleman from Dauphin if he received that impression from the interrogation of the gentleman from Philadelphia, he has received the wrong impression.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me,—suppose we use an example, suppose I am on relief and I am receiving twelve dollars per week, there is a standard of the Board upon which that twelve dollars a week is arrived at, is that correct?

Mr. LEVY. That is true, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, under this bill can I go out and earn an additional sum and not have it deducted from my twelve dollars.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, under this bill, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, this bill specifically gives the state Department of Public Assistance the right to determine a fair and reasonable standard of living. In that fair and reasonable standard is assessed the money to be received, but in assessing the correct standard the Board is not granting relief, it is granting the relief recipient the right to earn up to that amount.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, up to that amount. In other words that amount would be in addition to my $12, to be specific?

Mr. LEVY. No it would not, Mr. Speaker, because at the time you would be appealing to the Board for a fair and reasonable amount you would not be in a position to obtain relief, because at that time you would be employed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman please try to help me out of my dilemma? As a party on relief receiving $12 a week I am on relief and I am not working. That standard is set by certain rules of the Board. I want a job and I get a job, and I receive $5 a week from that job. Under the law as it is today I receive $7 above relief and $5 which I have earned making a total of $12. Under this bill would I or would I not be entitled to $12 plus the $5 or any part thereof?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, I would say that my interpretation of the bill would not give the relief recipient the right to get more than $7 supplemental relief.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell wherein the bill changes the law as it is now?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the bill will change the law in this particular instance; a person receiving $12 a week from the Department of Public Assistance would then become gainfully employed, for instances he would receive a position as a laborer and receive $18 a week. As the public assistance law now is enacted in the Commonwealth, the relief recipient immediately upon receiving $18 per week would necessarily have to refund to the state the amount in excess of the amount granted to him under the act, notwithstanding the fact that under the proposed legislation that man is receiving a maximum of eighteen dollars a week, whereas he merely receives a relief grant of twelve dollars per week, and then would be permitted to receive eighteen dollars per week without any strings attached to it.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean to tell me if I am on relief and receiving fifteen dollars a week and I get a job for eighteen dollars a week that I am then compelled to pay the three dollars a week back to the relief board or the state?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, no, that is not correct. That is not my understanding.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, that is what I understood the gentleman to say this bill prevented. Do I understand the gentleman then that it is his opinion if I am on relief and getting $12 a week and I earn $5 a week, I will be entitled to $7 relief today, and I will be entitled to seven dollars a week after this bill would be enacted into law, if it were to be?

Mr. LEVY. No sir, Mr. Speaker, it is not.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, what would I be entitled to if I were on relief and getting $12 a week and then would get a job making $5 a week?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin would then be entitled to the amount of money he received from his labor, plus the difference between that amount and the amount which would be set up by the State Board of Public Assistance as a reasonable and fair standard.

Mr. WOODSIDE. That amount which would be set by the State Board of Public Assistance as a reasonable standard would be an amount which would be different than my $12 a week?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, that might be the case if the State Board of Public Assistance would so desire.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, then there would be two standards, one upon which they are paying relief and one which they consider a fair standard?

Mr. LEVY. No, Mr. Speaker, I wouldn't say there are two standards because I believe the gentleman from Dauphin is attempting to confuse two different and separate cases; one case in which a man is not employed receiving no money for his employment, and the other case where he is being employed for some nominal amount. That is the purpose of the bill in order to give encouragement to those on relief to accept any sort of employment, so that they might receive some nominal wage so as to reduce the relief costs or to reduce the relief status.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, suppose I am on relief and receiving $12 a week, that is a standard set up by the Board, does this bill not provide that some method or some standard may be set whereby I may earn some money but still receive the $12 a week?

Mr. LEVY. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. How much, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the bill confers upon the State Department of Public Assistance the right to set those standards.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, that standard is going to be something in excess of $12 a week?

Mr. LEVY. That is true, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Then, Mr. Speaker, you would have one standard of $12 and another standard in excess of $12?

Mr. LEVY. Yes, Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, are we going to have two standards?

Mr. LEVY. I am in agreement with the gentleman from Dauphin in regard to his deductions in certain cases but I refuse to be confused on this one issue. The two cases which the gentleman proposes are two separate and distinct cases.

Mr. WOODSIDE. No, Mr. Speaker, I am talking about myself, and the standards for myself as a recipient.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin is talking about himself but in two separate and distinct cases. First he talks about himself as an unemployed person and then he is talking about himself as being partially employed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think that we have definitely established something which seems to me was evident in the first place and did not have had to be established.

The Board under this method would have to establish two separate standards for two separate amounts which would be arrived at in the same case: what's in the amount of money which I as an unemployed person would be entitled to receive in my case, and secondly what amount would I be entitled to earn if I were able to go out the week after I got relief, or the month or the year after I got relief, and earn some money? That is exactly what the gentleman has finally come to and what the sponsor of the bill said to me upon the floor of the House and privately that the bill provided. That being true you must have this situation; I am on relief and I am entitled to $12 a week, I get a job. We will have to assume that the board sets some amount, let us say that they set $17, it would be some amount in excess of $12. Say I go out and earn $5 a week. If I do go out and earn five dollars a week then I am still receiving twelve dollars a week which I am entitled to on relief. In other words my income during that week is $17, $12 on relief and $5 for my employment, is that not true?

Mr. LEVY. Yes, that is true Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the point I am making is this: that being true suppose I were not on relief today, I have a little money, I have a little nest egg and a job in which I earn $5 a week. Now my nest egg is exhausted, I am still on the job and I am still earning $5 a week. Under the law of today I could go in and apply for relief and receive $7. In other words, I could then receive a supplemental grant, as they call it, to bring my amount up to $12 per week. But if the sponsor of the bill has properly stated upon the floor of the House, I not being on relief could not come in under this bill if enacted into law, and collect the $12 a week. My neighbor who happened to be on relief before he got the $5 would be getting $12 a week from relief and $5 for his job or $17 a week, and I next door because I did not happen to be on relief would get only $5 plus $7 to which I would be entitled, or a total of $12. There are two people side by side earning the same amount in exactly the same status, one of them entitled to $12 a week and the other one entitled to $17 a week. That is what the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. D'Ortona, the sponsor of this bill, said was the effect of it.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I do not know for what purpose the gentleman from Dauphin is attempting to confuse the issue, because I think the bill is very clear and I believe the gentleman from Dauphin thinks the bill is very clear. If he feels that the bill raises a question as to the difference between one family on relief and a family on relief with probably some employment, then I say to him there is very little difference, if it should exist, in regard to the entire problem.

The gentleman from Dauphin knows, and every Member of the House who is interested in the subject of relief knows, that every county board of public assistance with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has since the inception of this present session tendered Members of the House, to the Governor and to the State Board of Public Assistance, resolutions calling for an increased standard in the Department of Public Assistance. The Governor probably in his wisdom, feeling that he cannot appropriate, or cannot request an appropriation large enough to care for relief needs in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, has, and I say this in all seriousness, straddled the issue. The Republican membership if they follow the dictates of the Governor, will also straddle the issue in their opposition to this bill.

This bill is very clear. The intention is, once and for all to give to the relief recipient the encouragement and the initiative to go out and make a nominal wage in some industry or some particular place of employment. If in the passage of this act, and if in the administration of this amendment, some people may be taken advantage of, as the gentleman from Dauphin points out, I believe this bill if it takes care of the vast majority it is intended to take care of it has done a fair job. I would say to the gentleman from Dauphin if a family, as he illustrates, has been on relief, and one particular member of that family receives a bit of employment, netting $5 a week, then I think it is the duty of this Legislature to encourage that employment rather than discourage it.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, of course the gentleman from Dauphin puts up a hypothetical case, supposing he is on relief. That may be more real than fiction for some of us. If the Legislature stays in session much longer a whole lot of us will be on relief. Nevertheless, this bill seeks to set up a reasonable, decent standard of living for the people on relief; it seeks to encourage the people to go out and earn a decent standard of living, supplemented by what the relief board is able to give according to its budget.

If some person in private employment is not receiving a decent wage then it is up to us to try to legislate a minimum wage or in some way to take care of that situation. We cannot dictate to private employers as to what they must pay. It is a fact that many private employers are not paying a decent wage to their employees, but that cannot be the subject of this present bill. The present bill seeks to aid persons on relief to gain a decent standard of wage. Of course we cannot go into all the particulars, that is up to the Department of Public Assistance. Whether private employment gives a decent wage or not is not the subject of the present bill. The present bill is setting up a decent standard for persons on relief, and whether or not a person in private employment gets a decent wage is not the subject of this bill. I think we ought to support this bill and let the people on relief, and even let the private employers, know that the state of Pennsylvania does recognize a decent standard of living, set that standard and seek to encourage the person on relief to attain that standard.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, as you know it was my Committee on Welfare from which this bill came. I am quite in accord with Mr. Woodside's statement that for a long time he and most of the leaders, not only during this session but during the last session, the 1937 session, felt very deeply concerned at the plight of those people for whom the state is doing its utmost in the matter of grants. But those grants were inadequate according to the best standards of living. I am very sorry that the debate has taken any turn on the political side. I can assure you that the bill has not been considered as a political bill.

Most of you who have served with me for several years know I have at all times felt that our system of granting relief, of granting assistance, has really pauperized the people whom it was intended to help. We certainly never at any time intended to encourage any person to sit down and wait for the postman to come with the check, rather than go out and try to earn a living for himself, or herself, as the case may be.

For a long time the State Board of Assistance, both the present one and the former one, has complained that under the amounts set up by the state it was absolutely impossible for them to live decently and in the proper way.

In Pittsburgh, for instance a single man on relief getting four dollars and forty cents per week, if he goes down street and he rubs off some man's car he gets fifty cents for it, if he goes and rubs off my car I would give him fifty cents and so on. If he reports the sums which he makes, and which incidentally he is supposed to report, not only are those sums taken off his relief check but they go on the suspicion that even then he didn't tell the truth, so they will wipe him off the rolls entirely and let him start all over again.

This bill is designed primarily to do away with that kind of thing and make that man an honest man again. I know the bill is not perfect, and I know that no bill that ever went through this House was perfect, and no panacea for all troubles, but certainly there is no price too much to pay that will insure that a man or women now on relief will regain his or her self respect and the desire to go out and work.

I can assure you that every Member of my Committee has talked this bill over after it was introduced. It came out of Committee only after serious consideration and it came out incidentally without one adverse vote. I certainly believe that the organizations throughout the state who were so anxious to have the standard of living raised will be in favor of any step such as this, which is considered to be a step in the right direction.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that there is hardly anybody in the state of Pennsylvania who without financial return gives more time and more effort and spends more of his own money on studying and investigating problems of relief in Pennsylvania than the Chairman of the Welfare Committee. I have a great deal of respect for him. I have a great deal of respect for the efforts he is putting forth and I have a great deal of respect for the knowledge he has concerning relief, but I do think this particular bill, although it is aiming at something we all admit to be a problem, is attempting to solve that problem, which we all admit and realize exists, by going about it in the wrong way.

Let me give you one more example how this bill would operate in an unjust manner. Suppose you had a man who was entitled to $15 a week as a standard of relief, and on the over all standard he would be entitled to earn ten additional dollars, or $25. You may have another man next door who is working hard and earning $15 a week all the time and is not eligible to go on relief at all. He continues to earn just $15 a week, while the man who is on relief at $15 a week gets a job, part time or otherwise, and earns $10 making his income $25 a week. The man next door continues to struggle working for $15 a week. Those are the situations which this bill creates and because it does create those situations it is not fair and will not solve the problem which we all admit does exist.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, we have listened to arguments pro and con about people receiving relief of $15 a week and $12 a week. I wish to bring out an example: here is a family of five receiving $11.80 a week on relief. One of the little girls receives a job which pays $13 a week. This family pays $25 a month from the salary of $13 with ninety cents deducted for car-fare, the county relief board or the State Board of Assistance allows her twenty cents for lunch, which would mean $1.20 per week. Then they allow twenty-five per cent of her earnings which would be $3.45 for her stockings and her shoes and for whatever else she needs or a total of $5.35. The amount of $5.65 will be deducted from the $11.80. There is a sum of $6 per week for rent, and I am wondering whether any Members of this House or any citizen that is on relief, would believe that a family of five, who would have to dress more decently to go to work than a person sitting down in a house, could be fed properly with $5 a week for five people. Therefore, I say, Mr. Speaker, this bill is very important, and I ask the support of every Member of this House upon the statement I made here tonight.

Mr. ECKELS. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe this bill has any political implications and I agree with the things that have been said by the proponents of this bill. I heartily agree with the Chairman of the Welfare Committee in his aims and purposes. I know that these people are all conscientiously for this bill, believing that it will increase or raise the standard of living.

However, I think I see an evil in this bill that will lower the standard of living and will depress wages, and I would like to hear an answer to it. I would like to ask a hypothetical question. Consider that I am on relief getting $12 a week from the State, and I would like to have $18 a week. The Department of Public Assistance establishes the fair standard of living to be $18 a week. That means that I can go out and earn six dollars more, and I can have $18 a week. That means that I would be willing to go out and take a job for six dollars a week at which somebody else has been earning $18 a week. In other words, I would replace an $18 a week man for six dollars a week. Labor has always opposed the competition with prison made articles which is also on the basis of depressing wages. I would like to know the fundamental and logical difference, and I would like to know the practical difference, between this bill which will permit a man to go out for six dollars a week and work at a $15 or $18 a week job, and the prison contract which will prevent a man who is getting his keep from the State in prison, from making goods and putting them out in competition with the American laborer who has to earn his living. This would depress wages; it would decrease the standard of living instead of raising it.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I am very reluctant to spoil the calm and tranquillity of the Chairman of the Welfare Committee who desires to see the bill pass the House with the greatest of ease, but I do not have much regard for the roses being thrown from one end of the House to the other. I say to the minority floor leader, and I say to him in all seriousness, that he knows and every Member of this House that sat in the 1939 session knows, that if it was Republican policy to increase the standard of living in relief grants they had the opportunity to do it. They know that in 1939 General Welfare Bill amendments were introduced increasing the standards of the Department of Public Assistance, and they continuously voted them down on this very floor.

I say to the gentleman from Dauphin if he were trying to raise the standards of relief then he would vote for this measure. If he were crying for a high standard of relief to alleviate the horrible plight recipients of relief find themselves in Pennsylvania today, he would have accepted the amendments made in 1939 to the General Welfare Bill. I recall very distinctly that amendments were introduced, and I think the Legislative Journal of that session will bear me out in this, by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scanlon and by myself, attempting to get the Department of Public Assistance to raise its meager standard and the entire Republican majority voted down by voice every amendment we attempted to put in on this floor. Therefore, I say to the gentleman from Dauphin shed no tears for these people because 1939 when the opportunity was presented the Republican Party failed them. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, in answer to that attempt that House Bill 1401 is now upon the floor of the House, and if we cannot give them according to the budget estimates, if we cannot give them at least a higher standard of relief, at least we can encourage those who have the courage to go out and earn a nominal wage in addition to the relief they receive.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, always reminds me of the story of the man who in making speeches always wove into them some place the statement of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death." The gentleman from Philadelphia always at some point in any debate is able to find some way of accusing the Republican Party of all the crimes in the calendar and to place upon them the onus of having defeated something which he now thinks is good.

I do not intend to prolong this debate except simply to say this: it seems to me the majority party ought to get together over there and get some team work in what they are doing. The majority leader, the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, has continuously cried on the floor of this House about the terrific deficit which the James Administration has and is going to have at the end of this biennium. He has belabored us with speeches from the time the Governor brought in his budget message, until last week I think was the last diatribe we had on that subject.

On one hand the majority leader is accusing the James Administration of creating a greater deficit and is giving the James Administration a bally-hoo for having had such a deficit, and on the other hand the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, is now accusing us of keeping down the relief grants. If we had done the things he now says we should have done in 1939, we would have created a greater deficit. It seems to me you just cannot please anybody on the other side.

Mr. LEVY. In answer to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, I might say that I heard the majority floor-leader in this session talk about a ninety-two million dollar deficit, but I never heard the majority leader say that the deficit came from the heart action of the Republican Governor in giving out relief grants. The people of the Commonwealth know the condition of public assistance in Pennsylvania today. I know and the majority leader knows the condition of public assistance in Pennsylvania today, and also the minority leader.

I say again to Mr. Turner the fault was in 1939 when we introduced amendments to the general welfare bill. I do not have the Legislative Journal of 1939 at hand, but I know and everyone who sat in that session knows that amendments were offered to raise the standard of relief and they were refused. He knows in 1940 the governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was compelled after he stated in 1939 he knew all about the budget and the amount required for relief, had to call a special session to appropriate twenty-five million dollars for relief, and that he knew it in 1939 when he appropriated the small amount of money which he did. I say to the gentlemen on the other side of this House, let us face this issue honestly. If we say to the people of the Commonwealth our standards of relief are not up to par, then let us give it to them. If we say our standards of relief are just, then I say vote against this bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia seems to be no better than the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, in his argument on figures, because apparently the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, has forgotten that we had a deficit in the relief appropriation in the Earle Administration, and that in the last six months of that biennium and the first six months of the James Administration we had to appropriate money because the drawer was empty and the till was dry and we didn't have any money. I do not have the figures distinctly in mind but I think I am correct in saying that the James Administration spent more money for relief than was spent by the Earle Administration, and that perhaps is not any credit to either administrations, because, in the first place, the Governor thought the Federal Government was going to do the right thing in Pennsylvania and keep up WPA to the same extent it had during the Earle Administration. We got short changed a lot by the Federal Government during the early part of the James Administration. In the second place in the fall of 1939 we had perhaps the heaviest relief load we have ever had. So it is not a question over which any administration has any control as to the amount of money that is required for relief under the present standards and under the present conditions, but they meet the situation as it arises created by unemployment. That is away off from the things the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, is talking about. On the one side the Democrats are complaining about the deficit and they are trying to hang it on the James Administration where it does not belong. It was not the fault of that administration and had nothing to do with it. On the other hand, they say that in 1939 we ought to have set up these standards, which would have meant more money and would have created a greater deficit, and that would have been more to holler about.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, I only want to say that my quarrel is not over the special session to supplement the relief deficit, but it is in the beginning of the regular session when the problem was not attacked honestly. In 1939, Governor James was faced with the problem of appropriated morey for relief. He knew at that time that the Commonwealth was spending approximately ten to ten and a half million dollars a week, and using arithmetic with paper and pencil would have shown that the relief appropriation could not possibly last more than one year or thirteen months. Notwithstanding that argument, and notwithstanding the proof that was shown in black and white, he nevertheless stood stubborn in his figures and appropriated so much money. Not content with that when the Legislature went home, he took something like twenty-million dollars from the relief budget.

In answer to the gentleman from Delaware, I say to him that Governor Earle during his administration ran short of relief funds, but in those days we appropriated the money according to our figures, and if we felt we needed $220,000,000 for the biennium, that was the money appropriated. Unfortunately, the money was not sufficient and another special session was necessary. At least in the beginning when the budget estimates were first adopted, the budget director, along with the Members of the Assembly, and I do not recall the gentleman from Delaware, then the minority floor-leader, raising any objection to the amount of relief in 1937. He thought it was enough then, but we in 1939 on this side of the House pointed out that the James estimated budget for relief was not sufficient and it turned out not to be so.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I apologize for rising for the third time. I would just like to say this, when it comes down to estimates I remember the Members on the other side of the House weeping and wailing about the fact that the estimates of the James Budget would only carry the relief to the first of January 1940. As a matter of fact we carried it down to May of 1940, so if it is a question of who is the best guesser I think we guessed a little bit better than the other side.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Hering, Hersch, Kolankiewicz, Melchiorre, DiGenovo, Breth, Cochran, Polaski, Reynolds Shaw, Bentzel, Malloy, Gallagher, McLane, Gryskewicz, Voldow, Tate, Rosenfeld, Heatherington, Shaffer, Goodwin and others.

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I refrained from raising this point during the debate on the bill just passed, lest I offer further complications in an already confused situation.

The point I make is one I mentioned once before on the floor of the House, and is one which I have taken up privately with the Sergeant-at-Arms and with the Page boys, and that is that the bills are not being placed on the Members' desks. This bill in particular is not in my desk or the desks of other members around me. They skip from 483 to 527. I know the men who put these bills on the Members' desks have an endless job in handing out the bills but there is no reason why they cannot look at the last bill number on the Member's desk to insure that there is not a gap. This bill is not on my desk or on the desk of many of the Members here. All these bills should be on the Members' desks during the debate so that we may go over them.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Cambria for calling this important matter to the Chair's attention.

The Chair requests the Chief Clerk to take notice of the question raised by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose.

The Chair would also request Members who find bills are not in their files to please notify the Chair when the bill comes before the House, or at any other time.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Haberlen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HABERLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of gathering information so I may vote on this bill intelligently, I would like to ask the sponsor if the producers in Western Pennsylvania or in the counties of Armstrong, Jefferson, Clarion, Lawrence and Mercer, the Keystone Milk Producers Association has O.K'd this bill?

Mr. HABERLEN. They have, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GATES. I thank the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Haberlen.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of information.

The Speaker. The gentleman from Erie will state his point of information.

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, this bill, House Bill 124 was introduced as Printer's No. 149, and contained 82 pages. When it was next reported out after being recommitted on April 21st, under Printer's No. 337 it had increased its number of pages from 82 to 92. Then as reported on May 6, the bill contained 46 pages. This is an amended bill and in reading it yesterday I was at a loss in getting the last Printer's No., as now on the calendar, to know what had transpired and what had happened to the bill in committee, why it was increased from 82 to 92 pages and then finally reduced to 46. I could not tell by the bill what had been done by the committee, how it was possible.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Erie yield?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. For information of the gentleman from Erie when matter is stricken from a bill by amendment it is removed from the subsequent print entirely. There were a number of pages which the committee amended by striking them from the bill. The reprint would then show a lesser number of pages. If the gentleman will refer to the prior print he will find the matter eliminated enclosed in heavy faced brackets. Does that answer the gentleman's question?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Partly, Mr. Speaker, but it seems to me, as I recall it, that I was always able to tell on the final reading of a bill what had taken place in committee, what changes had been made, inserting brackets, the next time putting them back and so forth. I would like to inquire of the Chair whether or not those do not remain in the bill in its final form?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, and suggests the gentleman from Erie to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, who is Chairman of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think I can clarify the situation for the gentleman. Early in the session there was an agreement between the House and the Senate, that is, between the majority and minority leaders in both Houses, that we would adopt a new system of printing and if we found the system worked satisfactorily we would finally pass rules putting into effect the new system. It is aimed, of course, at expediency in reading bills and it has economy as its background. This particular bill is an excellent example of not only the ease with which you can read a bill when it comes up for final passage, but also it discloses the amount of saving in money to the State.

In this particular instance the sponsor of the bill had in mind amending certain sections of the Milk Control Act. Subsequently during the course of its history it was decided that those particular sections would not be amended. As a result of the practice of cutting out the amendments that had been inserted the sections remained as they were originally in the law. Therefore, it no longer appears in print because no change takes place in any section other than those which now appear before you and upon which you are voting. Does that help clarify the situation?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, in a measure it does. I merely wish to say to the gentleman from Monroe that while I realize there is a saving, of course, in the cost of printing, nevertheless it seems to me it is very unsatisfactory, especially in a bill of this kind to find that forty-six pages have been dropped in the few days the bill has been in committee. One naturally suspects that probably they have dropped some portions of the original bill that they may not even have been amended but dropped out in committee. That is what I am in doubt about.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, that is not correct in its entirety. The gentleman has before him the entire subject that is before the House at the present time. In other words, he knows that a basic law, that is, the law now inforced will be unchanged in the event of the passage of this bill, except as to the details now before you in the bill containing forty-five (45) pages. He also knows at the same time that it has been contemplated by the sponsors or someone else in this bill to change certain sections in the original bill, but that thought has been dropped, so that he knows and every Member of the House will know that the only changes to the present milk control act are those that are set forth in this particular bill. No other sections are affected by the contemplated legislation.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Haberlen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HABERLEN. Mr. Speaker, due to the fact that I am just an ordinary farmer and not an attorney, I yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, explain lines 16 to 29 inclusive on page 12.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I hope I have not gone out into deep water by assuring the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Haberlen, that I would try to explain this particular section of the bill which has been inserted as an amendment.

For the benefit of the Members, I think it would be wise to read this amendment and for us to be certain that the amendment is proper, or else the whole bill may be invalidated. I quote the section concerning which the question has been asked. Begining on page 12, line 16:

> "No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing any books and records at any hearing before the commission a commissioner or any special agent or examiner designated by the commission when ordered to do so upon the ground that the testimony or evidence books or records required may tend to incriminate him or subject him to penalty or forfeiture but no person shall be prosecuted, punished or subjected to any forfeiture or penalty for or on account of any act transaction matter or thing concerning which he shall have been compelled under objection to testify or produce documentary evidence. Provided that no person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution or punishment for any perjury committed by him in his testimony."

I presume the gentleman has reference to the constitutionality of this particular section. If the gentleman has that in mind, I would be very happy to give him a cursory examination of the records so that we may ascertain whether or not such a provision is constitutional. If the gentleman asks the interrogation on the effect that this amendment will have on the bill, I do not think I am qualified to answer that. I can only answer the question as to the constitutionality of the bill. I should like to ask him whether or not he wishes the question of the constitutionality of the amendment discussed.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, what I am primarily interested in knowing is whether or not if this provision is permitted to remain in the bill, it will be possible for the attorneys of milk companies to go into court and have an injunction issued against any orders that might be in effect and thereby spoil the affectiveness of the act.

I might explain that in every instance in the last eight years in laws of this kind, the attorneys for the milk companies have found something in the act that permitted them to go into court and have an injuncion issued and hold up the effectiveness of the act, so that they were able to operate outside of the act. We, in York County have had the experience of going along with the consignment purchase plan during the past two years which we have had to contend with. What I would like to know is whether or not at this time it would be possible for the attorneys to jump in and use this new provision in order to spoil the effectiveness of the act.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I might say to the gentleman from York, Mr. Moul, that this is a new provision in this act but not new in law. This provision has been used rather extensively by the Federal Government. I call the gentleman's attention to the Federal anti-trust laws, 1938 statutes, 723, and the Interstate Commerce Act 1927 statute laws, 443, where similar provisions are made as to what we call self incriminating statutes. I believe it is a valid exercise of the power of this legislature to pass such a statute. These statutes have helped tremendously in the prosecution of cases, particularly in the Federal courts and I believe they will likewise be of benefit if used in the same connection in this act. I might say to the gentleman it seems to me that the statute is entirely constitutional. The question has been raised several times in this state and is now a part of our public utility code as found in the act of May 28, P. L. 1053—1937, Art. X, Sec. 1012.

I should like to read a part of the decision in Dole versus Philadelphia, 337 Pa. 385, which was the case regarding the constitutionality of an ordinance of the city of Philadelphia imposing a tax for general revenue purposes on salaries and wages.

> "It is also urged that the ordinance is invalid because it requires the production of books for examination without granting immunity to the taxpayer who produces them.'1'

The language "without granting immunity" is significant in that it is reasonable to assume that where immunity is granted, as is the case with the present amendment, the constitutionality of such a statute would not be doubted.

We also find a reference to the question in Kelly's Contested Election reported in 200 Pa. 430, wherein, Art. VIII,

Sec. 10 of the State Constitution was attacked and the court has this to say on the subject:

"In trials of contested elections and in proceedings for the investigation of elections, no person shall be permitted to withold his testimony upon the ground that he might incriminate himself or subject him to public infamy, but such testimony shall not afterwards be used against him in any judicial proceedings except for perjury in giving such testimony.

"The argument that section 10 is fatally repugnant to section 9 of the Bill of Rights and that the latter must prevail is without force; assuming that witness' answer would disclse the fact that he used money to purchase the votes of certain electors, his answer could not be used against him in any legal proceeding, therefore he would be subject to no penalty or fine involving deprivation of liberty or forfeiture of land or goods."

There is only one query that might be raised in this particular section of the act, and that is whether it would inure to the benefit of the agents. I have made some examination of the federal acts in the short time at my disposal and I find no case where agents can compel a witness to testify on self-incriminating facts. However, it seems to me if the agent, as used in this act we are now discussing, is to hold a hearing and have the authority from the Commission to go out and conduct a proper investigation the agent would be entitled to use the provisions of this act. As long as immunity is granted, and as long as a man shall not be subject to any penalty, I do not believe the Amendment violates section 9 of the Bill of Rights of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, or that it violates the 14th amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which prohibits the states from making or enforcing any laws which abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, in the opinion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, is there any possibility of using this portion of the act to hold up the process of the act as has been done in numerous cases and numerous occasions such as in the consignment purchase plan under the present act?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, that is such an indefinite question that I think it could not be answered categorically. Any provision of the act is subject to court procedure and this provision or any other provision would be subject to the regular and orderly processes of court procedure. I do not think this provision in itself will create any more difficulty than any of the other provisions so far as relates to the proper enforcement of this act. It is a question of relatively, and I do not think anybody in this House or any place else can answer the question categorically.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny be willing to give us reasonable assurance that this would not provide a loophole that would be larger than we might expect from any other portion of the bill?

Mr. BROWN. That again, Mr. Speaker, is just a question of relativity. Any laws we pass are subject to every procedural defect or benefit as the case might be of the whole law of procedure. I cannot see why this provision would either enhance or decrease the obvious methods of court procedure, and the gauntlet that this bill necessarily will have to run through the courts of the land. However, I can say this, I can see nothing in this particular section that would either expedite the purpose of the act or defeat it. I think the whole question is one of relativity.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Said petition shall request a recount of the votes for all offices or for one or more offices if all be not in question. (d) If upon opening any such ballot box it shall appear that fraud or substantial error was committed in the computation of the votes cast [on the ballots contained therein] for the office or offices for which the vote was recounted or fraud in the marking of the said ballots [contained therein] or otherwise in connection with such ballots it shall be the duty of the court to certify such fact to the prothonotary and thereupon the prothonotary shall return to the petitioners the said sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars or if the petitioners shall have filed a bond in lieu of cash to mark said bond canceled and notify the petitioners that he has done so.

(e) If upon opening any ballot box under the provisions of this section it shall not appear that fraud or substantial error was committed in the computation of the votes cast on the ballots contained therein or fraud in the marking of the ballots contained therein or otherwise in connection with such ballots the persons upon whose petition such ballot box shall have been opened shall forfeit to the county the sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars. If said petitioners shall have deposited the said sum in cash with the prothonotary at the time of filing the petition the prothonotary upon certification of the court that fraud or substantial error was not discovered shall pay said sum deposited with him to the county treasurer and if the petitioners shall have filed with their petition a bond in the sum of one hundred ($100.00) dollars it shall be the duty of the county treasurer forthwith to collect from the principals or surety on said bond the sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars and costs of suit and for this purpose he is hereby authorized to institute any necessary legal proceedings. When so collected the said sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars shall be paid over to the county treasurer.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. GERARD offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, May 12, 1941.

The attainment of the age of 75 years is an occasion always worthy of note. The leading citizen of the borough of Mount Oliver in Allegheny County, Charles J. Moye, celebrates today, the three-quarter century mark of an unusually active and useful career.

Mr. Moye was born in Lower Saint Clair Township, from which he was later instrumental in creating the borough of Mount Oliver, where he served for eighteen years as councilman, followed by two terms as burgess.

After a preliminary education in the common schools of the township and at Jefferson College, Mr. Moye went to work at Brice's Glass House, and later, at the age of 23, entered the tobacco business as the head of the firm of Charles J. Moye Company, in which capacity he still serves. He was also one of the organizers and a director of St. Clair Savings and Trust Company, and a director in the Iron Glass Dollar Savings Bank of South Side, Pittsburgh.

In 1893, Mr. Moye was married to Miss Lillian C. Cready, a daughter of one of the pioneer families of South Side, Pittsburgh. The union was blessed with one child, a daughter, Louise, now assisting her father in his tobacco and cigar business.

The most trying time of his life was spent during the World War when he served in connection with every activity to benefit the service men, particularly in seeing off the many young men who might never return.

Mr. Moye has always been particularly active and interested in fraternal and beneficial organizations, a member of the Mount Oliver Fire Department, a Mason for over 50 years, an honorary life member of the Loyal Order of Moose, and most active of all as an Elk, into which order he was first initiated as a member of Pittsburgh Lodge No 11, and thereupon, in 1910, became one of the organizers and charter members of Knoxville Lodge No. 1196, was elected Exalted Ruler of the latter Lodge in 1911, and made an honorary life member three years later.

Therefore be it Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby extend its heartiest congratulations to this venerable lodge man, banker and manufacturer, and commend the activities of his long and useful life; and that a certified copy of this resolution be delivered to Mr. Charles J. Moye with the best wishes of this House for many more happy, prosperous and useful years.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1941. No. 52,

SENATE

TUESDAY, May 13, 1941.

The Senate met at 3:30 o'clock, p. m., E. S. T.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain, the prayer was offered by the gentleman from Butler, Senator CARR.

Our Father and our God, we realize that our lives are in Thy hands and Thou wilt eventually work out Thine eternal purpose for us, but we do know too, our Father, that Thou hast committed unto us the keeping of this life; we know that we can hinder Thy work or that we can advance it. We would ask that Thy spirit might brood over us as Thy children for the accomplishment of Thy will in each one of our lives as individuals in our labors together as men and as governments on this earth, that all things may work together for good and for the sake of Thy Kingdom. We ask it in Thy name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SNOWDEN and Mr. COLEMAN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, every year during the legislative session the Senate has always appropriately observed the anniversary of the birth of great Americans, occurring during the Legislative Session. In the present Session we observed with a fitting program, the anniversary of the birth of George Washington and of Abraham Lincoln. Are we going to fail to take cognizance of the day set aside in commemoration of the memory of those who went down into the very jaws of death to snatch therfrom these new lives?

Mr. President, for more than nineteen hundred years mankind has had three unfailing sources of inspiration to heroic deeds of great achievements and sublime accomplishments, the three words that represent the ever-flowing fountains of inspiration, have charmed the ears, brightened the hopes and thrilled the hearts of all the children of men. They have incited the genius which has produced the most exquisite pictures ever painted, the most melodious songs ever sung, the most beautiful poems ever written, songs, poems and pictures that have given us joy for our sorrows and smiles for our tears.

These three magic words, Mr. President, are, "Jesus, Home and Mother." The first of them impelled Charles Wesley to write the beautiful poem, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul"; the second of them prompted John Howard Payne to write a poem that will live as long as the enduring hills; Millions of weary wanderers, on foreign strands, have been transported in imagination back to the scenes of their childhood, back to the picturesque paths of their infancy by that beautiful poem,

"'Mid Pleasures and Palaces though ere we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home."

On Sunday, Mr. President, the people of America fittingly observed Mother's Day throughout this nation. The American flag was flown over many public buildings and there the old emblem was never flown in a more sacred caused than over the tender, gentle army in America, the mothers of this land.

Some poet stated it beautifully in these lines:

"The greatest battle that was ever fought?
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the map of the earth you will find it not;
It was fought by the Mothers of men."

Sunday we venerated the sacred name and observed the memory of mother and in imagination, with bowed heads, grateful hearts and generous hands, we laid a new wreath of the freshest, the fairest and the most fragrant flowers in all the land upon the mothers who have gone from the fruitful land of the living to the silent land of the dead. In this hour of sober and serious reflection the members of the Senate, yes everyone who treads the Globe, appreciates and realize that they owe their very existence to the unspeakable agony of a mother. It was mother's arms that first lulled the baby to sleep and mother in the twilight hour of baby's existence breathed into his ear a fervent prayer and then as the months grew into the years, or rather the days grew into months, and the months lengthened into years, mother's life became one round of solicitude and service for her child. Mother made the first dress baby ever wore and mother's deft fingers made the playthings that brought pride and joy and sunshine into the hearts of all the children of men; the bruise—on baby's foot and the splinter in baby's toe became such inflictions of such great consequence that only mother's care could banish its ache and only mother's attention could soothe its pain.

And then a little later on, Mr. President, mother, lacking a universal and encyclopedia of knowledge, informed her baby of the birds and the beasts and the flowers and the trees; she explained as best she could the grandeur of the sky and of the far off Milky Way and then on our bended knees we learned to say in the lisping accents of childhood:

"Now I lay me down to sleep.
I pray the Lord my soul to keep.
If I should die before I wake
I pray the Lord my soul to take.
And this I ask for Jesus' sake."

And so, onward through life mothers go making the great sacrifice in behalf of their children and, Mr. President, I think my own mother is the greatest creature God ever created. Six years beyond the Biblical three score and ten, I shall never forget in the 1939 Session how my mother walked into this Senate Chamber on a Saturday night, and the older members will remember this well, on the Saturday night when we had the Kane Coal Control Bill up for discussion, I had been away from home for a period of two weeks, the longest time in my thirty-eight years of existence I had been away from my mother, and she walked into this Senate Chamber at eight o'clock on that particular night, just a half hour before we debated the bill, and I could not help but observe the pride that was in her heart and the indescribable joy that was hers as I played some little part in leading the fight against the enactment of that particular bill, and so I am glad, Mr. President, that the members of the Senate have given me just a little bit of time to pay tribute to all the mothers of men throughout the world.

Let us continually exhalt her name, let us continually exhalt and extol the spirit of self sacrifice of all the living mothers and let us too not forget the mothers who have gone from the land of the living; let us beseech our Eternal Father to bless them and shower His richest blessings upon them forever and forever.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask permission to make a brief statement.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the gentleman from Montgomery may proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I regret very much my statement does not follow along, as it might well do, the eloquent words of the Senator from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, with whom I am in full agreement, but I want to discuss rather a prosaic question, namely, the finances of the State of Pennsylvania.

I am reading from the Legislative Journal of the Senate of April 28, 1941, when it was stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, whom I regret is not in his place at the present time, as follows:

"Mr. President, the information I have at the present time—which is not accurate and not assured—put it that way, because of the fact that there have been some returns that have been late in coming in—indicates that there will be as much as a sixty per cent increase in the corporate returns for the year 1940 over the year of 1939. If that is so, the $5,000,000 estimated increase in the net corporate income taxes for two years which the Governor made in his budget is wholly inadequate and certainly below what will be received. If that average of sixty per cent is realized there is a likelihood of a $25,000,000 increase and if there is such an increase in the amount of corporate net income taxes, the present existing taxes can be reduced or certainly much needed governmental functions performed."

Mr. President, I heard the Senator when he made that statement but I did not hear him accurately and I was in doubt as to what his statement was, and consequently I did not reply until I have gotten this copy of the Journal. I am bound to say in my judgment the statement itself is wholly inaccurate and should be revised by those who are thinking about State finances.

The corporate net income tax was adopted as an emergency tax in 1935. It was suggested to Governor Earle by the Committee on Taxation of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, of which at that time I had the privilege of being Chairman; we suggested to him that a rate of six per cent should be established. It was passed at six per cent for one year, raised the next year to ten per cent and then the next year was reduced to seven per cent, where it is now. That is a high rate, out of line with other corporate income taxes imposed by the various states and this is what it has produced:

In the biennium of 1935-1937, when there were two rates, $42,800,000; in the biennium of 1937-1939, $44,000,000 actual and estimated in the biennium of 1939-1941, in which we now are, $51,700,000; estimated by the Governor for the next biennium, $61,300,000; or an increase of ten million dollars or five million dollars per year.

Now, Mr. President, I want to call attention to the gentlemen of the Senate to the way in which this corporate net income tax applies. When the act itself was framed by this General Assembly it was provided that there should be a deduction from the net income of the amount of the Federal Corporation taxes and the result is that the tax base for state taxes depends absolutely upon what the federal tax may be upon those corporations and that, by the way, is not peculiar to Pennsylvania—practically all states that have corporate net income taxes have the same general provision.

Now, Mr. President, we know very well the Federal Government is getting ready to revise its corporate taxes. The Treasury Department has called for taxes yielding three billion six hundred million dollars and the President has endorsed that call.

The suggestion that has been made by the Treasury Department involves an increase in taxes of thirty per cent of net income with excess profits taxes probaby up to fifty or sixty per cent, and every increase there may be in the payment of corporation taxes to the federal government decreases the base upon which our state tax is to be computed.

Under those circumstances I feel very strongly that when the Governor estimated five million dollars per year as the increase in revenue, the Governor went to the limit of what common sense would indicate is feasible for this Commonwealth.

Of course, when you are dealing with futures it is always possible when you are prophesying, anyone of a half a dozen things may happen; nobody can tell what the future will bring.

Therefore, Mr. President, in considering all the points involved in this procedure, it seems to me to be clear that an estimated return of $61,000,000 from the corporate net income tax for two years, in the light of taxation that is going to happen down in Washington, is as much as a prudent and reasonable man could make.

Consequently, Mr. President, I am of the opinion it would be very foolish if any members of the Senate believe this $25,000,000, which I understand to be $25,000,000 more per year, has in reality any substance.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I should like to state first of all, Mr. President, in answer to the statement of the gentleman from Montgomery, Senator Edmonds, that the figure which I gave should have been a fifty per cent increase and not sixty per cent, because when I was using the figure I had in mind the report of the Federal Government, which is available, that the income tax return for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by its corporations has increased from $70,000,000 in 1939 to $102,000,000 in 1940.

I had in mind also the estimate that the national income will increase, as against the last year figure of seventy-three billions of dollars, to undoubtedly at least ninety billions of dollars this year.

I submit the Governor's figures were arbitrary and not based on any computation at all, and I suggest the figures I am considering will be based upon some facts which will give us a promise which can be safe, or at least as safe as can be whenever you deal with futures.

I contend the evidence before the Revenue Department today ought to indicate just what the position will be for the year 1940, and if our Revenue Department will be doing its duty it should present us with figures which would give us the answer without much guess work. In other words, Mr. President, no one can say because there will be almost a fifty per cent increase in corporation taxes payable to the United States Government, that our increase will be accordingly, because as I know and as was pointed out by the gentleman from Montgomery, our taxes are paid by corporations after the deduction of federal taxes and the higher the federal taxes, the more will be affected the return to the State Government but if the state government will do this—about which I have been trying to get information and which I have been trying to get for the last two months—if they will take the corporate returns on income—not taxes, but on income for the year 1939, of corporations in Pennsylvania, and they will take the federal tax for the same period and deduct the one from the other, they will get the base of the tax for the year 1939 and if they will do the same thing in 1940—they now have the returns—if they will take those returns and estimate the total amount of the returns for 1940 by Pennsylvania corporations, that is, the net income, and they will deduct $102,000,000 of taxes which will be paid to the Federal Government, it will then give them the amount of net income on which the tax can be based in Pennsylvania.

I see the gentleman from Montgomery shaking his head. I will repeat and I think if he will follow me he will agree I am right. In order to determine how much more net taxable income we will have in Pennsylvania and on which corporations will pay a seven per cent net corporate income tax, all we need do is to take the two factors for both years, namely, the gross income of corporations before taxes to the government for the years 1939 and 1940, and deduct the government tax for each year from the gross income of each year, and in that way we will get a fairly safe comparison or a safe basis for figuring seven per cent on that and what the income will be.

Now, Mr. President, the state Department has had in its possession since the fifteenth of March—I think it is the fifteenth of April—when corporate net returns are made, the majority of the returns for corporations in Pennsylvania.

I think up until the present time, if the figures which have been presented to me are correct, they have received in cash about $19,000,000 and there are payments due for the month of May. Now, up to April 1, 1940, they had received $15,000,000. They have now received this year $19,000,000. In 1940, the month of May, they received $8,000,000. Now, if the proportionate increases are the same we may have some basis, but it is not a safe basis, but I submit if the gentleman from Montgomery will get the figures from the Department of Revenue, which I have not yet been able to get I think their report is that they have not compiled them—we will have a basis, and I prefer to take a basis of that kind rather than the mere guess of the Governor, or the man who gave the figures to the Governor, because I have found that the gasoline tax—take that as an example—does not in any way bear out the guess of the Governor at all.

On the basis of the increase for the past four months of this year, with the comparative months of the previous year, there is an increase of over a million and a half dollars. Multiply that by three and you have at least $4,500,000 in prospect more than the Governor has estimated. Increase in the tax for gasoline brings it up to about $31,000,000 and my figures on that basis are in accord with the figures given by the Floor Leader of the House, which is $37,000,000 plus—and if the ratio should continue, that is, if the uptrend in business and in national defense continues, the figures per month will increase more than that.

We are dealing not with a one-year period but with a two-year period and the income from taxes and other sources of revenue will increase more in the second year of the biennium than they are increasing now in the first, and I am quite sure a careful examination of this situation will prove the Governor has underestimated.

The best evidence of that is, as I said, first of all the gas tax and, secondly, the gross receipts tax.

For instance, the Governor says in the emergency tax, the gross receipts tax, there will be an increase from $10,200,000 to about $10,800,000.

Now, Mr. President, anybody who figures what the gross receipt tax is and understands it knows it bears no relation to profiits but is a tax on gross receipts, as it is called.

How many men will doubt the fact that railroad transportation will increase, that general transportation will increase; how many will doubt the fact that a twenty-four hour working day will increase the utility sales of current? All those are taxable.

To say that a two per cent tax on all that income will only yield five or six hundred thousand dollars increase in two years is to shut your eyes to facts.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, in listening to the gentleman from Philadelphia give these bedside talks about the increase in revenue, reminds me of a bill we had some time ago—perhaps what I am going to say may not be exactly pertinent, but in order to avoid a special session—and I do not know whether a special session would accrue to the advantage of the Democratic Party or the Republican Party—it seems to be the opinion on both sides it will be to their advantage—but a few years ago there was a bill in the Senate which dedicated various taxes to the Governor if and when he needed this money to replenish the relief funds.

That was perfectly legal and constitutional and was a very common sense procedure, and I am merely mentioning it at this time, that we could do likewise, and arm the Governor with this potential money for any purpose that was needed.

Mr. President, we suffer somewhat in Pennsylvania from biennial sessions. In surrounding states, in new York no doubt you know they have an annual session and in New Jersey they meet every Monday night and then adjourn for about six weeks and then meet another Monday night, apparently, but in Pennsylvania we meet biennially and there is a handicap in that and I am simply throwing out the suggestion it is perfectly legal to provide the means for the Governor to use the money as he sees fit.

The most appropriate part of these remarks is that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, tried to interest me in a scheme to reduce the personal property tax from four mills to two mills and he asked me if I would be a fellow traveller, I think that is what he called it, and I said perhaps—out partnership is sometimes limited—but if he could show me I might be glad to reduce that; I am always glad to reduce the personal property tax, but you cannot determine that now, and therefore I am in favor of this argument for this statesmanlike proposition of arming the Governor with the means to produce the money as needed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to make my colleague from Germantown, Doctor Woodward, very happy by saying to him and repeating that it is my distinct purpose in trying to show and to prove that the net income has been underestimated, to reduce those taxes which I disapprove of—not for the same reason that Doctor Woodward disapproves of them—that is, I disapprove of taxes which bear no relation to profits; I do not think that a scientific method of approach and therefore I am aiming—to make the gentleman feel better—I am aiming to have the personal property tax, the emergency portion of it, reduced from four to two mills and the gross receipts, tax which in my opinion is a very high tax rate on companies which must pay it, irrespective of profits, to probably four or five per cent of the emergency tax.

In other words, that tax, in my opinion, of twenty mills or two per cent ought to be not more than ten per cent, and all I want to say is that when I present these figures, I think they should be given some consideration, you should not merely state "It is my guess and I like the Governor's guess better." I think that everyone of us is going to be guessing; I do not think there is any danger in guessing that the net corporate income tax will bring nearer $70,000,000 than $61,000,000. I do not believes there is any danger in guessing; I think I am more nearly right in guessing that if a tax which brings about $15,000,000 a year, at twenty mills, is based on a $8,500,000,000 income from gross receipts—and I do not think I am wrong in saying that railroad transportation companies and utility companies, with a continuous twenty-four hour working day, will increase their income possibly fifty per cent or at least thirty-three per cent, and in either case it will be either twelve billion seven hundred fifty million or it will be eleven billion, five or six hundred million.

In either case, on twenty mills, you will get at least $25,000,000 or you will get $22,000,000 and that is six or seven million dollars ahead of what the Governor estimates will be the income from the gross receipts tax. I am willing to state now that a careful analysis of this budget will show, as I have said, a possible increase of at least $25,000,000, and that will leave enough money to run the mental hospitals, give state aid—rather give the aid to the school districts that was promised them under the 1937 act and allow enough to give comfort to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Doctor Woodward, by a reduction in the personal property tax, and give some consideration to industry by a reduction in the gross receipts tax.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, there is so much with which I agree in what the gentleman from Philadelphia has said that I am loathe to take the time of the Senate, but I want to call attention to the fact that he admits that until the federal tax on corporations is determined he can not determine with any accuracy what Pennsylvania's share will be.

The Senator from Philadelphia speaks of his guess and of the Governor's guess. They are all guesses, as a matter of fact, but anybody that looks upon the conditions in Washington with calm judgment knows it is absolutely certain that the corporation tax will go up, and if it goes up it will decrease the net amount upon which we base our taxes in Pennsylvania.

I think the Senator from Philadelphia is right in expecting there will be an increase in many of the taxes. I think there will be in most of them; but on the other hand he fails to consider the taxes in which there are decreases and pretty continuous decreases.

I warn the Senate to watch with a good deal of care inheritance taxes. In these days of attack upon large fortunes and other things of that kind there has been such a decrease in the tax base that the inheritance tax is no longer the security that it was once before for the states and we have got to watch that with great care, and in making up any budget it is necessary to consider taxes where there is a decrease as well as taxes in which there may be an increase.

I ask the gentleman to give that consideration.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to answer one thing more. I am not conceding, first, it is necessary to ascertain the figures from the government before we can make our returns; I do not think that is true and I have said so. I think the Revenue Department, if it wants to, can give us, the figures—I do not say that in criticism—but if they will put more men on the job we should have in a very short time, sufficient information to enable us to go ahead.

Speaking of guesses, I want to say the Governor of Pennsylvania guessed on relief for three sessions; he guessed that he would need $121,000,000 for relief, which he reduced to $119,000,000, and which turned out to cost $206,000,000.

I prefer my method of guessing; I prefer to guess on the basis of reduced taxes on incomes which are evidently increasing by the very information and figures we are getting today, and I think there is very much less danger in my method than there was in the Governor's method of guessing on $120,000,000 for relief and afterwards spending two hundred odd millions of dollars.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I am glad to learn from this discussion the Senators are beginning to see the hardship imposed upon the thrifty by this four mills personal property tax.

In 1939, I raised my voice against this iniquitous tax, claiming at the time that it was a tax on the thrifty. I have not changed my mind in that respect. I would like to see that additional four mills personal property tax repealed at this session.

I have in my desk a list of all the counties and the amounts of personal property taxes each county has contributed, and in analyzing this list you will find that a thrifty county like Lancaster pays an enormous personal property tax while at the same time there are, comparatively speaking, very few people on relief in Lancaster County. It has always seemed to me to be unfair to tax the thrifty people of one county in order to supply relief funds for a lot of people in another county. If you are going to continue the tax on thrifty people you are going to hasten the destruction of our free form of government. Now, on the other hand, here is an industry that has been taxed not at all in Pennsylvania and that is the amusement industry. The amusement field has been left untouched. People who pay money into that field are paying money for something that is not a necessity. It is an amusement tax, it is a pleasure tax, and yet if you will analyze that industry and see the huge profits that come therefrom it will amaze you, I am sure, and I could never understand why in Pennsylvania we leave that fertile field untouched and at the same time we lay a heavy burden upon the thrifty of Pennsylvania.

Just last week I cut from one of our Pittsburgh papers some information along that line I know the Senate would like to hear. While these thrifty farmers from Lancaster County, or Montgomery, or Chester County, that have laid aside a little money and perhaps have it invested in a little mortgage or in a share of stock or some other small investment are paying a personal property tax on those investments, this other field is paying out immense salaries to people who perhaps are not paying their just share of taxes.

Here is a headline "L. B. Mayer's Salary Tops for Third Year", his 1940 pay was $697,408; and then, going on down through that list I notice the name of Nicholas M. Schenk—who perhaps a great many people know of or heard of recently, President of Loew's Incorporated, whose income was $318,881; and then going on further down that list we see the name of W. C. Fields, actor, at $255,000; and then go right on down through the intricate list and see the vast profit coming from that industry, and Pennsylvania leaves that field untouched while it continues to collect from the thrifty and I say, Mr. President, at this time I am glad to note that Senators on both sides of this body are getting to see the iniquity and the inequality of this personal property tax and I hope at this session that this additional four mills tax will be taken off the backs of the thrifty of Pennsylvania.

And said bill having been read at length the third time

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, my remarks on this bill will be very brief. I think everyone in the Senate knows this bill from A to Z by this time. I am going to ask my colleagues to vote against the bill, even though my name is on it, and I wish to remind the newspapers from the City of Pittsburgh what I have said about the voters has been borne out in the amendments to this bill.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I deeply appreciate the situation as just described by my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Barr, and I want to say very frankly to the Senate I am not including the newspapers in my remarks, because they pay no attention to what we say here on the floor of the Senate, but I want to say there is an honest difference of opinion and a division of opinion exercised by the cosponsor of this bill and in all fairness to my very learned colleague from Allegheny, Senator Barr, he may be entirely right in the position which he has taken; time alone will tell.

I have a deep respect for his opinion and I say to the members of the Senate his opinion is entitled to your very careful consideration and your very careful inspection.

It seems peculiar to me that inadvertently the question of politics might be raised merely because for the moment the present incumbent in the office of chief executive of the Commonwealth comes from the Republican Party. If the county commissioners of Allegheny County and the chief executive of the Commonwealth all came from the same political party the question of politics would not be raised in this instance. It is unfortunate also, and purely coincidental, that Senator Barr, who represents the Democratic Party, is advocating the appointments to these positions by the Democratically controlled Board of County Commissioners and Senator Walker who is a Republican, interalia a Royal Oaker, is advocating appointments to these positions by the chief executive of the Commonwealth, who is a Republican and not a Royal Oaker.

The positions taken by Barr and Walker do not spring from politics because both of us are too young in public life to understand politics or to have any political opinion.

We are merely trying to consolidate the two boards in Allegheny County and eliminate over lapping in a governmental function. Personally, Mr. President, I think the bill should be passed. Senator Barr has been advised, as well as I have been advised, by people who are older and wiser in political maneuvering and strategy, there will come the dawn of a day in the House of Representatives, which by a mere coincidence is also controlled by the Democratic Party, when the amendments which I placed in the bill will, like the Arabs, fold their tents during the night and silently steal away, and one of these bright days we will have this back in the Senate with the county commissioners making the appointments and then is the time when the real serious discussion of this bill will take place.

Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this bill because in spite of the fact, according to Senator Barr it may limp a little, it is, nevertheless, a step in the right direction.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, may I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as I understand it, the bill in its present condition gives the Governor the right to make the appointments.

Mr. WALKER. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Does he not have that right now, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. No, Mr. President. May I explain to the gentleman from Westmoreland that the two boards are to be consolidated, the County Registration Board and the City Registration Board, and the Governor at the present time has the right to appoint the City Registration Board and in the consolidation of thesetwo boards the question arises as to who should make the appointments, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County or the chief executive of the Commonwealth, and that is where the sponsors are going one to the north and one to the south on the bill.

Mr. DENT. I thank the gentleman. That is highly understandable.

Mr. WALKER. It is merely a conincidence, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. It is perfectly proper for the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, to want the commissioners to make those appointments and it is perfectly proper for the other gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, to want the Governor to make the appointments.

I think, perhaps, those of us who do not come from Pittsburgh, and not being politicians, would not understand what you are trying to do but possibly some of the older men who know more about politics here could probably read right through the whole darn thing and see where you are playing politics. I do not think Senator Barr is playing politics, because he sponsored the bill, and yet will not vote for it.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, there is no use quibbling over the point of whether there is politics involved in this bill or not. In order to determine the question all you need to do is to follow the course of this bill in the Senate.

When this bill was introduced it showed signs of having been written by individuals who were using some good common sense, the common sense that is so much needed in individuals these days; it was the common sense that had in view the best interests of the people of Allegheny County, not only the people of the City of Pittsburgh but the people of the entire county of Allegheny.

The bill, when you analyze it, shows that the good minds that put the bill together had in view the eliminating of duplicity and overlapping of agencies. The situation was this: In the County of Allegheny there was a registration commission in the City of Pittsburgh that registered the voters of the city, and in the county commissioners' office you had another registration commission that registered the voters that lived outside of Pittsburgh city limits.

Now, Mr. President, common sense dictates that there is no necessity for such duplication in a county like Allegheny. I have heard the argument that since Philadelphia has but one registration commission, so Allegheny County where the City of Pittsburgh is situated should have one registration commission, but that argument fails to note that the City of Philadelphia is co-extensive with the County of Philadelphia. There is nothing beyond the limits of the City of Philadelphia.

Here in Allegheny County the situation is different. You take your census of 1940 and it will show that a little more than fifty per cent of the population of Allegheny County, including the City of Pittsburgh, lives outside of the boundaries of the City of Pittsburgh. The statistics will also show the vast territory that lies outside the city limits and here we have an attempt made to differentiate between the people that live in the city and the people that live in the county. One of the sponsors of the bill, Mr. Walker, says the newspapers are not interested in what we do with this bill. Now, probably Mr. Walker has not read the newspapers of his own county and city, but coming back to the precedure of this bill through the Senate the bill would wipe out that duplicity of agencies and had in view the welfare of the people and after the bill was passed upon by the committee to which the bill had been consigned and after that committee had entered into a lengthy hearing that kept us in the committee room until about one thirty in the morning, the committee rejected the very amendments that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, succeeded in in inserting in the bill on the floor of the Senate.

Now, Mr. President, the amendments change radically the purpose of the bill. The purpose of the bill originally showed some honest and decent thinking but after the amendments were put in they showed pure and simple the mind of a convincing politician and nothing else. Not only do the amendments restore the registration commission of the City of Pittsburgh but they go on further than that and take away from the rural inhabitants of Allegheny County the right which they have had up to this time enjoyed, and that is the right to pass upon with their ballots the persons who shall operate the registration system, and the people of rural Allegheny County were merely enjoying the same rights that all the citizens of the other counties of this Commonwealth were enjoying, the right to vote for the people who administer this system. The bill under these amendments takes that right away from them and reposes the right in the Governor.

Now, gentlemen, I trust you will grant that we are trying to be sincere in our arguments. I want to impress you with this point on this bill; you take the people of Germany —let us take the people of Russia first, they rebelled and they established a republic. Their purpose was to let the people determine who should lead them and after that was done individuals arose among them who had distrust of the ability of the people to select those who should govern them.

The same situation arose in Germany. The people established a republic and it was not many years until somebody arose who felt that the people could not be trusted with the right to select their own employes and the people who should manage the government.

The same situation arose in Spain. The people rebelled and overthrew their monarchy and established a democracy and it was not long until somebody arose among them who felt the people could not be trusted to select those who should rule them.

Now, members of this body, analyze this bill carefully, then take the analysis and see how well that analysis squares with our idea of home rule and Democratic Government. Somebody here apparently does not believe that the competent people of Allegheny County and the City of Pittsburgh can be trusted with the election of officials to manage their own registration. I do not say that it is the final big step to totalitarianism or dictatorship, but it is a small step in that direction, and I say that frankly, because I say that the difference between totalitarianism and our idea of democracy is that in a democracy we trust the people to use good judgment and we give them the right to select those who shall govern them, where, in a totalitarian government you have the idea of distrust of the people, the idea the mass of the people cannot be trusted with determination of their own affair, and truly when you square the analysis here with what this bill does you cannot escape the fact it takes away home rule, it takes away from the people of Allegheny County a right which they have enjoyed up to this time.

Now, Mr. President, let me read to you what a newspaper of Pittsburgh that is representative of the people of Allegheny County says about this matter.

GUMMING UP A GOOD BILL

Weeks ago Senators Joseph M. Barr, Pittsburgh Democrat, and John M. Walker, Oakmont, Republican, jointly introduced in the Legislature a bill to consolidate the Pittsburgh and Allegheny County registration offices.

Back of the bill was the very practical reasoning that the Pittsburgh Registration Commission, which serves only the voters of the city, is not responsible to anybody save in a very indefinite way. It is appointed by the Governor, usually on the recommendation of local politicians who hold no public office, and is financed out of County funds under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners.

The bill introduced by Senators Barr and Walker appeared to answer two pertinent questions: Why should the Governor appoint a board which was purely local in function? Why should there be two agencies to enroll voters when the elections are conducted on a county-wide basis by one agency?

At best, it is a ragged and sloppy way of doing business.

Fortunately, the present Registration Commission has done a thoroughly honest and efficient job. But past commissions frequently have been in hot water and two commissioners at one time were under indictment, although the charges later were quashed. Even now Gov. Arthur H. James has proposed new commissioners to the Senate.

In the interest of efficiency, economy and centralization of responsibility, the original Barr-Walker bill was good legislation.

But Senator Walker got the Senate to amend the bill so the registration of voters outside Pittsburgh would be entrusted to the Pittsburgh Registration Commission to be appointed by the Governor, although the commission still would be financed by the County Commissioners.

He said certain civic organizations and newspapers in Pittsburgh had advocated this change so the commission would be "removed from politics as far as possible."

The new amendments destroy the real purpose of the bill and, instead of eliminating politics, make the setup more complicated and more political. They also rip out the registration division in the County Elections Department, at present a highly efficient and competent agency.

Some time ago, it was proposed that the bill be amended to give the minority county commissioner the right to appoint one-third of all the employes in the consolidated registration bureau. This was a sound plan because it would have given the minority group representation, a plan in line with our whole theory of check-and-balance government. But this amendment never has been written into the bill.

As now amended, the bill is in danger of being killed. What started out to be a nonpartisan bill has become political as all get-out.

This is what the Pittsburgh Press says, truly well considered, and this bill in its present form ought to be defeated as recommended by one of its co-sponsors, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I just want to make three short answers to the statements that have been made. First, if any member of the Senate is of the opinion this bill, co-sponsored by Senator Barr and myself, percipitated the Russian Revolution, please vote against the bill.

Secondly, referring to political minds, the gentleman used the words "pure and simple," and I would like to ask that they be stricken from the record, if he is referring to my political mind.

Third, Mr. President, he brings up the question of politics and I merely would like to say this, the comments he read from the editorial of the Pittsburgh Press mentioned a Board of County Commissioners and certain indictments, and I want to make it clear to the Senate that our present Board of County Commissioners is a very efficient board and is not the board referred to in the editorial.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I should like to make some slight reference to the "unquote" of the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante. Previous to the gentleman's talk I had intended to vote for Mr. Barr because I thought he was right and I thought Mr. Walker was wrong but I have become so confused by this reference to the Russian Revolution, and by the way, the gentleman was wrong, it was not the Russian Revolution; it was the German Revolution, but I have become so confused with the German Revolution and the Russian Revolution and the civil war in Spain, I have decided now I must vote with Mr. Walker.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The years and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE INSISTS UPON ITS AMENDMENTS NON-CONCURRED IN BY THE SENATE TO SENATE BILL NO. 253

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has declined to recede from its position on Senate Bill No. 253, entitled:

An Act relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class; providing, subject to the approval of the electors, for a three-platoon system for such members, with certain exceptions; providing for an election on such question; and regulating hours of service hours of rest and annual vacations and insists upon its amendments.

Mr. GELTZ. I am informed, Mr. President, that my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, has to leave the Senate in order to get to Montgomery County, where I understand he is going to open his campaign at a banquet tonight. I understand, Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 253 has been returned from the House.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, Pop Courtney, crew coach at Cornell University, was a very famous institution up there for about forty years.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny is not speaking on the bill.

Mr. WALKER. You are going to get it in just a minute.

Mr. SHAPIRO. The gentleman is not speaking on the bill, Mr. President,

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has not heard him say anything as yet.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I might say if there are any other Cornellians here they probably will be perfectly willing to listen. Pop Courtney had a very famous expresison, "The Lord deliver us from our friends.". As my friend the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, has just stated, press of public duty calls me elsewhere.

SENATE INSISTS UPON ITS NON-CONCURRENCE IN AMENDMENTS MADE BY THE HOUSE TO SENATE BILL NO. 253

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. WALKER and Mr. GELTZ, and agreed to,

That the Senate insist upon its non-concurrence in the amendments made by the House to the foregoing bill, and suggests the appointment of a Committee of Conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (if the House should appoint such a committee) to consider the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

Ordered, That the Clerk advise the House of Representatives accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege, concerning the matter of a resolution appearing in the History of the Senate on Page 213.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I call attention to the fact that this concurrent resolution was sent to the Senate on March 25, as shown on Page 213 of the History of the Senate. It is a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee to investigate the maintenance, operation and conduct of all state hospitals in Pennsylvania.

I should like to say that my reason for rising at this time is to reiterate the feeling I have had and have expressed in this Senate on several occasions. The time has long since arrived when we should at least prepare to act as statesmen upon those subject matters on which we all agree some action must be taken, and on which we can agree upon the action that should be taken.

Mr. President, we had evidence on what can be done, if the senators want to do it, in dealing with the additional relief appropriation of fourteen and a half million dollars, the bill which came over here and was subsequently in the House threatened with a snarl in an attempt to hold up and interfere with the administration of relief, because of a misunderstanding, but in an hour's time the men sat down and that matter was solved and we proceeded to business feeling that we had accomplished something; one of the first things, I think one of the few things we have accomplished in this session that was worth while.

Now, Mr. President, there has been considerable agitation in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with respect to the management of state hospitals. The Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania said he would welcome a resolution and the only question debatable and the only subject for debate was how the investigation was to be conducted.

The House introduced a resolution which gave every assurance, as far as assurance could be given, at least, in the construction of the resolution and the make-up of the committee that an impartial and fair investigation could be made. A joint resolution was introduced giving equal representation on both sides. The Governor was in favor of it, the Senate leaders said they were in favor of it, but since March 25th, that resolution has laid in the Senate with no action.

An investigation is going on concerning one hospital. Statements have been made concerning other hospitals, and the proper functioning of these institutions is impaired because none of them know when or if they will be investigated and all of them are on edge, not knowing what is going to happen. The morale of the institutions, all of them, must be affected and yet nothing has been done.

Mr. President, for two weeks I have been busily engaged in keeping the House from its avowed purpose, because of that neglect, to pass a resolution calling for a House investigation—I am quite sure that no matter how much good they will do by that investigation, such an investigation will always be tainted with a political aspect and with the fact that it is a one sided investigation, and now I am saying that if there is any merit in the statements that are being made here regarding politics being played, I would like to call your attention to the fact that in this particular instance the fault lies with the Senate and not with the House—and need I say the Senate is controlled by the Republican Party and not by the Democratic Party?

As a result of this delay, Mr. President, there has been reported out last night on the floor of the House a House resolution which at my request was kept in committee until we could give ample opportunity to the Senate members of the Republican Party to act upon their resolution.

I have again asked that that be delayed in the House, but I suggest to the members of the Senate there will be no further delay, from what I understand, unless prompt action is taken by the Senate, one way or the other upon this resolution. It is entitled to that, and I think it is time we stop playing politics with this kind of a situation. I want to emphasize that fact and reiterate that we are taking inconsistent positions.

We have heard the gentleman from Montgomery say there will not be an increase in income; we have talked about savings in the budget. Senate Bill No. 554 is an evidence of what I have been talking about. Senate Bill No. 554 was reported out by the Republicans on April 8th. We heard on three different occasions from the Secretary of Public Assistance that the passage of that bill would mean a saving of $1,600,000 per biennium. Since April 8 that bill has been back and forth from the committee, on the floor, over in order and now back in committee again. As a result of that, this state has lost over seventy thousand dollars in moneys which they would have received from the federal government.

I ask you to either act or to accept the charge that you are playing politics.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, in discussing the statement of my fellow traveller, and here let me say that this is a limited partnership proposition, and instead of giving you my own views, I have here a letter from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, from the Governor's office, the Budget Secretary, who has given me the figures on these hospitals, there are ten of them, and the regular appropriations for about half a dozen bienniums, run along $2,600,000; $2,400,000 and $2,900,000, in 1939. Then there were deficiency appropriations of $36,000, $50,000, $30,000; then there is a $100,000 item made for 1939, but the point is that we have—I do not know, I have asked Senator Ealy but he is not sure, State aided hospitals we have something like two hundred and eighty, something like that, but these ten hospitals, so-called miners' hospitals in the coal regions, now called surgical and medical hospitals, I believe they sit back with a very great comfortable feeling that no matter how extravagant they may be, all they have to do is come to Harrisburg, and one hundred per cent of their budget is assured right here in Harrisburg. Take the case of the Scranton State Hospital as compared with the Wilkes-Barre State Hospital, they are in exactly the same category; if you find one miner in one, you will find one miner in another. Scranton State Hospital has one hundred per cent of state appropriation, and the Wilkes-Barre State Hospital has to come here and ask for aid, and that is a perfectly reasonable proposition, for these ten hospitals, not all but some of them, to become state aided hospitals.

Governor Fisher made a crusade against these hospitals, he went around and tried to get the details, and there was then a big scandal about the superintendent—there always seem to be scandals, there is one now at Shamokin I believe—at any rate the superintendent had his whole family living in the hospital and had private patients in private rooms, and he was taking money for them.

The moral of the whole thing is that the state has no business to be in the hospital business. I am not talking about mental hospitals but I am talking about these general surgical hospitals. If you had been in the Republican Caucus, as I was the other day, and heard the stories—I am not giving any secrets away, Mr. Floor Leader—if you heard all the uproar over this question, you would have come to the immediate conclusion that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should wash its hands of the hospital business, and when I say hospitals, I mean the medical and surgical hospitals.

I therefore welcome the statement of my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, and will say I will do all I can in the Republican Caucus, but up to date I have not had much luck.

The one main trouble is that somebody lost the resolution. We have a queer combination here. We have an Appropriations Committee and a Health Committee, and the chairman of the Appropriations Committee on Monday, is the chairman of the Health Committee, and the chairman of the Health Committee on Wednesday is the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and therefore you get a little dizzy when you try to transact business with this proposition.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, it is not my desire to prolong this session, but I think sometimes when statements are made which are a little bit out of bounds they ought to be corrected.

First, Mr. President, I want to extend to our colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, our deep appreciation for his extended efforts over the last two weeks to keep this House across the building in order. We do appreciate that.

When Senator Shapiro, however, says that whatever blame to be attached to the failure to have an investigation shall be attached to the Republican Senate I do not think he is quite stating the situation as it should be stated and one of his following statements is the best proof of that. Senator Shapiro stated later that the House has a resolution for a committee of its own to make this investigation.

Of course, Mr. President, there is nothing that prevents the House, if it feels an investigation is really in order from a decent, honest, practical standpoint and not a political standpoint, from making such an investigation, but the mere fact a resolution was introduced for the appointment of a joint committee is no proof of the fact such an investigation is needed. I think Mr. Shapiro well knows if such an investigation is needed the House can go ahead with its resolution and make whatever investigation it feels is necessary.

Senator Shapiro also referred to the lack of action on the part of the Senate in connection with Senate Bill No. 554, which has been referred back to committee. That is the bill which would take away from the small, undernourished children on relief the only possibility some of them have to get the nourishment which will make their later life a decent, healthful life.

Mr. President, when Senator Shapiro says we have lost, or the Commonwealth has lost, seventy thousand dollars already by the inaction of the Senate, he is making a statement for which he has no possible method of proof. He is, of course, giving figures as to the cost of giving those children milk during that period of time, but, Mr. President, that is a very short viewpoint to take because certainly we should not only be interested in those children at this time and this year, but we should take a long range viewpoint and it is a matter of medical proof that milk is one of the best foods, particularly for undernourished children, and it is also a matter of medical proof that children who are undernourished are more apt to be susceptible to tuberculosis and other diseases of that kind.

Considering what the cost might be, Mr. President, if we were to take away from those poor little undernourished children the milk which they are receiving now through the present set-up in the Department of Pubilic Assistance, what the cost to the state might be, from a long range viewpoint, when you consider the increased number that might be in our hospitals, in our sanatoriums, because of physical conditions which developed because those youngsters were not receiving proper nourishment, then I say it is time we consider cost from a little bit different angle.

It seems so strange to me that our Democratic colleague should be so worried about the cost and expense of this part of relief, because practically all we heard during the last session was that the state ought to take care of these people who were suffering from tuberculosis, no matter what might be the cost. Now, I agree with that, Mr. President, but I also say if we agree with that and accept that as the truth, that we should take care of those people who are suffering from tuberculosis, no matter what the cost, it seems to me it follows without the necessity for much though, that anything that we can do to take care of these people before they contract tuberculosis, and anything we can do to keep those little children in good health so that they may have normal lives, is cheap, no matter what might be the cost.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I rise reluctantly to take exception to the remarks of my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Doctor Woodward, who has taken exception to the so-called miners' hospitals. We in the anthracite region look with great favor and feel complimented that the Legislature some years ago saw fit to establish those so-called miners' hospitals and I have talked with the distinguished Senator from Philadelphia on several occasions personally in regard to the problem. I just wish to state I am confident, and I might add I have in my own senatorial district two so-called miners' hospitals, and I know for a fact they are serving the purpose they were intended to serve at the time they were instituted.

Now, Mr. President, I want to follow through with regard to the resolution as brought up by the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, and say I am likewise confident this recolution was motivated purely through politics, and I further state if there is to be an investigation, which I have every reason to believe there will be, I feel that the Senate of Pennsylvania should be represented or that investigating committee, and further if this resolution comes to a vote on this Senate floor my vote will be recorded in the affirmative.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in 1933, when I first came to the Senate I recall sitting in the back seat, the very last seat, near the rail, and I was engaged busily one night in reading bills and making notes and one of the esteemed gentlemen of the Senate came and looked over my shoulder and he said, "What are you doing, Senator?" I said, "I am making some notes on these bills." He said, "You mean you read them?" I said, "Yes" He said, "You read all of them?" and I said, "Yes, sir." He said, "You will get over that."

Mr. President, I thought he was probably saying something that would disillusion me, but I am glad to say this, in the seven years I have been here, or eight years, I have found that he was wrong; not only have I not gotten over reading bills but I notice a great many more Senators than ever before reading bills and making notes and finding out something about what is going on; but I also find to my utter amazement that some Senators are not either reading bills or do not even know what is going on and I am convinced one of those gentlemen just got through talking to you. He painted a very grave picture and gave you all the lurid details of what would happen in the case milk was taken away from the children and by innuendo allies me with the people who are issuing the milk and by innuendo that I am suggesting that the milk be taken away from infants.

Mr. President, the gentleman does not know whereof he speaks; the gentleman does not know that the Director of Public Assistance came to the Committee on Welfare, and in discussing this bill made this statement in response to a question which I asked, because I thought I had the facts, and he confirmed them; first, that approximately twelve dollars per month is paid out in orders, not cash, for milk by the Department of Public Assistance to certain families where milk is needed; secondly, because money is paid out on orders and not in cash, the federal government will not contribute its one half, which it usually does, of the funds given for the aid of dependent children; and third, if the federal government did contribute of that which it would contribute during the two year period, $380,000, to be exact, is the cost of the administration of that portion of the public assistance function in the way in which they are now doing it. He suggested that if the word "milk" were taken out of the definition of what is "public assistance" under the act, that milk could be given by adding to the amount of money now given to these reliefers twelve dollars and in return the federal government would give back to the Commonwealth six dollars, so that two things would be accomplished, first, the money would be saved to the state and, secondly, the milk necessary would be received and an additional factor would enter into it. As it is today, twelve dollars worth of milk is deposited on the door step of that family whether it needs it or not. Under the new arrangement whatever money would be necessary to be spent by the family for milk would be so spent and the surplus could be used for buying surplus commodities under the stamp provisions of the Surplus Commodities Act of the Federal Government.

Mr. President, the question we raised at the time and in which we were all seriously concerned was, what assurance had we that this money would be spent for milk, and I think the gentleman from Montgomery, Senator Edmonds, will recall that Mr. Russell, for whose knowledge of his department I have great admiration and respect, said they have a method of policing that by placing trustees over a family, and then we became concerned about the fact that might require a real policing job and he assurred us and gave figures which I do not recall at the moment, that there were very few families where he found it necessary to do any policing.

Now, Mr. President, when this bill came out of the committee the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, without knowing anything about the bill, suggested it should be referred back to committee for amendment and

I say and I repeat advisedly, apparently without knowing anything about it, because I am very much incensed about the way in which this bill has been batted around this Senate floor, I say it has been done for some purpose which has not yet been disclosed.

That bill went back to committee for amendment and those of you who were here recall I asked the gentleman from Allegheny to tell me how he meant to amend the bill, because the amendment only took out the word "milk", and I wanted to know whether he would take the "m" or the "k" off the word "milk' and the gentleman from Allegheny suggested when it came out of the committee I would see how it could be amended and we waited around in solemn conference, waiting for the amendment, and no amendment and no gentleman from Allegheny showed up, and so we reported the bill out unanimously and it came out on the floor and then went over in its order and after it went over in its order—we were supposed not to have any controversial business, but on Wednesday apparently after this Forum was held this bill was recommitted to the committee.

Now, Mr. President, I suggest this is a clear cut case which cannot be answered by any argument such as I have listened to today by the gentleman from Allegheny, because when he makes the statement he did that this bill will prevent the children from getting milk, that it will increase rickets and interfere with the health of children, he does not know what he is talking about That is as plainly as I can put it, because I say that seventy thousand dollars is a lot of money to waste because the Senators refuse to recognize facts and insist upon making charges.

I have heard all kinds of charges against me—I have broad shoulders and I can bear them—but I am proceeding on a proposition which I believe is right; I am conducting myself in a manner that satisfies my conscience and I say when I accept the word of the man in charge of the Department of Public Assistance that the change of this law will not only assure the children that they will get their milk but will save the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania one million six hundred thousand dollars, and stand up here to help get that bill through, I am not playing politics and I am not doing anything to the children except trying to help them better their conditions.

I have listened to that talk and I will contniue to do so, but I reserve to myself and will plainly state my opinion as to the kind of treatment this bill has received, which convinces me clearly that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, either does not know what he is talking about or he has some ulterior motive and the only reason and the only objection I can see to this bill passing is when I analyze it I find this milk today is being delivered by milk dealers, it is being delivered to the house by drivers, and I have heard rumblings in the distance that the drivers object because they lose commissions, they lose on the increased amount of milk which will go to the corner store instead of to them and that the people or dealers who sell will lose the large contracts which they have with the State Department. In my opinion that is no reason for not passing this bill.

Now, Mr. President, with respect to my being able to keep the Democratic House in order I am sorry what I have said has been so deliberately misinterpreted; I do not have to try to keep the Democratic House in order; they will take care of themselves, but what I am trying to do is to see that the body of which I am a member behaves at least like statesmen.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I can well understand why the people of Pennsylvania are becoming more disgusted every day with the lackadaisical manner in which we are conducting this session of the General Assembly. All over the state we hear rumblings of the way we are conducting ourselves during this session. We have people today who are sacrificing their liberty in order to preserve our democracy; we have people who are furnishing money to the government in order that they may make their contribution to democracy in these trying times, and we are asked to give young men for service to save this democracy, and when we consider these great sacrifices and then come back to Harrisburg, come back to the halls of this assembly, and see how we are conducting the affairs of the people, I can well understand the criticism we are receiving.

We have been here for several months, and I frankly say we have yet done very little except throw political gestures back and forth across the aisles of this Senate, and I understand that same conduct has prevailed over in the House.

While people in America are sacrificing everything today, we ought to be willing here in these halls to sacrifice a little of our political prestige in order that we may help preserve democracy. That is one of the reasons why democracy is at the crossroads today. There are too many other things that are being listed above Americanism I believe we can do our part in preserving democracy today, when we lift our conduct into the realm of Americanism, and suppress our conduct as it applies to politics at this time.

Mr. President, if there is a good bill in this Senate, if we have a bill here that will help to contribute to preserve democracy, I say we ought to be for it one hundred per cent, whether we are Democratic or whether we are Republican. I am sick and tired myself of hearing one argument along the line of Republican politics and then another on the other side along the line of Democratic politics. We are frittering away our time here today, when a great nation is at the crossroads, a great nation that is trying to raise time enough to save its democratic life.

I believe what we should do here this week is appoint a committee that will be composed of both Republicans and Democrats, have them sit down as Americans, cut out all of this chaff and tinsel that we have here on the books, and pick out the legislation that we really need, get together as Americans and not as politicians, and pass that legislation and go home and help at home to serve in the ranks, whatever they may be, in fighting any form of politics, any form of policy other than that which stands for our democratic life and existence.

Mr. President, we had a beautiful address here today on Mother. I say to you, Mr. President, a mother needs no help. Her conduct and character always stands out as sublime, and the best way we can follow our mothers is by good, honest, christian, American conduct.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, on the Calendar there is a bill, and I understand the heads of the Health and of the Welfare Departments have recommended that the people employed in those departments shall be put under civil service. Now, a bill has already come out blanketing the employes of the Health Department under civil service. and I understand another bill will be soon on the Calendar to put the employes of the Welfare Department under civil service. I just want to ask the gentleman from Allegheny if he thinks it is proper and fair to ask us to vote to blanket these people under civil service, when we know there have been certain charges filed, and those charges have not been cleared up. Would he ask us to now, in view of these charges, to vote here to blanket these people under civil service?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am not sure to which bill my colleague from Luzerne is referring. Is he referring to Senate Bill No. 550? Is so, I would highly recommend that he join in with the Republicans and vote for this bill.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr, President, may I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny further?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. MUNDY. Is the gentleman from Allegheny thoroughly acquainted with the individuals, their ability and their qualifications, who are now employed in the Health Department, so that he would be free to say these are the right people to blanket in under civil service?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am not acquainted with the employes or the officials of the Health Department, but I do know this fact, that the Department apparently has at its head Dr. Shaw, one of the most efficient and competent secretaries we have ever had in the Health Department, and from what I have heard, and that is not the record or the thought of some of us who may be possibly considered as partisan Republicans, but it is generally the opinion of the medical profession and the Medical Associations, not only of this state but of this whole country, that Pennsylvania's Health Department today stands out as No. 1 in the United States of America.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, Doctor Shaw is not under discussion. I have a great deal of regard for Doctor Shaw. He was a classmate of mine at the University of Pennsylvania, and I think he is very very capable, a very honest and a very efficient Secretary of Health, but the question I asked is, has the gentleman from Allegheny any present knowledge—I am not talking about Doctor Shaw—of the employes, and may I say to the Senator I have visited over in the Health Department and I have seen employes still retained in the Department of Health who, when we were in power, professed great loyalty and great friendship and —may I say—liberally contributed to the Democratic Party. Now, these people, I don't know whether you want to take in politics; just leave that out—I am talking about personnel and I am talking about integrity of employes. They had been retained under the Republican Administration for years, and as soon as the Republican ship went down they deserted that and came over and espoused the cause of democracy and they are still retained, and I want to say to you whether you believe in a political organization or anything else, these same people who do that once and who are that type of character will repeat again, and when democracy is in the ascendency, they will be perfectly fine loyal Democrats, but just now because you are in power they are Republicans and contribute to the Republican cause. If you want to blanket this type of people in, who have nothing substantial, no hearts, who are in reality Hessian soldiers in the political field, you can go ahead, but I shall object strenuously on the floor to blanketing this type of people in, who I say have no stability, no character, and leaving politics out of it, on a pure personal character basis, I ask whether anybody with intelligence should vote for people who have told the world, told you and me and the rest of the people of Pennsylvania "my price is simply a political job and I follow the flag of the victorious army." So, Mr. Geltz, as the majority floor leader, if you want to advocate that cause, and you of the Republican Senate want to put up with these Hessian soldiers, and put on them the badges of honor to guarantee your future you may do so. I think that sincerely and I want to say as a member of the medical profession, if you please, if you want to allow these social workers to be retained in positions, I shall not vote for the fellow who goes out on the market and sells his party for a paltry job and who may change over night.

Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny further.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated.

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, you talk about the Democrats expending money and how loudly they pleaded for expenditure of money for certain institutions. Is the Senator aware the Butler Sanatorium has been built and still stands idle and is probably allowed to stand exposed to weather conditions and will probably disintegrate and it has not yet accepted a patient and is the Senator aware that out in the City of Pittsburgh there is a great mental institution that has been constructed occupying several blocks, in which no furniture has been placed, and is the gentleman aware that every time you write to have a moron, an underdeveloped child admitted to an institution of that type you receive a stereotyped letter—all the Senators have received them—there are seventeen hundred odd on the waiting list; does the Senator from Allegheny condone such a situation, such an expenditure of money, such a loss of money?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am aware of a number of things in connection with the sanatorium and the tuberculosis situation in this state and, Mr. President, I wonder whether my colleague from Luzerne is aware of the fact that under the rating of the United States Department of Public Health, today the Pennsylvania Public Health Department has advanced Pennsylvania from fourteen on the list of states to number two at this time, in its care for tubercular patients.

I think that is quite an advance in the last two years, under Doctor Shaw's administration, and I do not know how anybody could expect a more rapid advance than that. I think that is good work, notwithstanding what anybody might say about empty buildings; there are many reasons possibly for such buildings being empty.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny is partly right and partly wrong in giving his figures. He speaks of competition in the care of tuberculars, but the Senator forgot to note that there are many many states in the union, I think probably some forty-five or fifty per cent of the states, that make no provision for the care of tubercular patients, so that really when he reads figures he is not telling the public about the lack of competition upon the part of other states.

Now, Mr. President, let me correct the gentleman. These figures start back to the time of Doctor Charles H. Miner of Wilkes-Barre, who was Secretary of Health, and the records are taken from that time and the standards are taken from that time up to the present and are not based on the fact that Pennsylvania, this great industrial state of Pennsylvania, is second in the care of its tubercular patients. We do not take any credit for being second in anything; if we have the right feeling toward the state and the proper feeling we should feel that Pennsylvania should be first and way out in front in our care of the tuberculars.

Now, Mr. President, the Senator from Allegheny does not practice medicine like some of us do who have hundreds and hundreds of tubercular patients waiting for admission to institutions, until such times as the disease progresses so far that it does not make any difference whether they go in or not and that is the situation, and I repeat Pennsylvania is not in a position today—and these figures are from statistics gleaned from men out in the field, not from a statistical bureau here at Harrisburg—Pennsylvania is not in a position to take care of the tuberculous individuals in the state and let me tell the Senator he forgets this, that we are an industrial state engaged in particular occupations which predispose to a very high rate of tuberculosis. Take, for instance, anthracosis and anthracilicosis and all those diseases; there is no state in the union so prolific of the fertile seed of tuberculosis and therefore instead of being second we should be way out in front—one plus.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I appreciate my colleague, Dr. Mundy, making such an able argument in support of Doctor Shaw's administration, and when he says Pennsylvania is the worst state in the union from the standpoint of fertility in the production of tuberculosis, and we consider also that Pennsylvania under Doctor Shaw advanced from fourteenth to second on the list I think he paid Doctor Shaw a distinct compliment.

I am also glad Senator Mundy reminded us of the fact that he practices medicine and that he is a doctor, as I am sure he can appreciate this fact in connection with the bills about which he interrogated me, the civil service bill in the Health Department; he understands, I am sure, that it is the New Deal government in Washington which insists that these departments that receive contributions from the federal government be placed under civil service or suffer a possible loss of such contributions.

Now, Mr. President, we are advised that if civil service is not established in the Department of Health as the New Deal government requests, that our Department of Health will lose contributions of $1,200,000 a year; there are several contributions—one of those contributions applies to pneumonia control, another applies to the control of venereal disease and another applies to the establishment and operation of public health centers.

I am sure Doctor Mundy, as a practicing physician, fully appreciates and realizes how important these matters are to the members of the suffering public in this Commonwealth who need that assistance, medical assistance and care they possibly could not get otherwise.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny further.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I want to say to the Senator from Allegheny that I am going to introduce on this floor, probably tomorrow, a resolution and ask for its immediate adoption, asking the Secretary of Health to furnish to this Senate, first, the number of employees on the state payroll, the number of employes on the federal payroll and the number of the employes on the state-federal payroll, so that we may be in a position to know what portion of that personnel the Federal Government has any control over.

Now, Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Allegheny whether he will object to immediate consideration of such a resolution.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not know whether Dr. Mundy is aware of the fact or not, but it would be entirely unnecessary for him to present such a resolution because there was one presented, I believe, last week, which was referred to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, it seems to me these gentlemen are out of order; they are not talking on the matter before the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Mundy, rose to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, and the gentleman from Allegheny agreed to the interrogation; that is the matter now before the Senate.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, in their remarks they have been discussing civil service, milk, welfare, health, workmen's compensation—I just cannot keep up with it.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is in the same position. Nevertheless, the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Mundy, has the floor and he desires to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz. That can only be terminated by the Senator from Allegheny declining, but the Chair does not believe he wants to do that; Senatorial courtesy insures that respect to the gentleman from Luzerne.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. I understand, Mr. President, this resolution is now resting quietly in a Senate committee and I desire to ask the Floor Leader if any consideration has been given to this resolution up to this time, over a period of ten days.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I become slightly amused at times. The resolution referred to by the gentleman from Luzerne and by myself was referred to the Committee on County Government on May 5th, which I believe was just eight days ago. After all these many weeks and week and weeks and weeks that no action has been taken in connection with matters of importance to the Commonwealth in connection with the appropriation and tax bills, such things as that to think after only eight days in which a resolution has been in committee, it is suggested by my colleague from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, and by the Minority Floor Leader, that they wonder whether that resolution is lost too.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I wonder whether the gentleman from Allegheny has considered it proper and certainly germane to the situation to get a bill out for civil service immediately from committee, covering the blanketing in of these members of the Department of Health? I understand that has not been resting in committee very long, and in order to consider this bill properly we are asking for information so that we may vote with some judgment on this question, and still that is retained. May I ask the Senator from Allegheny a very, very plain question, who is being protected; who is really being protected by holding this resolution in committee?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I have no idea who is being protected or who is being harmed, but I do say that the bill to which my colleague from Luzerne, Senator Mundy, refers, Senate Bill No. 550, was introduced in the Senate way back on the eighth of April and it has not passed yet, so I do not think the resolution has lost much time.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I will finish up by just this one interrogation. May I further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Does not the Senator from Allegheny feel that members of the Senate who ask for information, simple information from a department head, certainly should not have to wait ten days or two weeks to get such information? That information is easily obtainable and certainly ought to be on the desks of the Senators in order for them to act intelligently. How can we act intelligently without having the information? I do not think the Senator would want to wait some ten days before it is forwarded to the Department head and probably ten days more before it is given action.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, for the first time in this cross-examination I agree with my colleague from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy; I think such information should be available to the members of the Senate but I do not know that Dr. Shaw has had any request made of him to furnish or to supply such information. It seems to me that kind of feeling might operate in two ways; it might be just a little bit nicer, when the Senators want some information, if instead of making it appear as a command or a demand, it were given to the head of the department as a request, then I feel sure that if such a request was made by Dr. Mundy or any othr Senator he would make every effort to cooperate and comply with the request in the Department of Health or any other department under this administration.

Mr. MUNDY. May I make a final answer, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne may proceed.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, there is an orderly way of procedure. There is a bill introduced in an orderly fashion, followed by the Senate of Pennsylvania, we are trying to pass things in an orderly fashion through the Senate of Pennsylvania and we are not going through any side doors or back doors or around for star chamber sessions with anybody; we want to produce this open and above board on the Senate floor and fully discuss it so that the welfare of both parties will prosper and each individual will be able to decide according to the best dictates of his conscience.

And said bill having been read at length the third time

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I noticed in the Philadelphia Inquirer this morning an article written by John Cummings headed "Super Highway Extension to Philadelphia a Necessity." It reads like this:

The more you see of the Pennsylvania Turnpike the more convinced you are of the necessity of extending it eastward to Philadelphia, westward to the Ohio line. Not until these extensions are made will the superhighway fulfill its appointed destiny.

Shortly before the road was opened to the public last fall, we had a preview of it as a guest of Walter A. Jones, chairman of the Turnpike Commission. At that time they were applying the finishing touches to the tunnels, erecting traffic markers and doing a few other odds and ends. Our recent trip was the first since the pre-view party made the journey.

On the return run rain pelted down all the way from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg. There was some fog in the mountains. To the driver with some regard for the safety of himself and fellow passengers rain on the super-road is of no great consequence. High speed is unnecessary to make time. All you have to do is set a steady, reasonable pace and keep going.

The absence of cross roads, of traffic lights, the fact that the highway at no point passes through a town or village enable the driver to push on without fear of sudden danger looming immediately ahead.

Truck and passenger car drivers have learned to use the highway. It took a little time for the lesson to sink in; but it has been learned and as a result there has been a sharp decline in the number of vehicles crippled by burned-out bearings or blown-out tires.

These drivers have learned that while the average car is capable of attaining high speed it does not do to maintain the pace for a long period. They have discovered the moderate pace gets them over the road between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg at a saving of at least two hours as compared with the running time on the Lincoln Highway. And they arrive without damage to their cars.

As you enter the highway at either end an attendant gives you a booklet containing some gentle hints. For one thing you are reminded the machine you are driving has its limitations, that pushed too far something is bound to happen. When "something" happens at 80 or 90 miles an hour there isn't much that can be done save send for the undertaker.

When the highway was first thrown open to the public last fall receipts from tolls mounted rapidly and for a time the "take" was three times in excess of the amount necessary to amortize the cost of construction. With the coming of winter there was a decline in receipts. Now the traffic lanes hum with the passing cars.

You get some idea of the business upswing from the fact it has been found necessary to double the capacity of the dining and lunching establishments along the road. Operated by Howard Johnson, the Boston restaurant magnate, these places are doing nearly double the business anticipated when the road was planned.

At the eastern end the State is widening the approach to the turnpike. At the western terminus a fine four-lane highway enables the travel to continue the journey into Pittsburgh in reasonable comfort.

But the real problem is extention east to Philadelphia and west to Ohio. Preliminary plans for these extensions have been drawn; the State has given approval and for a time it was thought work would start this summer.

In Washington, however, they have decided that further construction must be held in abeyance because of national defense. This seems like a paradox, for army engineers term the turnpike an important link in the defense transportation system.

It is their well-founded contention that a high speed highway linking the heavy industries of Pittsburgh with the Navy Yard and the Port of Philadelphia is a necessary part of the defense effort.

The other viewpoint holds that materials, concrete and steel, and the manpower necessary for construction, cannot be spared at this time.

The probable truth is that extension of the highway is one of the "cushions" Washington has in mind for the let-down at the end of the defense drive. It seems the planners are busy thinking up projects of a public nature which, it is anticipated, will keep the wheels of industry moving after all defense needs have been satisfied.

Originally Jesse Jones' RFC put up some $43,000,000 for construction of the highway. Jones, ever on the alert, sold the bonds to private bankers at a profit to the Government of $1,000,000.

It will take a full year of operation to form an adequate estimate of what may be expected in the way of financial return. As it stands today the road has demonstrated its ability to take care of itself. Over its smooth surface and through its seven tunnels thousands of cars pass daily. Eventually it will get to Philadelphia. The fact that it is not now headed in that direction is another of those things which you may charge against Herr Hitler

Mr. President, I also have before me an article written by Robert Taylor of the Pittsburgh Press, on April 7th, and I would ask permission that the two articles be printed in the record.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the request is granted.

Harrisburg, April 7—Pennsylvania's new super-highway between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg today was believed headed for a safety record as one of America's safest highways, as well as the fastest.

During the five winter months, which normally account for the peak in traffic fatalities, 10 motorists were killed on the Turnpike. The travel mileage during the same period was estimated at 98 million miles.

That record was compiled during the most dangerous months of the year, when the extra hazards of snow and ice are present on all mountain highways, and at a time when there was no speed limit on the super-highway.

Mileage Increases

The five-months period covered by the data is from Oct. 1 to Feb. 28. Since the latter date, there have been no fatalities, while the mileage traveled has increased week by week. Increased mileage and decreased accident rates during the spring and summer months are expected to enhance the super-highway's safety record.

By contrast, the national fatality rate, as shown by data of the National Safety Council, is 12 per one hundred million miles. Other fatality rates are shown as follows:

Pennsylvania	10.3 per hundred million miles
New York	9.5
Illinois	12.4
Ohio	11.
Texas	10.7
California	12.4
Michigan	11.4

The full total of reportable accidents on the super-highway between the period of Oct. 1 and March 1 is shown as 258 accidents, 93 personal injuries and 10 deaths. There were no accidents involving pedestrians, who are barred from the toll highway and kept from the right-of-way by steel fencing.

Available data on accidents on Route No. 22, the William Penn Highway, between the city limits of Pittsburgh and Harrisburg are for the full year of 1940 and show 871 reportable accidents, 41 motorists killed and four pedestrians killed. The route covered by the data is about 70 miles longer than the 160 miles of the super-highway.

33 Killed on Two Routes

Data for the Lincoln Highway (Route No. 30) and Carlisle Pike (Route No. 11) between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, for the full year of 1940, show 965 accidents. 33 motorists killed and 13 pedestrians killed. Motorists must use parts of Route No. 20 and No. 11 to enter and leave the super-highway.

Super-highway accidents were most numerous in Westmoreland, Somerset and Bedford Counties. All of the 10 fatalities to date have been in those counties, where winter driving hazards are greatest.

The William Penn Highway accidents were greatest in Westmoreland, Cambria, Mifflin and Dauphin Counties, according to state traffic figures. The Lincoln Highway's most hazardous counties are Westmoreland, Somerset and Bedford.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, some questions have been asked relative to property damages on the existing turnpike. My good friend, the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Walker, and myself were able to get a record of the progress made in the acquisition proceedings and with permission of the Senate, before we vote on this bill, I would like to read to the Senate the exact status of the Turnpike Commission relative to farm acquisitions.

There are 540 properties on which the turnpike commission, the federal agency and the property owners have agreed upon a final price for settlement. The above figure is made up as follows:

First. Deeds executed and recorded—441; Second. Deeds and checks in the field for closing—69; Third. On requisition—21. Fourth. Agreements prepared and signed by property owners—9.

There are, in addition to the 540 properties mentioned in the first paragraph, 203 properties on which petitions for viewers have been presented to the court and are now before the court for the determination of damages.

In addition, there are five Commonwealth of Pennsylvania properties on which further negotiations are to be held.

The above figures represent the acquisition status of 748 properties which are affected by turnpike right of way. Then the letter also encloses a summary of the above information, which I have just cited.

Mr. President, with respect to the bill now before us I realize that for the first year and a half this Turnpike Commission was very derelict in its duty insofar as clearing up land damage claims was concerned, for the simple reason that, as I have said here before on many occasions, the farmers were led to desperation because of the fact that their lands were divided by the turnpike right of way and they could not get from one section of their farm to another without traveling as far as eighteen miles in order to cross over into another one of their own fields. That land was beyond practical use as farm land after the turnpike went through.

Another very bad feature, Mr. President, is that as long as these damages are not settled or the final settlements are not determined upon the farmer must pay the taxes on the very land the turnpike has taken. Here is a farmer with perhaps three miles or a mile and a half or a half a mile where the turnpike runs right smack dab through the middle of his farm, and here he is paying taxes on the right of way, he is paying taxes on the very land taken from him, and therefore I wanted to amend this bill to state that there would not be any work started for additional toll roads or turnpikes because in the final analysis such roads do not belong to the people of Pennsylvania, they belong to private corporations, they belong to a private commission.

I want to predict, Mr. President, it will be many years before the commission pays all the bonds there are covering the turnpike expenses, because if you will notice on the present turnpike, they were very, very careful not to allow certain curves to be taken out, until later when they get some money. They will never give up that good thing of having toll gates at the end of their turnpike. You have the same situation here in Harrisburg. Those bridges have been built and rebuilt and built again many, many times but you still pay your nickel to get over. That is true of the turnpike and some day we will all be sorry if we keep on adding miles and miles of toll roads.

My father told me years ago the battle cry of politicians was against toll roads and here we are starting all over again, taking the steps backwards, and I say the motorist is entitled to the best roads money can build; he is entitled to them because he pays for those roads.

If the turnpike is built as a state project, owned by the state and under state supervision, it can be paid for in less than six years by taking ten million dollars a year out of the regular highway funds, which could easily be done, but no, you are going to build more turnpikes and stick your chins out; you are going to build another turnpike for Philadelphia, and then you are going to build the Rim of the Mountain Parkway and then we go up in Joe Ziesenheim's district around Erie and they want a turnpike, and then you hear of someone in New Kensington and he wants a turnpike to go through New Kensington; you are going to have turnpikes all over the place and we of the Legislature now are going to be known as turnpikers.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, in the discussion yesterday it developed that many of the farmers whose lands had been taken and for which they have not been paid, and likewise contractors who have performed work on the turnpike, had completed that work and have not been paid, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis, kindly permitted the bill to go over in its order until today in order that we might get information pertinent to those two factors.

I might say, Mr. President, I got in touch with the Turnpike Commission this morning and they very promptly and very courteously furnished me the information which I believe the Senate should have at this time before a vote on this bill is taken, and with the indulgence of the Senate I shall read two separate paragraphs bearing on those two propositions.

"The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission had 748 land cases in seven counties. Of these 557 have been settled and closed or checks are in the field for payment. Of those as to which checks are in the field for payment, some are delayed in payment due to necessary corrections of titles. The balance of the cases consisting of 191 scattered through the seven counties, are in litigation and are being disposed of as rapidly as the courts in the several counties can handle them.

"The Commission had 122 contracts for the construction of the Turnpike, 69 of which have been paid in full, 10 are not yet completed. Of the 43 remaining all have been paid in excess of ninety per cent of the amount earned and are being paid the balance as rapidly as agreements can be reached with the contractors as to the amounts due. It looks as if there might be ten or a dozen as to which agreements will not be reached and will result in claims for amount beyond that which can be admitted by the Commission to be due."

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I merely want to state that the income on the present super highway has exceeded all expectations of the Commission. The Commission has figured that it will take two and one half million dollars to finance the present highway, and they have assured me that they feel sure that the income this year will be over three million dollars.

Mr. WOODWARD. Unfortunately, Mr. President, I did not get sick yesterday, and therefore I would like to say another word. I have been handed the May copy of the State Government magazine, which the Senator from Cumberland handed to me and I was delighted with a few words here "The legislative branch determines the source from which funds are to be raised and the general purposes for which they shall be expended."

Now, of course, this super highway we had nothing to do with, but I question the creation of numerous independent officials—this Turnpike Commission—there should be a check by the Legislative branch into the efficiency and fidelity of the executive branch. Mr. President, we do not know whether the Turnpike Commission belongs to the executive branch or whether it is a plant of its own branching out without any connection with either the executive or the legislative branch.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to make clear the position of the Democratic Party on this bill. When this bill was introduced in the House it was the intention of the sponsors of the bill to avoid the considerable confusion that has arisen in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as a result of the multiplicity of inspections and the many different and conflicting requirements set up by the various localities in dealing with milk. It was the intent of the sponsors to eliminate from the existing law the provision which gives localities the right to make rules which would be inconsistent with and higher than the standard set up by the state, and by taking that out of the bill there would be one standard.

Considerable misrepresentation has been made with regard to the effect of this bill but the purpose is clear; the purpose is not to lower any standard, not to interfere or affect the health of persons using the milk, but for the purpose of setting up a uniform standard and giving the farmers relief from what has become an oppressive condition.

Now, Mr. President, this bill as amended, is supposed to have met the opposition of the objectors, which was that the milk under the amendments proposed by the Democratic Party would be injurious, because of the lower standard, to the health of children. We do not see that this bill, as amended, has established anything except to postpone a determination of that question or to allow it to remain in the hands of other people again. We think that the time has come that the Legislature should take control of this proposition by itself and to set up its own mehod of handling it and we propose, because the effect of this bill is to destroy the intention of the original sponsors of the bill, to vote against it and I shall ask my colleagues to vote against the bill.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I believe that the printer must have forgotten to print this bill and I want to give him credit because I do not think the sponsors would recognize the bill as the Moul-Woodring Bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to explain my vote by saying this bill is a step in the right direction; the bill is an improvement over the other and certainly an improvement over the Moul-Woodring Bill but I voted "no" because I do not believe the bill goes far enough in restrictions.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 316, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend clause (b) of section five of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 402, (House Bill No. 376), entitled:

An Act to amend section eight hundred sixty-five of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 872) entitled "An act to consolidate, amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth," by prohibiting the sale, exposing for sale and offering for sale of certain lubricants in a manner to deceive the purchaser.

And said bill having been read at length the third time

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this bill provides that persons who sell so-called rerefined lubricating oil shall label the containers stating that the oil sold is rerefined oil, and it is based on the contention that the sale of it otherwise is a fraud on the public.

When this bill came before the Committee, requests were made to me to give certain people in Philadelphia an opportunity to appear before the committee. They did and they showed to the committee that the use of crank case oil for rerefining purposes resulted in an oil which in many instances was even of a higher degree and character than that of virgin oil. They produced witnesses from the Federal Government, from the department of the Bureau of Standards in charge of the lubrication department and one of the witnesses, I thought, was very convincing to the committee that he was engaged in a legitimate business and was a very honorable and decent citizen trying to protect his industry. He brought out the fact that in England it was made a crime, an offense, to destroy crank case oil.

As a result of that hearing a sub-committee was appointed. It was pointed out that if this law went into effect, since you could not tell whether or not an oil had been rerefined after it was rerefined, this would give an opportunity to unscrupulous dealers to sell it without putting the notice on the can, and that as a result of that the unscrupulous dealers would get away with selling the oil without marking the container, whereas responsible respectable business men would be put under a handicap.

This sub-committee was appointed for the purpose of trying to protect that situation and it prepared an amendment which was in the bill but which was subsequently taken out. That amendment stated: "Whover stores, sells, exposes for sale or offers for sale in any manner so as to deceive or intend to deceive the purchaser any lubricating oil, lubricants, mixtures of lubricants, adulterated oils or falsely labels oils which had been once used for lubrication purposes and subsequently reclaimed, refined or reconditioned without clearly indicating or setting forth such fact on the container, pump or distributing devices used," and so on, "without first having submitted a sample thereof to the Department of Highways for inspection and approval or without labeling such oil or lubricant as reclaimed motor oil or lubricating oil shall be subject to penalties in clause F.

Now, Mr. President, it was discovered after this amendment was introduced that the Department of Highways either did not want to assume or did not have the facilities with which to make the tests that this required, so that amendmen was taken out.

However, that left these people in the same position, and I have prepared an amendment, after going into the matter, to provide that instead of having the approval of the Department of Highways, that it shall be approved by an approved laboratory, that is, a laboratory approved by the Department of Highways. That was prompted by the fact that the Department of Highways buys oil and also, by the way, buys reclaimed oil and submits it to tests by certain departments and by State College.

The amendment I propose would protect the decent business man by having this approved, approved by an approved laboratory, so that he could go to the Department of Highways and ask them whether or not they would approve State College or some other reputable organization as a laboratory for testing.

I have suggested this to one of the members of the subcommittee, but I am informed by him and I think he will say so frankly, the people who are interested in this bill object to the amendment.

AMENDMENTS OFFERED TO BILL

However, Mr. President, I am offering the amendment and I now ask unanimous consent to offer the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 402, Printer's No. 501.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I take it the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, in asking unanimous consent, is going so in order that he may present the amendment and that after he gets unanimous consent he will then present the amendment and we will have an opportunity to consider it.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. T. B. WILSON. In that event, Mr. President, I will not object to the gentleman presenting the amendments.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move immediate adoption of the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 22, by taking out the bold face bracket before the word "first", and line 24 by taking out the bold face bracket after the word "without"; amend Section 1, page 2, line 23, by striking out the words "the Department of Highways" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "to a qualified laboratory approved by the Department of Property and Supplies".

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I object.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia whether under the amendment, if the oil is submitted for laboratory test, whether it would then be necessary under the amended bill to mark the oil as being rerefined oil?

Mr. SHAPIRO. The answer is yes, Mr. President. So that I may make that clear—I see there is some confusion—I have taken out the "Department of Highways" and inserted a qualified laboratory approved by the "Department of Property and Supplies" for inspection and approval, labeling and so on—in other words, it must both be labeled and approved by the laboratory.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President. this bill has been before the Senate so often, it seems hardly necessary to say to the members of the Senate the purpose of the bill is to require those who sell reconditioned or rerefined oil to label the oil so that the purchaser will know he is not getting new oil but oil that has been used and reconditioned. It is true, as the gentleman from Philadelphia says, that a sub-committee of the committee on Judiciary General of the Senate made a very serious effort to try to comply and meet the wishes of the gentleman from Philadelphia and those who appeared before the committee, by providing a method by which oil could be investigated.

When we went to the Highway Department with this matter the Highway Department pointed out that not only did they have no facilities to pass upon reconditioned oil which would be presented to the Highway Department but that it was not a governmental function to pass on merchandise and put people who sell it in the condition that they could advertise that this was merchandise approved by a certain department of the state government. It is not the business of any of the functions of the different departments of the State of Pennsylvania to direct people who sell merchandise to submit it to a certain laboratory or to approve the laboratory to which they would submit it.

The gentleman from Philadelphia has been very anxious and I think he will agree that the sub-committee of the Committee on Judiciary General and the Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary General made every effort to see if we could not reach an agreement upon that phase of the bill, but the Committee on Judiciary General was unable to do so and the bill went back and we were of the opinion what we desired at that time was to require those who sell reconditioned oil or rerefined oil to let the purchaser of that oil know he was buying oil that had been used.

This other proposition, Mr. President, is a merchandising proposition; it is a proposition to put the people who sell oil in a position where they can advertise that they are selling an oil that has been analyzed and examined by a laboratory which has been approved by a department of the government of the State of Pennsylvania.

It is true, as the Senator says, that there is some oil that is reconditioned and rerefined and made into a pretty fair oil. It is also true on the roads of this Commonwealth they are selling oil that has only been run through Fuller's earth and some of it has been run through hardly more than a pocket handkerchief and sold to the public, who think they are buying new oil.

The bill does not go far enough. The oil industry and the persons who sell this oil in good faith and with proper safeguards, should say to the man who buys this oil—this oil you are buying is a reconditioned or rerefined oil—but the bill does not go that far. All it does is require that they give notice to the purchaser that he is buying a second hand article, an article that has been reconditioned, and the burden falls on the man who has a small car and who has a small income and who is trying to save on his lubricating oil and buys oil that he thinks is good oil and he is buying it at a small price, when as a matter of truth, he is buying oil that is very dangerous to his car.

I can not approve of this particular amendment offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia and I ask the members of the Senate to refuse to adopt the amendment and then to adopt the bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I hope the members of the Senate will not consider I am boring them or that I have any particular interest, because I do not represent anybody in particular, but I do think the people who come to meet us are entitled to consideration of their problem.

First of all, Mr. President, as the bill is at the present time it will not prevent the sale of dangerous oil; it merely provides that the man who sells re-refined oil shall say so on the package.

As I suggest in the amendment, it will do two things; first, it will prevent the sale of bad or dangerous oil and will give the seller an opportunity to protect his business by avoiding the implication that must necessarily follow by the mere statement that this oil is re-refined.

It was shown before the committee that the cost of re-refined oil exceeds that at which virgin oil can be bought. In other words, when this oil is bought after being removed from the crank shaft, it is re-refined and it comes to the distributor who buys it for retail, or jobbers or distributors, even at a cost in excess of what he can buy from any of the large oil companies for standard brands of oil.

The figures we were given will be interesting to you. The standard brands of oil sold by oil companies to you under their names are sold at from twenty-five to thirty-five cents a quart. The man who sells this re-refined oil in Philadelphia also buys tank car lots of virgin oil from the standard companies and he told the committee the oil which we buy at twenty-five cents a quart he buys in tank car lots at six and a half cents a gallon; he told the committee that the oil which we buy at thirty-five cents a quart at retail he buys from the same company at eight and a half cents a gallon; he told the committee re-refined oil he buys as high as ten and twelve cents a gallon and he gets a test, he gets a specification which permits him to sell to the government of the United States, meeting its specifications, to trucking companies and to transportation companies, all of which use re-refined oil and some of which re-refine it themselves and use it.

Now, Mr. President, with that situation it seems to me that this bill, which provides by the amendment that the oil shall not only be labeled as re-refined oil but which shall prior to that time, have been inspected by a laboratory approved by the Department of Property and Supplies, meets a situation which helps the bill and it seems to me helps the person who is in a legitimate industry. To my mind, Mr. President, this amendment does not hurt the bill, it helps it; it would help avoid just such a situation as the gentleman from McKean, said, that there are some kinds of oil, these re-refined oils, which if not properly re-refined, may be dangerous.

Under this bill there is nothing to prevent that kind of oil from being sold; it simply says it must be labeled. Under my amendment that oil would not receive approval of the laboratory. We all agreed there was justice in that position. The only reason for removing the amendment was that we found we could not impose the duty upon the department and now we are not imposing the duty on the department; we are merely saying to those men, you go to the Department of Property and Supplies and say to them, what do you say is an approved laboratory, and then this man goes to that laboratory and gets his test and he does not have to have it approved by the Department of Highways; there is nothing in the bill which authorizes him to say that, or by the Department of Property and Supplies; it simply says re-refined and approved by laboratory "x", and I think that is a perfectly legitimate amendment in a bill of this kind.

Remember, Mr. President, this is an amendment to the penal code and makes attempts at fraud a crime. There is no fraud in the sale of re-refined oil and we may some day have legislation here similar to that which they have in England which is that crank case oil shall not be destroyed but it shall be re-refined, and properly so, and it seems to me this bill ought to have the approval of the Senate.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia says he does not want to prolong this discussion but the thing which he attempts to do by this amendment is to have the oil analyzed and put a man in a position where he can advertise it. Any person who sells re-refined or re-conditioned oil, may have it analyzed. The only thing this will do will be to put him in shape so he can say, this has been analyzed by a laboratory picked out by one of the Departments of the State of Pennsylvania, and that is an advertising proposition entirely. Any dealer who wishes to have his oil analyzed by a laboratory can have it analyzed and he can so advertise on his cans, but the only thing in this amendment is that he is required to have it analyzed by a laboratory approved by a department of the state and that is absolutely outside of any function of the government of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I was going to ask that this bill be placed on the postponed Calendar but I am not going to make that motion. I am going to vote "present" on the bill.

I think this is a very bad bill and I do not think we are ready yet to ask some gentleman who has a new car and comes along to have it filled with supposedly good oil, filled with oil that has been drained from crank cases of cars perhaps in which the bearings were burned, and in my estimation you will neither be fair to the car or have a good oil and to me it seems a ridiculous waste of time. and if you are going to do anything with the oil we should label it in such a way that some man with a good car would not attempt to use it in his car.

I might also say I get half a cent a gallon for reconditioned oil.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. GELTZ. I object, Mr. President, and ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GELTZ and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—13

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 346, entitled:

be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Majority Floor Leader the reason for the motion.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, there seems to be some question in the minds of some of the members of the Senate as to the wording in Senate Bill No. 502, as well as in one of the bills which went over in order on third reading, as to whether or not there is adequate protection for intervening liens, and we want to have both of these bills go back to the Committee on Municipal Government so that they can be thoroughly examined by those who are expert in that line, to make sure that some slip is not made.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to suggest to the gentleman that Senate Bill 502 has a clause saving intervening rights; that is the one thing I looked for in the bill and this is one of the bills that save intervening rights.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, may I say I was advised by a title lawyer whose reputation is extensive, that there was a similar bill to this that had been passed five or six years ago in the same language, and that when this bill came before our Superior Court the Superior Court held that it made a tax lien superior to a first mortgage that had been recorded prior to the imposition of the tax. We were anxious to avoid any possibility that this might result from the language of this bill, and that is the reason why not only this bill but also the other bill, are being returned to the committee for further study.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to call attention to the fact that this bill reads as follows: "Provided, however, That the lien of any such claim or judgment shall not attach or reattach against any real estate transferred to any purchaser before such claim is filed."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I am told the language in a similar case was construed by the Superior Court, which held a tax lien was made prior to a first mortgage, and we want to be sure in this bill at any rate we are not mistaken.

And the motion recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 555, on second reading, entitled:

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

L. 764), entitled, "An act authorizing suits brought to recover in case of accidents in this Commonwealth in courts of common pleas to be certified to the Workmen's Compensation Board when discovered that suit has been brought wrongfully," extending said act to cases heretofore or hereafter so brought in any court of record; and defining the legal effect of such certifications

Section 404.1 Exchange of Retail Dispenser's License for Liquor License Notwithstanding any other provision of this act any hotel eating place restaurant or club holding a retail dispenser's license under the provisions of the "Beverage License Law" approved the third day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. After a license has been issued to any applicant under this section such applicant shall be entitled to the same privileges and subject to the same restrictions as other holders of liquor licenses under the provisions of this act

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Yes, Mr. President,

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Fayette explain the purpose of the paragraph on page 4, beginning at line 10 and ending on line 13.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Blair read the portion to which he refers.

Mr. MALLERY. "No laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania limiting the number of liquor licenses which may be granted by the board shall be construed so as to prevent the issuance of a liquor license under this section.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, that part of the bill is intended to give the board the authority which they now say they believe they do not have. If the holder of a beverage license is within the quota, that is, if he holds a legitimate license under the quota and wishes to surrender that license and asks for a liquor license the board has taken the position that he must apply as an original applicant and if the quota in that particular municipality is filled or is exceeded he cannot receive a liquor license and it is necessary to have those words in this bill; otherwise the board will still want to follow or pursue its ruling. As I stated, if a man does have a beverage license and wishes to surrender it or change it for a liquor license, if the quota is filled or the quota is in excess of that allowed by the quota law, the board will not change that license for this man that holds a beverage license.

Mr. MALLERY. I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette further, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MALLERY. Is it not a fact that this section of this act in effect nullifies the quota law we enacted sometime ago.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. No, Mr. President, it does not, because if you will read on further it says it applies only to this particular section where a beverage license is turned in and compliance is made with the liquor law; it is not general but applies just to this particular section.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Fayette, if in a particular case or in a particular locality.——

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Give me an example.

Mr. MALLERY. The liquor licenses are up to the quota and the holder of a beer license desires to exchange that license for a liquor license; this bill would permit that to be done?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. If he surrenders his beer license, Mr. President, yes.

Mr. MALLERY. Well then, Mr. President, the licensees having liquor licenses would then exceed the present law as regards quota.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. No. Mr. President, because he must surrender his beer license, beverage license, in order that he may get a liquor license. The gentleman from Blair will note the courts have held that the quota laws apply to beverage and liquor licenses combined. Here is a municipality, say, under the quota law, which is entitled to ten licenses and those ten licenses can be beverage licenses and liquor licenses combined; they may be three beverage and seven liquor licenses or seven beverage and three liquor licenses; but the beer licenses must be counted as a license under the quota law.

Mr. MALLERY. And this bill, Mr. President, would not permit the licensing of delicatessen stores that now have beer licenses.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. They could not be licensed now under the beverage law, Mr. President, or under the liquor law.

Mr. MALLERY. Because they would not be able to qualify under the intent of the act, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. That is correct, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, xiz:

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 714, entitled:

An Act to further amend section fifteen of the act, approved the eleventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 522), entitled "An act relating to dogs, and the protection of live stock and poultry from damage by dogs; providing for the licensing of dogs by the Secretary of Agriculture; providing for the enumeration of dogs by assessors; regulating the keeping of dogs, and authorizing their destruction in certain cases; providing for the protection of licensed dogs, and for dogs temporarily imported for trial, show, and breeding purposes; prescribing certain privileges for hunting dogs, and dogs owned or used by the Board of Game Commission; providing for the assessment of damages done to live stock and poultry by dogs, and for the illegal killing of licensed dogs, and the payment of such damages by the Commonwealth; imposing powers and duties on certain State, county, city, borough, town, and township officers and employes; directing the payment of all moneys collected into the State Treasury; and making an appropriation thereof; and providing penalties," by providing for the return of a portion of moneys received for licenses to the counties for use by Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and specifically appropriating the same for such purpose.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I simply wish to remind the Senate that this bill requires a two-thirds vote because Article 3, Section 17, provides that the Commonwealth shall not appropriate money to any private charitable organization and of course this society comes under that heading. Therefore, if the Senate wishes to approve this bill there must be a two-thirds vote.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I have given a great deal of thought to the purpose of this bill, largely because of my great respect for the gentleman from Lycoming, who has introduced it and who has argued for it very strenuously, but I am compelled to say that in my judgment this is poor legislation; it proposes to take a certain portion of the dog license money and turn it over to a private charity in each community.

I would like very much to see state money go for all good purposes that exist, but I am not willing to see state appropriations for good purposes increased when we are doing so many of the purposes on the regular program of the state so poorly at the present time. We pay hospitals that have a free service on the basis of fifty-one per cent of what they are entitled to and I would like to see that increased to one hundred per cent, and I would like to see that done before we pick out another group of charities and decide we will put them on the program of the state.

The fact of the matter is, Mr. President, that the state program cannot stand doing all the good these individuals would like to see done and therefore, as this is an extension and I think an extension that at the present time has no particular merit in back of it, outside of the general merit of the S.P.C. proposition, I am compelled to vote against this bill.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 714, on third reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 733, (House Bill No. 1087), as follows:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Clause (2) of Section 3 of the act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. Gracious God, give us windows in our hearts that open toward Thee. With all our getting help us to get wisdom; with all our seeing help us to see truth; and with all our doing help us to be doers for Thee. May the world be not so much with us that we shall not seek for fuller satisfaction in Thee. May no earthly friendships be so dear that we shall cease to long for Thee, the best friend of all. If aught of our earthly goods comes between us and our hunger for Thee, make us poorer in possessions that we may be richer in Thee. Amen.
